WARNING.
The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle germs, and that system and soil these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or chest, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

The Albany Furnace Co. would be glad to have you call and examine their complete stock of goods before purchasing elsewhere. We believe we can make it to your interest to examine our prices and goods before purchasing. Corner First and Ferry streets.

Fortmiller & Irving have just opened a beautiful line of oak and iron moldings, from pictures, steel engravings, etc. Call and see them.

A LUCKY TRIAL.

The Good Fortune Which Followed it affords me great pleasure to send you this voluntary statement of my experience in testing the merits of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. For the past five years I have been troubled with an exceedingly sluggish liver, including loss of appetite and distress after eating, pains in my neck and face. I tried many liver remedies, only getting temporary relief. It was recommended to try a bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a test, and while taking the first bottle I became convinced of its merits, for I could feel that it was working a change in me. I took five bottles, and during that time my troubles left me. Everything is working full and regular, in fact it has cleansed, purified and braced me up generally. You are at liberty to use this as you see fit, or can refer whom you please to

IN ANSWER TO CLIO.

"How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed. And how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher?"—Romans X, 14.

Your correspondent 'Clio' in this morning's issue of the Herald proceeds to bring up before his throne of justice and condemn the Christian people of this community without hearing but one side of the question.

Now in the words of The Apostle Paul "how then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard?"

How are we to call upon suffering ones unless we believe there are such, and how shall we believe there is a man sick in the St. Charles Hotel unless we are told that such is the case? Are we as Christians to make daily or weekly visits among the different public houses of this city to ascertain if there is any sick there, would not that of itself suggest our lack of faith in these our friends and brothers who keep these public houses and would that be pleasing to them, would that show a brotherly love?

Since reading the article of your correspondent this morning I have asked different men that I have met concerning this sick man, none of them knew anything about the case either did they know there was a man, a stranger, sick at the St. Charles. We Christians have to look for our information concerning things of this world to the same source that these who are not Christians do. Are we supposed to have information without being informed? And in the words of the Apostle "Shall they hear without a preacher?" Many of us would have been glad to have rendered assistance to a man, sick and in a strange land, but in order to do that we must know there is such a case, and how or why are we to suppose there is such a case unless it has been announced, unless we have been told. Was it not more nearly the duty of the friends of this man or those who associate with him to announce (and if such announcement has been made I have not seen it) to the Christians of this place that there was a man sick and in need of Christian sympathy. Our hearts naturally go out to those who are afflicted and in need, and now that your correspondent has called our attention to this matter the sick man shall not wait.

And now since Clio has fulfilled the mission of a preacher I hope the words found in 2nd Cor. 11, 14 will not apply to him and if so that he will turn from the error of his way and become a true child of God.

Albany, May 17, 1889.

EARLY RISING WRITERS.

Very Few of Us Able to Write in the Early Morning Hours.

The veteran historian Bancroft does his work in the early morning. He is at his desk at 6 and leaves at 9 A. M., having done his stint. I should like to ask Mr. Bancroft if this was his habit when he was in his twenties and thirties, and even forties. When they arrive at his present age, all men, or nearly all, are early risers. They do not require as much sleep as younger men; they may go to bed late, but they rise with the lark. Mr. Bancroft, however, retires early. Ten o'clock finds him snugly tucked between the sheets.

The recent candidate for the Vice-Presidency, the Hon. A. G. Thurman, though he retires to his room at an early hour, usually reads until after midnight; yet he sees the sun rise every morning. There are few young writers who could follow Mr. Bancroft's plan with success. I heard a woman of letters say, no long ago, that she was never fairly awake before noon and that she was wide awake at midnight. It would be utterly impossible for a person of her temperament to sit down to write at 6 o'clock in the morning.

A FEW QUEER TOASTS.

A rather cynical toast ran thus: "Woman—She requires no eulogy; she speaks for herself."

At a gathering of lawyers were toasted "The Bench and the Bar—If it were not for the bar there would be little use for the bench."

At the marriage supper of a deaf and dumb couple one guest, in the speech of the evening, wished them "unspeakable bliss."

Pithy was the following toast, proposed at a shoemakers' dinner: "May we have all the women in the country to shoe and all the men to boot."

A waiter of comedies was given a banquet in honor of his latest work, at which a joyful guest gave the toast: "The author's very good health; may he live to be as old as his jokes."

A gallant young man, under festal circumstances, referred to one member of the sex he eulogized as "a delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence and treacle stand appalled."

WHY HE WANTED A POSITION.

The Story of One of the President's Callers.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Although this was Cabinet day, and there are not many visitors in Washington, President Harrison's private room was almost crowded at noon. They began to pour in shortly after 10 o'clock, and kept up to flow until the door-keeper announced that the President could no more than get through with these around him before the Cabinet would assemble.

During the time, the President was taking his visitors by rotation, receiving their verbal and written statements, and sending them away more or less happy, he observed a bright-eyed, fair-haired young man who kept moving nervously about in the crowd and pushing himself to the front. He ever and anon looked with great eagerness at the President and was trying to catch his eye. Almost an hour elapsed after the President first discovered this young man, and the latter's nervousness and eagerness to get an audience began to wear upon the President's nerves.

Finally the visitor boldly walked out from the crowd when the President was released. He presented his card and began to address himself to the Chief Magistrate. He said: "Some time ago I made application for an appointment. I want it awfully bad. I don't care for it myself, but the fact of it is, Mr. President, and here the young man blushed to the tips of his hair, "I am engaged to be married. Unless I get this appointment the engagement won't stand. There you have it, and now you know why I am so anxious."

The President was taken back, and although amused for the instant, the statement went to his heart. He at first was a little out of patience, but the evident painfulness of the situation elicited his sympathy, and the card with the name of the office desired was laid in a prominent position on the desk.

Women Love White.

Atlanta Constitution.
Upon entering the world it is her first robe. In a white gown she is brought for baptism. She says her prayers in white, and kneels her confirmation in spotless white. She is married in white, and after that she lives over the white garment days of her youth in the robes she makes for her children, and when her task is ended she tells her white tale and lies down to sleep in a shroud as white as her soul.

The Pride of Women.

A clear pearly and transparent skin is always a sign of pure blood, and all persons troubled with dark, greasy, yellow or blotched skin can rest assured that their blood is out of order. A few doses of BROWN'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD MAKER will remove the cause and the skin will become clear and transparent. Try it, and if satisfaction is not given it will cost you nothing. It is fully warranted. G. L. Blackman, druggist.
