ROYAL PRISONERS

Wholesale Arrest of Earls, Lords and Barons.

CHARGED WITH GAMBLING.

An Unusual scene Presented in a London Police Court—Witnessed by a Large Crowd.

LONDON, May 14.—Earl Dudley, Lords Lurgan and Paul, Baron Ferriers and a number of other gentlemen were arrested early yesterday morning at Field club and arraigned to-day at the Vine street police court to answer to the charge of gambling. The court was crowded almost to suffocation with people anxious to see the noblemen arraigned as criminals. Earl Dudley appeared heartily ashamed of himself and was eager to escape the notice of the throng by submitting quietly to the fine, but Lord Lurgan was defiant and angry at his arrest. The police officers who made the raid of the club admitted that that nobleman was not a member of the Field club, but declared that he resorted to the various clubs for the purpose of gambling.
The prisoners, twenty-one in number, were remanded for a week on bail.

STRANGELY MARKED.

Photograph of a Balloon on a Texas Infant.

El Paso Times.

A Times reporter was recently shown a strange freak of nature.
On Sunday Mrs. T. Howard witnessed the balloon ascension, and a few days later presented Mr.
Howard with a nice little boy, who bears a singular birthmark, which is nothing more nor less than a perfect representation of Professor Le Roy's balloon. The photograph, as it might be called, is located just above the eyes, on the forehead, and every outline of the balloon is boldly portrayed in purple lines in the skin of the infant; even the patch on the air snip can be seen, being reproduced by a patch of white skin. The photograph, as already stated, is perfect, and certainly entitles the little fellow to some of the gate receipts.

Mr. Howard and wife came here from the Mexican Theatrical Company, and are well known to the profession.

JEFFERSON DAVIS' ROMANCE.

How He Secured a Bride When a Young Lieutenant.

The first marriage of Jefferson Davis was of somewhat romantic character. After graduating at West Point he was ordered to Fort Gawford, at Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, he post then commanded by Colonel Zachary Taylor. The daughter of the latter, Miss Sallie Knox Taylor, at once fell desperately in love with the handsome and intellectual young Lieutenant, and the affection was reciprocated, but the old Colonel was averse to any match-making under the circumstances and peremptory forbade Davis from visiting his quarters except in an official capacity. The lovers managed to see each other by stratagem, however, and one morning at daylight they were missing. The household was instantly aroused, the servants interrogated and a search made, but nothing was elicited save that the door of the stable was open, four horses were gone, and their tracks indicated a hasty departure.
Further examination of the premises showed that Lieutenant George Wilson, brother of Thomas S. Wilson of Dubuque, Ia., and Miss Street, daughter of General Street, had likewise suddenly disappeared. There was but one conclusion, and in less than an hour every man, woman and child in the village knew all about the runaway match.

Colonel Taylor was enraged and declared with an oath as strong as ever he used that under no circumstances would he forgive Davis or become reconciled to his daughter's disobedience. Sixteen years passed.
"Old Zach" was in command of the United States Army in Mexico, and serving under him was Colonel Jefferson Davis at the head of the famous First Mississippi Rifles.

At the battle of Buena Vista this regiment covered itself with glory, but Davis, while leading one of its charges at a critical moment, fell severely and, it was supposed, mortally wounded. He was borne from the field and that evening General Taylor, mounted on Old Whitney, paid him a visit. Dis-mounting, he stepped into the Colonel's cot and extended his hand.

"Jeff," he said, "you have saved the day with your glorious rifles; now let bygones be bygones; Knox (the name by which he always called his daughter) knew your worth and mettle better than I did."

From that moment, through the war, and, indeed, until the death of President Taylor, the warmest friendship existed between the old companions in arms.

CAUGHT BY A MUSIC BOX.

Embarrassing Predicament of a Senator.

Washington Post.

"I never felt so much ashamed in my life as I did yesterday afternoon," said a member of Congress.
"What is the matter?"

"It wasn't anything serious; merely one of those occurrences which come in the most inopportu-nate manner to embarrass a fellow.
I called on a friend—a Senator—and was obliged to wait for him some time. There was a deacon and a wife glass on the center table, and without thinking anything of the matter I proceeded to help myself. Well, the confounded bottle was one of those April fool affairs that have a music box concealed inside.

"The machinery of the box is so arranged that when it is tilted something or other slips its mooring and sets a popular melody going. That's just what happened to me. I replaced the bottle on the table while 'Paddy Duffy's Cant' was trundled through the atmosphere with diabolical distinctness. Of course, my host came in at that moment, and the smile that came over his countenance was scarcely perceptible, yet exceedingly cutting. Really there was nothing wrong in my taking a glass of wine, considering my familiar footing at the house; but it was very funny for my host."

Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other.
It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat, and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Bosche's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

The Albany Furniture Co. would be glad to have you call and examine their complete stock of goods before purchasing elsewhere.
We believe we can make it to your interest to examine our prices and goods before purchasing. Corner First and Ferry streets.

AN UNPARALLELED OFFER.

A unique and hitherto unexcelled offer has just been made by the Oregonian publishing company.
They announce they will give away as rewards for subscribers to their weekly issue premiums amounting to hundreds of dollars. The details of this offer are too extensive to be given here, occupying two whole pages in the Weekly Oregonian; but a general idea may be given our readers of the extent and value of these premiums and the comparative ease with which any and all of them may be obtained.
As the readers of the Weekly Oregonian are in the main farmers throughout the great Pacific Northwest, so it is intended that the premiums offered shall be won by farmers and used by them. Here is a list of the principal premiums: Minnesota Chief threshing machine; price $700.

A Studebaker end-spring top buggy; price $215.

A self binding harvester; price $175.

Culver's iron drag saw; price $150.

A Cortland spring wagon; price $150.

A Mitchell wagon; price $120.

An I. X. L. wind mill; price $80.

A "Triumph" steam generator; price, $60.

Dick's famous feed cutter; price, $35.

Gandy's patent endless threshing belt; price, $65.

A barrel of lubricating oil.

Washing machines and garden plows at prices respectively $15 and

Besides these there are guns, watches, books and jack-knives in number as great as the demand which may be made for them.
Every one should secure a copy of the Weekly Oregonian and read the full descriptions of all these premiums and the manner in which they are to be distributed.
It is a chance for men and women, boys and girls, for old and young alike. There is something for every one.

Millionaire Letter's Experience
With a Newspaper.

Chicago Herald.

In connection with some life in Washington a story is told on Z. L.
Letter, and though it happened several years ago it is as good as new and it has never been in print.
There was a time when Mr. Letter was either desirous of some foreign mission or else rumor was playing its great game of guesswork. Be that as it may the papers in Washington were making free with his name, and it became after a time a sore point with him. To such an extent was this true that he went to the editor of one sheet, an extremely annoying one, and said emphatically that he did not want his name printed under any circumstances. Mr. Letter expressed himself so strongly on the subject that the editor consented. It chanced shortly after this that Mrs.
Letter intended giving one of her elegant receptions, and she was as an
