M'ISAACS LINGERS IN JAIL.

A San Francisco Carpenter Falls from a Scaffold—Blaine's Sickness—Oklahoma Business Satisfactory.

The HERALD's Special Dispatches.]

PORTLAND, May 1.—This morning Mrs. Catherine Scott, widow of the late C. C. Scott, of the Gilman house, presented a petition to the county court, asking that Edward A. Post, surviving partner of the firm of Scott & Post, be cited to show why he should not give her a monthly allowance of $250 and an additional sum with which to pay a man to look after her one-half interest in the Gilman house business until the partnership estate is settled. The petitioner makes some serious charges against Mr. Post's management of the business. The court made an order that Mr. Post appear on the 8th inst. and make a showing.

A SIXTY FOOT FALL.

A Carpenter Working on a Church Fatally Injured.

PORTLAND, May 1.—This afternoon at a few minutes after 1 o'clock an accident occurred at the new Grace M. E. church, corner of Tenth and Taylor streets, in which Derrick Demars was very badly if not fatally injured. He was a carpenter, and at the time was standing on a scaffold on the tower, fully sixty feet from the ground, when in some unexplainable manner he lost his balance and fell to the bottom. The injured man was taken at once to his residence. Surgeons were promptly summoned, and his injuries were found to be principally about the hip, and it is feared that he is badly hurt internally. He is in intense agony, but retained his senses all the afternoon.

SMOKER'S HEART.

Disease Resulting From an Excessive Use of Tobacco.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

If, as alleged, it was too much smoking which upset Edwin Booth at Rochester, it is far from being the first case of the kind in our history.

Within the past twenty years the medical faculty has come to clearly comprehend and to accurately diagnose a disease which they now denominate as "smoker's heart." Excessive smoking, whether by pipe, cigar or cigarette, effects the action of the heart and disturbs the circulation. The pulse will intermit—not with any regularity—sometimes one beat in four, sometimes one in ten, sometimes two or three at a time, and then comes trouble. The brain, missing its regular pulsations of blood, wavers, the heart flutters, and then follows a temporary collapse.

Strong cordials are indicated. Strong coffee is good—strong spirits better. But the remedy, too often relied upon, is as bad as the disease; and the subject grows slowly worse. Angina pectoris is said to sometimes result.

One of the leading physicians of this city relates a case in point. A patient suffering from "smoker's heart" believed that he had a chronic heart disease, and came for a careful examination early in the day—before he had eaten any breakfast. The stethoscope showed the heart to be sound as a dot—he had not smoked for twelve hours. Greatly relieved at the verdict he lighted a big black cigar, and sat smoking upon an empty stomach, while he talked. In a few minutes, as he rose to go, his feet failed him and he fell in a momentary faint. The heart was fluttering wildly, but yielded at once and resumed its normal action after a strong stimulant.

The moral of the story is that, if you smoke at all, you should smoke in moderation and on a well filled stomach. It is recklessness that hurts.

CONTROLLED BY A BEAR.

Bruin Causes a Battle on the Bark Golden Star.

Toronto Globe,

When the bark Golden Star left the China seas bound for San Francisco she carried an unusual passenger in the shape af a black bear, weighing 460 pounds. He was confined in a strong wooden box, which was placed on deck aft of the captain's cabin. One night, as they were changing watch, the bear pried off one of the wooden bars of the cage and got out. Mr. Bruin sniffed the breeze for a moment and then began wandering about the deck.

Suddenly he espied the man at the wheel, and without further ceremony he crawled up to him, and, rising on his haunches, struck the Jack tar a savage blow with his huge paw.

The sailor, of course, let go of the wheel, the ship immediately broached to and fell of her course, the sails flapped wildly in the wind and the binnacle light was extinguished in the struggle. The first officer, alarmed at the sudden lurching of the vessel, rushed on deck. Close to the wheel he perceived a dark form.

"Hello, you lubber!" bawled out the mate, "what do you mean, sleeping at your post?"

Then he administered a sound kick at which he mistook for the sleeping sailor, but which, to his horror, turned out to be the bear. With a snort of rage he hurled himself on the first officer, felling him to the deck with a blow of his paw.

By this time the captain and crew were all on deck, and for a few minutes there was a pitched battle, until the bear broke away, clambered up the shrouds and perched himself comfortably in the the crosstrees. The captain took an observation and found half the crew disabled, the original victim being nearly dead. Enraged at the spectacle the captain peppered away with his revolver, and finally succeeded in killing the bear, who fell to the deck with a loud crash.

When the Golden Star reached the Sandwich islands her sails were torn to shreds, her binnacle broken, and she was badly damaged, and all on account of the savage bear that tried to run the ship.

Agricultural College Buildings.

The Corvallis Leader says: Mr. Apperson and Mr. Hayes, members of the executive committee of the Board of Regents of the Agricultural College, arrived Thursday afternoon to attend a meeting of the committee which was held to consider the matter of the buildings to be erected on the college farm. The committee decided to build a mechanical hall of brick costing $5,500 and a dormitory of wood costing $5,000. An octagon barn 50 feet in diameter is also to be constructed from plans already adopted. The other buildings will be built from plans to be submitted by architects after competitive bids.

ELECTRICITY.

To THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

The earliest history of electrotherapeutics as of many other departments of medicine is shrouded in obscurity. It starts back to a mythical and legendary age before mankind had been trained to habits of scientific criticism, while yet history was a mass of traditions and rumor was a substitute for truth.

It is said that centuries ago the negresses of West Africa were accustomed to dip their sick children in water where lay the electric fish. The remedial powers of electricity were also referred to by Pliny and Diasconicles.

Largus, a physician of the time of Tiberius was accustomed to prescribe the same remedy in the treatment of gout. As long ago as the days of Pliny necklaces of amber were worn by women and children for the sake of this supposed remedial powers. In Europe during the middle ages the loadstone was used in the treatment of disease. About the middle of the eighteenth century Viena and others excited a new and more successful interest in the use of magnetism in disease by the manufacture and employment of artificial magnets. While electrical science was in its infancy and almost entirely misunderstood, we see precious jewels health gathered from the scattering relics. Wherever there is electricity there is healing power. At the time when electricity was generated by accident and the fixed laws regulating and producing it were not understood, in that proportion would be its misapplication and success in the treatment of disease.

At our present advanced stage, and yet only in our early boyhood days of electricity, we have the static, Galvanic and Farretic electrical machines which by fixed regulations and care generate the three above named varieties of electricity, and can be produced from the mildest to a current beyond human endurance. Not only have we this variety of electrical currents at hand and easily generated and under full control, but experience and application have taught us that electricity is susceptible of classification as is medicine.

The profession (electrical) so far have generally agreed upon this classification—stimulants, sedatives and tonics.

Stimulants are usually understood to be those agents which quickly excite the system and arouse its activity.

Sedatives may be severally defined as those agents that allay insatiability and pain and induce natural repose.

Tonics are ordinarily understood to be those agents which gradually improve nutrition, restore enfeebled functions, invigorate the system and permanently increase its capacity for labor.

Electricity by its stimulant and tonic properties becomes a laxative diuretic and diaphoretic.

The observations of many and some of the most scientific physicians of the world by their experimental knowledge with electricity give as the result the classification. In medicine we did not know that opium would produce sleep until some one had accidentally taken it. We did not know that cinchona would cure the ague until someone who had the ague drank at a pool saturated with the leaves. Hence we see this classification of medicine is founded upon accident and experience.

The Prettiest Princess in Europe.

The great beauty in the present generation of the European princesses is the Grand Duchess Sergius of Russia, born Princess Elizabeth of Hesse-Darmstadt, and granddaughter to Queen Victoria. Her charms are of the veritable goddess type, superb and stately, her features faultless, her figure as worthy to be reproduced in marble as that of Venus herself. The mould of her neck and shoulders and the fine carriage of her head are famous in the annals of regal loveliness. This exquisit creature is most unhappily married, and has only been restrained by the counsels of Queen Victoria and of her brother-in-law, the Czar, from seeking for a divorce. She is only just 24, and is consequently in the full splendor of her beauty.

A Chinaman has been lecturing in favor of prohibition in Minnesota.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The Good Fortune Which Followed

It affords me great pleasure to send to you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in the back and kidneys, and boils around my neck and face. I tried many liver remedies, only getting temporary relief. I was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits, for I could feel that it was working a change in me. I took five bottles, and during that time my troubles left me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has cleansed, purified and braced me up generally. You are at liberty to use this as you see fit, or can refer whom you please to
