O. & C. H. R. TIME TABLE

Table with columns for North Bound, South Bound, and Oregon Pacific Time Table, listing departure and arrival times for various routes.

ARRIVES ABOUT TOWN. The circus Friday. Al. Herren has been appointed...

Mormon elders are proselyting in Lassen county, near the Shasta line.

Lak county has paid out since last October for bounties on scalps $2496.

L. H. Montanye is erecting a neat residence on his lots near the college.

Marion county viewers will go to Stayton on the 18th to make estimates for the construction of a bridge there.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the Citizens' National Bank of Spokane Falls, W. T., to commence business with a capital of $150,000.

A. J. Crabb, formerly of Shedd, an old resident of Linn county, fell down a stairway at Wallula a few days ago and broke his neck.

An advertisement for bids for furnishing the material and the construction of the Albany street railway will be found in our advertising columns this morning.

A force of workmen are now engaged repairing the bridges on the eastward line of the Oregon Pacific, and putting the road in condition for the summer's work further eastward.

The Salvation Army, after a two years' siege in their efforts to reform the wicked in this city, have packed their Saratoga, base drum and cymbals and left for more appreciative fields.

While working on a barn in this city yesterday Charles Howlen slipped and fell to the ground, dislocating his shoulder.

Daniel Sonneborn has begun suit against the Portland railroad company, for $15,000 damages for injuries sustained from one of the company's trains while engaged in sawing wood along the line.

The W. V. & C. M. wagon road across the mountains is now reported open for travel.

John Leedy is making arrangements to start a saw-mill on the line of the Oregon Pacific near the summit of the Cascade mountains, for the purpose of sawing bridge timbers for the railroad work this summer.

The work on L. Senders' new bricks on Ferry street has been commenced by J. C. Schell, the contractor. There will be three of them.

F. M. Miller, of Lebanon, has secured a strong petition of citizens of Linn county for the position of district pension examiner.

Superintendent Bowen, of the Oregon Pacific, is in the city.

J. L. Ingram has returned from a three month's trip to Mexico. He says there is no place like Oregon.

Some complaints are being made by water consumers on very high grounds, viz: That a portion of the water supply is at present taken from the Calopooia, instead of entirely from the Santiam canal.

The Calopooia water is not fit to use, and is made absolutely filthy by the sewers and slaughter house refuse which is emptied into it.

No doubt when the new pumps are put in use the trouble will be corrected, but it ought not to exist now.

The water of the Calopooia, where it is taken out, is wholly unfit for household use, and is impure enough to breed any kind of disease.

This matter ought to be looked after and corrected.

Residence Property sold. Messrs. Curran & Monteith sold yesterday to J. P. Galbraith 6 acres owned by S. W. Crowder near the city for $4000.

They also sold to Geo. F. Simpson the house and lot of F. L. Such on Fifth and Baker streets for $4500.

Mr. Galbraith, who is one of the woolen mills company, will make of the property purchased a fine suburban home.

Bids for Street Cars. The bids for the street car line were not opened yesterday, but the first lot of comb honey ever received in town was opened by the Willamette Packing Co. yesterday.

THE WOOLEN MILLS.

The Contracts All Complete—$10,000 Worth of Machinery Now Here.

Another lot of machinery for the woolen mills arrived in this city yesterday. There was 27,000 pounds of it, and the freight from Worcester, Mass., amounted to $523.

The value of this lot is about $5000, which added to the shipment received several days ago, makes $10,000 worth of new machinery that has been received for the Albany Woolen Mills, and which will be added to the Brownsville mills plant and will be put in operation here before the close of the year.

Messrs. J. M. Moyer and J. P. Galbraith, who have been in the city for a day or two met with the committee of citizens at the office of Curran & Monteith last evening.

When the contracts were completed guaranteeing the subsidy of $25,000 for the removal of the mills here, furnishing the necessary water power, etc., and as soon as plans can be furnished for the buildings contracts will be let and the work will go forward.

The company propose to push the erection of the mills vigorously and have them in operation before the close of the year.

The woolen mills, coupled with the street railway, ice works, the construction of the Oregon Pacific railroad and other public enterprises on foot here, are giving a stimulus to business never attained before, and the causes are such that it will be a permanent growth.

MONGOLIAN PHEASANTS.

They'll Soon Drive the Cattle off the Range, and Take Possession of the Barnyard.

Dr. Harry Lane, superintendent of the insane asylum, has been playing taxidermist with an Oregonian reporter, and has been stuffing him on the Chinese pheasant question.

A great many Portland people are terribly excited about these birds, and magnify everything told about them. The fact is, there is very little heard of them around here, but this is what the reporter credits to the genial doctor.

Dr. Harry Lane, superintendent of the state insane asylum at Salem says that Mongolian pheasants are quite numerous on the grounds of the asylum, and all around the outskirts of town.

He says they increase with great rapidity, and there seemed to be twenty-five now where there was one last year. "Doc" thinks they have come to stay, for they are sly, cunning birds, very difficult to shoot, in fact they are a very fly bird.

In driving out into country, the pheasants can be seen in nearly every field. The males flap their wings and crow like young roosters and they venture boldly into barnyards and whip any ordinary dung-hill cock in a fair fight.

If all that is told concerning these birds is true they will afford lots of sport. They appear to have furnished considerable sport already, for, according to all accounts, they are shot openly, despite the law, in many places.

They are more numerous in Linn county where they were originally turned loose after their importation than in any other portion of the state.

Big Delegation. Albany was well represented in this city yesterday, socially, professionally and politically.

Among those who had business in the supreme court and before Judge Boise, the following were recognized: H. H. Hewitt, district attorney; Capt. N. B. Humphrey, County Judge D. R. Blackburn, J. K. Weatherford, C. E. Wolverton, Marshal Hoffman, V. Parker, B. F. Tabler, L. W. Deyoe, F. M. French and C. G. Burkhardt.

They brought Marshal Hoffman along because of his handsome uniform, which would go far toward intimating that they came from a good sized city, but the way Cap. Humphrey stood and stared at the street cars and other evidences of city life here gave the whole thing away.

Salem Statesman. If the city editor of the Statesman should come up to Albany about July 1st, he will see a genuine street car line in operation and see what a real live city looks like.

If he should be afraid of getting lost in the city that same marshal in his handsome uniform would take pleasure in showing him the sights.

Cap. Humphrey says he looked for the Salem street cars for some time, and finally had to use a field glass in order to see them at all, they are so small.

The Corvallis Revolt. Major W. A. Jones, of the United States engineer corps, who has been at Corvallis, where he spent over a week supervising the work on the revolt, said the river is so low that the snag boat Willamette is unable to carry stone from the quarry, at the mouth of the Luckiamute, to Corvallis, a distance of twenty-five miles.

The Willamette will at once begin to make a channel to facilitate its passage. In the meantime stone will be hauled in wagons from the neighborhood to the revoltment.

Major Jones says the $14,000 appropriation will finish the work in good shape, with stone, instead of brush, on which he based his estimate.

How to Prevent It. The barnyard editor of the Astorian is responsible for the following: "A Young's river chicken raiser says he has devised a way of preventing chickens from scratching up his garden.

He crosses the long legged Brahmas with the short legged Bantams, and the result is a new breed of fowls with one long leg and one short leg. When they raise their leg to scratch they lose their balance and come to grief. After a few demoralizing attempts they desist."
