A CHANGE DESIRED.

The Postoffice Doors Should Be Left Open to Box Holders.

If there is any good reason why the postoffice could not, along with the other improvements of the city, be conducted on a more metropolitan scale, the people of Albany, especially the boxholders, would like to know it.

It is very unsatisfactory for a man who has a business engagement, or wants to attend an evening lecture or a concert, to be compelled to break away in time to reach the postoffice before 9 o'clock sharp, or suffer the penalty of waiting until the next day for his mail, especially when he pays regularly for a box, which is supposed to be attended with some conveniences.

These remarks are respectfully referred to Postmaster General Wannamaker, or any of his subordinates down to the Albany postmaster, who may have power and authority to make the desired change.

A HISTORIC LANDMARK.

A Building in Which Many Have Made Fortunes is Albany's Early Days.

There is probably no building in the city in which so many successful business men have "taken their start" as the one now being moved down Second street, and which will reach its final resting place tomorrow, weather permitting.

It is one of the oldest business houses in Albany, having been built in 1852, by Wright & Lincoln for John Conner. It was first occupied by Conner & Wakefield, dealers in general merchandise.

The building was next occupied by Mr. Kightlinger, now of Salem, as a grocery store, and Al. Crossman, now a very successful gent's furnishing clothier in Portland, was his clerk.

It was next rented to Jim Westfall, who is now one of the wealthiest railroad contractors in the state, and who is having it moved to his new location in Chinatown, where it will shelter at night a thousand Chinamen if necessary.

The building was next occupied by Mr. O'Connor, who served its time of usefulness for white men, more and better houses having been built, it was rented to San Wa, who in a few years saved enough money to take a trip to China.

It was next rented to Jim Westfall, who is now one of the wealthiest railroad contractors in the state, and who is having it moved to his new location in Chinatown, where it will shelter at night a thousand Chinamen if necessary.

Upon its sight will be built the finest Masonic temple in Oregon, of which the order will feel proud, and will be an ornament to that portion of the city.

COAST NOTES.

Oregon has between 100,000 and 105,000 school children.

Five counties in Washington Territory have female county superintendents of schools.

Utah county is without a jail and prisoners are allowed to roam at will so long as they report at the sheriff's office every fifteen minutes.

It is claimed that Southern Oregon has a Chinaman that stands seven feet four, in his stocking feet; that he is 53 years of age and Ly Fung Su by name.

The Canadian government proposes to subsidize a steamship line between British Columbia and Australia. The subsidy amounts to $125,000.

The editor of the Home Press, of Centerville, Umatilla county, has had a guardian appointed. He has been sued for libel and being under age this was necessary.

California and the Columbia river region will this year probably produce an immense wheat crop, aggregating at least 100,000,000 bushels, and one-third as much barley and oats.

The railroad men say there are between 2000 and 3000 tramps of the most desperate order along the line of railroad between Ogden and Reno. Of this number, one town is credited with 150.

In proportion to its population Portland leads the world for its number of Odd Fellows. One out of every four of the citizens over twenty-one belongs to the order.

The seven lodges of the city have a fund of $149,615 74. The Unity is the richest lodge, with $34,430 in the treasury.

When it was stated a few days ago that two car loads of cats had been shipped from Iowa to Dakota by an enterprising speculator, and that he was negotiating for another car load, the item presented the appearance of a huge joke.

It seems that it was in real earnest and that the cats are needed there to kill the mice which swarm in the corn and wheat bins and do great damage. The market rates for cats in Iowa is from 50 cents to $1, while quotations in Dakota range from $2 50 to $3 so the cat merchant has a handsome margin.

The Dynamic bazaar which is being held at Thompson & Overman's, agents.

SOMETHING THAT'S NEW.

Pfeiffer, resigned; J. V. Pope, of Forest Grove, Or., clerk on the line between Portland and Corvallis, vice George N. Fawcett, resigned; J. T. Ryan, of Carbonado, clerk on the line between Seattle and Tacoma, vice W. J. Brown, resigned.
