JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

John Morrison has new potatoes in his garden in this city large enough to use. John A. Crawford expects to put a full roller process in the Magnolia flouring mills.

D. C. Holt, of Harrisburg, has purchased of J. A. Beard a half interest in his drug store at Lebanon. F. L. Kenton has just received a fresh stock of fine candy, including choice hand made creams, French mixed, etc.

F. H. Pfeiffer has found his soda business increasing so fast that he has been compelled to add new machinery for the same. He received yesterday a $250 generator. The great number of wagons seen coming out of Knapp Burrell & Co.'s agricultural establishment is conclusive evidence that the Bain wagon is in the lead of all other wagons.

John Dieringer has purchased of W. C. Smith, of Halsey, 60 head of beef cattle. They are all stall fed and are the finest drove of beef cattle ever brought to a meat market in this city.

The post and corps of Lebanon will give an old campfire entertainment at Union Hall on the evening of April 30th, the centennial of the inauguration George Washington as president of the United States.

Guy M. Powers is again at his old position as night watchman on the Oregon Pacific line of boats, he having been for the past four months attending the Holmes' business college at Portland. He is on the N. S. Bentley.

It was incorrectly stated in the report of the marriage of Mr. Elmer Samuels and Miss Birdie Thompson that the ceremony was performed by Rev. E. R. Prichard. The bride's father, Rev. E. J. Thompson, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Mr. Prichard. The passenger trains of the Oregon Pacific are now pulled over and back by a new locomotive that is new in this service, but not on the road. It is engine No. 3, all overhauled and repainted, being one of the first ever put on the road. Ed. Ford is at the throttle and says "she is a daisy."

PERSONAL MENTION. Dr. G. W. Gray and son left yesterday for Waitsburg, W. T., going for the benefit of the latter's health. Mr. Fred and George McCoy arrived in this city yesterday from W. T. in response to a telegram announcing the death of their father. James Keirns, the popular and genial farmer employed by Conrad Meyer, will leave to-day for a three week's trip to the Sound and to San Francisco.

Indian Agent Coffey Indicted. The United States grand jury has reported a true bill against B. Coffey, Indian agent at the Umatilla reservation in Eastern Oregon, charging him with embezzlement of government funds. The indictment charges that on the 29th of last September the agent had under his control $300 in cash, of public money, and on that day he converted to his own use, by fraudulent means, the whole amount. On the 2d of October following, he had $100 of public money in his charge, and appropriated $10 to his personal benefit. November 19 he had $200 in cash and took the whole amount. November 30 following, he took $90 more, and on September 30, 1887, having $300 of government money, he kept $142 in his own pocket.

YOUNG AND THE AGED.

All Respond to the Call When the Death Angel Hovers O'er. We have been called upon for the last few days to announce the rapidly decimating of the ranks of the aged pioneers of the country. The duty has also fallen upon us to record the death of those in their strong and active manhood, and now we are reluctantly and sorrowfully taking up the burden of recording the passing away from human cognizance bright, beautiful infancy. But yesterday in our neighbor's yard two active little boys were sporting, in all the healthy frolicsome fun of intellectual and physical vigor beautiful to look upon. To-day one of them has answered the summons that sooner or later comes to all, and the one lonely mate is left, and we must record: Died, at his parents' home in Albany on Friday, April 26, 1889, Roy, youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Wallace, aged four years and six months. The funeral will occur from the family residence at 1 p. m. to-day.

ANOTHER FINE BUSINESS BLOCK.

A Company Being Organized to Build a Four Story Hotel and Stores. Steps are being taken for the organization of a company composed of prominent business men of this city for the purpose of erecting a four story brick hotel, with rooms for several good stores on the ground floor. The location has not yet been fully determined, but it will be between Broad and Ferry streets, either on First, Second or Third streets. The company will be organized with a capital stock of $50,000. The promoters of the enterprise state that they mean business and that the stock will be taken by about twenty-five men within a few days. It will be a building that will be credit to Albany.

THE REAPER DEATH.

Again the inevitable summons comes, and another one of Linn county's most estimable and energetic citizens answers the call. Thurston Davidson died very suddenly at his residence near Shedd on Thursday night, April 25, 1889. His death was a most appalling shock to his family, relatives and the community in which he lived, and will be received with great sorrow throughout the county, as he was well known and highly esteemed. Just in the prime of life, being 37 years of age, successful and active in business, the owner and able manager of one of the finest farms in the county, living in an elegant home, with a cherished and idolized family, consisting of a wife and two children, he answers the call of the death angel and resigns all to pass to that bourne whither all human beings must pass. His father and mother, who reside in Halsey, were present at the close of life. Two brothers, Wm. M. and Theodore B. Davidson, are well known and well to do citizens of Linn county. The funeral will occur to-day, and probably be conducted by Oak Plain Grange, of which he was an honored member. A useful citizen is gone, but his upright virtues and many fine life will stand in memory as a bright and lasting example of goodness and thrift.

Death of John Merrill. John Merrill, a resident of Fox Valley, died there on Friday morning. Mr. Merrill had just made final proof on his land claim there on the day of his death. He was a representative of the men who made the Union respected twenty-five years ago. He had suffered from a hopeless disease of the throat for a long time, and knowing it was hopeless, bore his sufferings bravely. He was throughout sustained by his faithful wife and most careful nurse, for whom, and for his young boys, the neighbors have deep sympathy in their bereavement. The funeral will take place on Saturday. "It matters little at what hour of the day The righteous fall asleep; The rest of this cold world the more of heaven; The briefer life, the more of immortality."

Died of Delirium Tremens. H. E. Morgan, who was stopping at the Waverly boarding house and had the delirium tremens resulting from a protracted spree, died from the effects of his debauch Thursday night. In his delirium he left the house and wandered about the city nearly all night, producing congestion of the lung, which was the immediate cause of his death. A coroner's jury returned a verdict accordingly. Morgan was a married man, aged about 35, and was a member of the Masonic and I. O. O. F. orders. His wife, who resides at Oaks, Dakota, was informed of his death, and his remains will probably be forwarded to that place. His wife's parents are said to be quite wealthy.

KICK AT THE O. R. & N. Salem Statesman, April 18. EDITOR STATESMAN:—Can you inform me why it is the O. R. & N. Co., in Portland, hold Salem freight ten to twelve days before sending forward to destination? Nor will they deliver up on order to the express company to bring it, claiming it is through freight. It seems by their actions they are driving and forcing what little valley trade they have to ship via Yaquina, or is it to discriminate in favor of Portland by trying to get us disgusted with San Francisco. BUSINESS. Salem, April 17, 1889.

Yaquina Bay. Fifteen hundred dollars will buy one hundred feet of water front, between Fall street and the Bay View House, Newport. Address Lock Box 18 Newport, Oregon.

STATE DISPATCHES.

Jack Dempsey Arrives in Portland—A Workman's Fatal Fall

Special to the Herald. PORTLAND, April 26.—Among notables who arrived here this morning from the east was Jack Dempsey, the well known pugilist, with a reputation on two continents. The Herald reporter lost an hour and a half's time chasing him from one place to another, but Dempsey proved to be something like the historical flea, because when your reporter thought he had him the notable was gone. David Campbell said Dempsey is looking in fine condition, and was to have left this afternoon for California on a sparring tour with Denny Costigan. This morning Nels Anderson, a Swede, working about the refrigerator building near the Albina ferry, placed his foot on a loose plank, which gave way and precipitated him a distance of thirty feet. He alighted on his right leg, and the leg was almost driven into his body. He sustained an injury to his back which may prove fatal. Anderson was taken to his home on the Mount Tabor road and Dr. W. H. Saylor was called to attend him. This morning the jury in the case of D. E. Bush against the City of Portland brought in a verdict in the sum of $50 for the plaintiff, after being out twenty minutes, instead of the $1000 asked for.

On the 10th and 11th of May there will be held a Farmers' Institute at the court house in Roseburg, at which the matters of general interest to the agricultural people of the state will be thoroughly discussed, the practical business being happily intermingled with other attractive features. Among the addresses to be delivered are: "Duties of a Farmer's Wife," by Mrs. Alice Willis; "Combing Wool," by Hon. M. Wilkins; "Grasses," by James Byron; "Fruit Culture," by W. C. Winston; "Roadmaking," by Prof. J. D. Letcher; "Grape-growing," by Hon. Robert A. Miller; "Arbor Day," by State Superintendent McElroy; "Oregon Soils," by Prof. Condon; and "Poultry," by Prof. F. Berchtold. This is the last of the 1888-89 series of these institutes held under the auspices of the State Agricultural College, and promises to be one of the most interesting.

Street Railway at Scio.

Edward Goin of Scio, is in the city. He is erecting a new brick building there, and now has to import a project on foot. It is to build a street railway from Scio to Munkers to connect with the Oregon Pacific railroad. The distance of the line would be two and a half miles. He proposes to construct a line that could carry passengers and freight also. It would prove a great convenience to the people of Scio, and would no doubt do a thriving business.

Last Night's Entertainment.

The presentation of "The World Against Her" by the Grismer-Davies company last evening was greeted by a large audience. The play is a powerful melodrama with sufficient comedy interspersed to give it spice and variety. Mr. Grismer and Phoebe Davies are not new to the people of this city, and the appreciation for this talented couple, who were supported by a strong company, was well exhibited last evening by the hearty applause of the very large audience present.
