It is a positive cure for syphilitic poisoning, ulcers, eruptions and pimples. It purifies the whole system and thoroughly builds up the constitution.

How Can Parents

allow their children to cough and strain and cough and calmly say, "Oh it's only a cold," and keep giving them cheap and dangerous medicines until they are down with lung fever or consumption, when they can be so easily relieved by BEGGS' CHERRY COUGH SYRUP? It has no superior, and few equals. Geo. L. Blackman, druggist.

Caution to Mothers.

Every mother is cautioned against giving her child laudanum or paregoric; it creates an unnatural craving for stimulants which kills the mind or the child. Acker's Baby Soother is specially prepared to benefit children and cure their pains. It is harmless and contains no opium or morphine. Sold by Foshay & Mason.

Nipped in the Bud.

He has been missing since Tuesday and the door of his room was broken open to-day, revealing him dead in the bed. A hypodermic injector lying beside him indicated the probable cause of his death. He was a morphine fiend and it is supposed an overdose was taken which killed him. Deceased was 38 years of age.

EXCITEMENT IN TEXAS

Over the Shooting of Two Mexican Policemen at El Paso.

EL PASO, (Texas), March 29.—There is considerable excitement over the shooting of two Mexican policemen at El Paso del Norte last night by two Americans whom the police attempted to arrest for boisterous conduct. The Americans escaped to this city by swimming the river. One of the policemen is dead and the other is badly wounded.

THE WHITE CAPS.

One of Their Horrible Methods of Intimidation.

ELM GROVE (W. Va.), March 26.—There has been a great deal of excitement in this community during the past few days, growing out of the horrible and business like White Cap warning received by two well known citizens of the town. A week ago last Friday Fred Hartlieb, proprietor of the Stone House Hotel, received a box by express, which had been shipped from some way station on the Baltimore and Ohio road. Hartlieb opened the box, and was paralyzed by its contents. Inside was a pair of human ears, two big toes, the second finger of a man and a piece of human cuticle about four inches square on which was scrwled a warning to leave the place at once. Hartlieb said nothing to his friends, but he and his wife were about frightened to death, and since then up to last Saturday he has been standing guard over his premises with a rifle while his wife slept. Matters drifted along until Saturday night, when a bundle of hickory switches were hung on Hartlieb's doorknob, and a paper posted up again warning him to leave. A like warning and a bunch of switches were likewise left at the home of Anthony Smith. The excitement has been growing ever since.

WASHINGTON'S SWORD.

How it Was Obtained on a Trip Around Long Island.

A sword alleged to have been presented by General Washington to the chief of the Montauk tribe of Indians was stolen from Sylvanus White Wortman, a resident of East New York, eighteen years ago. It had been presented to Mr. Wortman by then chief of the tribe while Mr. Wortman was making a tour of Long Island in a wheelbarrow. The Sun of that date, in describing the tour, said:

"Sylvanus White Wortman, better known as Vene Wortman, one day last week hoed up Hiriam Woodruff's wheelbarrow behind his trotter Katty, and after a dash, about East New York, wound up in Flatlands. There a wager was made of $500 to $250 that he could not drive around the island in his rig within forty days, he to depend on the hospitality of the islanders and not to allow any repairs to be made to his turnout, excepting those which he made for himself. According to the terms of the wager he was also to carry a cat and duck with him. Vene accepted the wager and started off on his trip."

Every day's journey was described and the names of the persons who entertained him were given. "On reaching Montauk," the report continues, "Vene met a delegation of Montauks as he neared the village. The Indians feared that he was coming to carry away some of their land in a wheelbarrow. When he satisfied them that he was only on fun and pleasure bent they received him into their camp. There he met with an aged chief, who was a sufferer with asthma. Vene prescribed a cure, and in return, he pledged his word that the prescription would prove effective, the chief gave him an old book and a sword saying as he handed him the sword, "That was given to us by General Washington."

The report, after describing how the farmers pitched cents to decide who should have the honor of entertaining Mr. Wortman, continues:

"On reaching Flushing he was arrested, but allowed to go free on his own recognizance. The Constable entertained him. His homeward journey was a jolly one. Passing through Hunter's point he struck Williamsburg, and made haste to reach Johnny Wild's." While he was surrounded by a crowd at George Cable's, Bedford and Putnam avenues, "some person," the reporter continued, "stole George Washington's sword." Mr. Wortman, after recovering from the trip, made unsuccessful search for the stolen sword and offered rewards for it, but in vain.

The other day a Sun reporter saw the ancient blade. It is now in the possession of Louis Blum of 383 Broadway, Williamsburg. Its worn, undressed leather scabbard is wound with white, red and blue silk ribbons. The wooden handle is split, and the brass bands about it are loosened.

"I came into possession of the sword," Mr. Blum said, "about eighteen years ago. I was then about 8 years old and was Lieutenant of the Young Rooster Guard. I wanted a sword and spoke to a friend about it, knowing he had one. He gave the sword to me saying: "That's got a history and don't you forget it."

Mr. Blum convinced the reporter from facts within his knowledge to the way in which his friend got the sword, that the weapon was the one stolen, partly in fun, from Mr. Wortman. The cat and duck which Mr. Wortman took with him were killed by accidents.

COMING SATURDAY NIGHT.

The Earle Bros. musical comedy company is billed for Saturday night, March 30, at the opera house. They have completed a tour of the Sound country and are now working south en route to Australia. They have been well received, and given good satisfaction, as is shown by the many flattering notices bestowed on them by the public and the press. Speaking of them, the Victoria, B. C., Evening Times says: "They succeeded in entertaining the audience very well."

Their instrumental solos are far above what was expected—Sunday Review.

A truly artistic performance, utterly devoid of any approach to vulgarity; on the whole, more than pleasing. Mr. Earle's elaborate rendition of the heavy cornet solos of Levy, Liberatte and Arbuckle show a close and persistent study, and years of practice. [Above appeared in St. Paul Globe during the performance at Rice Park.]

Speaking of Messrs. Theo and Allan Earle, the New York Music and Drama says: "The classic solos given were well worthy of the enthusiastic applause they received.

In responding to repeated encores, Will Earle introduced some hard-hitting local hits in his very successful song "Now isn't that awfully queer." For a young man he possesses rare histrionic ability.—Review.

"Lack of space prevents us from saying more than "very good and pleasing."—Leader.

COCOON RAISING.

Annual Report of the Woman's Silk Culture Convention.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The report of the president and treasurer of the Woman's Silk Culture Association for the past year to the commissioner of agriculture has been printed. Mrs. John Lucas is president. It says: To the intelligent observer the rapid progress of this industry is impossible. Orchards of mulberry trees must be grown to perfection that will admit of the picking of the leaves before the first real start can begin to the industry. During the past few years much of the work has been of a dilatory character, yet leading to great results, and even with a few trees people have been learning to raise cocoons, and tree planting is becoming a systemized effort. Until this is general no increase of production will occur.

The United States could, in a very short time, raise not only its own silk, but much more, and this once accomplished, at least $50,000,000 per annum would be gained. Yet the protection of a few raises a hue and cry against this industry, though there is no reason climatic or otherwise, why it could not be successfully planted.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. H. P. Taylor, shows that during the year nearly 25,000 cocoons were bought of 168 persons in Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. There were distributed to 2686 mulberry trees, in nineteen states, as follows: Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachussets, Michigan Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Iowa, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.
