FROM THE FRONT.

A Foot and a Half of Snow Near the Summit-Gatesville Notes.

GATESVILLE, May 18.

The news that work is to be resumed at once on the Oregon Pacific railroad is hailed with delight here. It means lively times all along the line.

At Gatesville considerable sport has been indulged in by the citizens in cougar hunting. T. Henness recently killed two, and a party of hunters a few days ago chased one of these animals into town when it was killed.

Land along the line of the Oregon Pacific railroad is fast being taken up by settlers. The land is yet unsurveyed and it is held by squatters. Some fine fruit lands have been taken up and will be held by settlers until a survey of this region is made.

A pack train is now running every Saturday from Rock Creek to Mt. Jefferson and the mineral springs near Independence valley for the accommodation of tourists. These springs are situated one and a half miles below Independence valley. In this valley, 12 miles from the summit, snow is 18 inches deep, which is the result of the recent storm.

The saw-mills at Mill City are doing a thriving business. The planing machines are now running, and 32,000 feet of dressed lumber is turned out daily. Double saws have been placed in the mill and a shingle and lath machine, has also been added to the mills. The capacity of the mills is 52,000 feet of lumber per day, and little or none of it is placed on the yard, but it is shipped direct to Albany and other places.

TREATMENT OF NEWCOMERS.

Already the tide of immigration is beginning to come to our city: we shall have sent forth the 10,000 pamphlets and the same number of views and folders, together with the efforts of the department commander, E. B. McElroy, in displaying the productions of our soil at Milwaukee, Wis., there is no question as to the rapid influx of settlers from the other states. This will fill our hotels, tax our transportation accommodation, crowd our lodging and boarding capacities, and, in short, demand of us all the entertaining facilities we possess. It is, perhaps, natural in some people to lose sight of the future in the present, and take an undue advantage of the necessities of people and over-charge, or, as they call it, "cinch them for all they are worth." This is bad policy and reflects discredit, not only upon the individual, but the city as well. Serious complaints have often been made of other cities that some of its people have squeezed the last dollar they could get from those who must have shelter or food, and therefore we forestall the occasion by the statement that no such complaint is truthfully made of Albany. Our citizens have and will at all times maintain the reputation gained in the past—that of being hospitable and just under all circumstances.

Lovers of good coffee should try some of Julius Gradwohl's choice grades. He keeps the best in the market and sells as he does all his choice family groceries, at the lowest living prices.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTION.

Teachers of the district institute including Lebanon, Albany, Tangent, Shedd, Halsey, Harrisburg, Crawfordsville, Brownsville and intervening districts, will convene at Brownsville in the city hall on the 25th day of May, 1889, at 9:30 a. m. All teachers and friends of education are most cordially invited to attend. Following is the programme:

YAQUINA NOTES.

The steamer Willamette Valley arrived on Sunday morning and sailed Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Owners of row and sail boats are getting their crafts ready for summer use on the bay.

The steam ferry boat Rebecca C., has been thoroughly repaired and is now in service again.

Capt. Willard Young, of the U. S. engineer corps, spent several days in Newport during the past week, inspecting the government works.

The steam schooner Mischief arrived from Portland on Saturday. She was compelled to stay in Astoria several days owing to the roughness of the Columbia bar.

There seems to be a fair prospect for a six dollar round trip rate this season. If the rate is made between the Oregon Pacific and the Narrow Gauge road the Southern Pacific will probably come to the same terms.

Mr. C. H. Haswell, Jr., general agent of the Oregon Development company at San Francisco, came up on the Willamette Valley and took a look over Yaquina Bay. He visited Newport and South Beach on Monday, and returned to San Francisco on the steamer.

Mr. Polhemus thinks if no unlooked for accidents take place that he will make a big showing with the work on the north jetty with the funds now available. This jetty will rest on bed rock almost to the black bldy and will not absorb rock as the south jetty does.

The steamer Manzanita, tender for the light houses on this part of the coast, came in from Astoria last Friday. She placed a black buoy at the entrance to the harbor. She also landed material for an oil house at Cape Foul-weather light house. On Saturday she sailed for the harbors of Southern Oregon. Capt. Sebree, light house inspector, joined her at this point.

An Incident Blaze.

When the curtain dropped at the close of the third act of the Chicago Comedy Company's play at the opera house last evening a large lamp which some ingenious man had suspended by a cord, fell to the stage with a crash, the cord having been burned off. A fierce blaze was the result, which, however, was quickly smothered out without serious damage. Those overman had his hands somewhat burned in assisting in extinguishing the fire. Few of the audience knew of the accident, or a panic might have resulted.

Indian War Claims.

There has just been collected from the United States government on the Indian war claims of Oregon, $38,132.98. This payment is practically in full of all claims forwarded. There are small claims yet remaining but these will also be forwarded when the proper vouchers are received. To illustrate the wonderful amount of official business that had to be transacted in relation to this matter, it may be stated that during the year 1888, 95 pounds of official papers and documents bearing on these war claims were forwarded from the state department to Washington. Uncle Sam has at last paid off the long list of faithful servants who aided in the civilization and early development of this great Northwest.

The Biggest Yet.

Mr. W. B. Shannon, the Yankee gardener, of Cloverdale, across the river from this city, left at Wallace, Thompson & Company's yesterday 100 boxes of strawberries, from which an average box was selected and the number of berries therein counted, which was seven. The largest one was by actual measurement 1 1/4 inches around the waist, and big all over in proportion. If Salem has any really big strawberries let her trot them out, or if not quit boasting. If there is any doubt as to the correctness of these statements the affidavits of three prominent business men who helped measure them will be forthcoming.

FUNERAL OF REV. J. W. HARRIS.

Rev. James W. Harris, formerly pastor of the Congregational church in this city, was buried yesterday afternoon in the family lot in the Albany cemetery. He died at his home in Salem Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The funeral services were held at his house in Salem Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. P. S. Knight and Rev. Anselm B. Brown, Mr. Harris' successor in the Congregational church. There was a very large attendance. The address by Mr. Knight was most appropriate and full of thought that was comforting and helpful to all that heard it. Prof. Parvin and Miss Hall rendered music and Miss Hall sang a solo.

The remains were brought up to Albany on the noon train and taken to the Congregational church where a large congregation of old friends and acquaintances assembled at half-past two.

Rev. Anselm B. Brown, of Salem, who came up with the family, conducted the services and gave a brief account of Mr. Harris' life.

Mr. Harris was born in Cornwall, England, in 1831, and was left an orphan at the age of eight years. He was bound out to a farmer in the neighborhood, and by him he was brought to this country to Wisconsin at the early age of 12 years. He had had no advantages at all and he made a great struggle to get some education. At the age of 18 he yielded to the claims of God upon his life and became a member of the Congregational church in Union Grove, Wisconsin; he at once turned all his energies to the preparation for the work of the gospel ministry. His college life was at Beloit, Wisconsin. Although his poor health prevented him from studying theology, yet the ministers who knew him urged him to take the pastorate of a church. With great reluctance he yielded to their requests and to the wishes of the people who had heard him much in prayer-meetings and revivals. He commenced his work in the ministry in the spring of 1860.

He labored six years with the church in Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, 12 years with the church in Evansville, Wisconsin. His health became very poor, and he came to Oregon, preaching one year in The Dalles, 6 years here in Albany and two and a half years in Salem, besides doing much fragmentary work at intervals in mission churches.

Rev. Mr. Brown followed by Rev. Mr. Rogers, pastor of the church, who read appropriate selections of scriptures and led in prayer. The choir sang another hymn and then Rev. Dr. Irvine spoke upon the text, "I shall be satisfied when I awake in my likeness," a favorite verse to Mr. Harris. The address was a worthy tribute to one who was a faithful minister of the gospel.

After prayer and another hymn the remains were viewed. The local pastors, who were at the train, also acted as pall bearers.

Mr. Harris had three daughters, one a missionary, who is buried in Japan, another rests in the family lot where he was buried yesterday, and one is left to mourn the loss of a loving father.

At the age of 38 years, 28 of which were spent in the ministry, his work on earth is done. He had clear views of doctrine, and preached plainly and earnestly. He was deeply interested in home mission work and in carrying the gospel to heathen lands. He ever bore a mild, even, Christian spirit, and when in circumstances that would trouble and vex others, he seemed by his peaceful and happy disposition to bear in mind the injunction of the Psalmist, "Fret not thyself." His many qualities of heart and mind, his endeared him to multitudes and made his life a blessing to this world. His willingness in youth to yield to the calls of God suggests a noble lesson to poor boys of to-day.

The Chicago Comedy Company.

This excellent company concluded a successful week's engagement in this city last evening, playing Queen's Evidence to a large audience. The company have become general favorites here, and are certainly entitled to the success they have gained. The managers are gentlemanly and the company has given during the week a series of clean, keenly enjoyable plays, which, together with the popular prices of admission, has resulted in large audiences being accorded to them during their entire stay in this city. From here the company will go to Eugene to open a week's engagement.

Good Investment.

NEWSY NOTES FROM SALEM.

Tramps Burglarize a Store—The Senatorial Party Visit the State Buildings.

Special to the Herald.

PORTLAND, May 18.—No news has yet been received of the crew of the ill-fated O. B. & N. steamer Alaskan. Nearly all hope of their being rescued has been given up.

Robbers, supposed to be tramps, entered the store of S. Brown, of Macleay, last night and stole a quantity of canned goods and some candy. No clue has been obtained to the thieves.

The senatorial party stopped off here nearly an hour this evening, and were driven around the city in carriages. They visited the state house, but did not have time to visit the other state institutions. A delegation of representative business men met them at the train and accompanied them around the city.

Fred Marcellus, sentenced to five years from Astoria, for murder in the second degree, and Fred White, a seven year man, for burglary, were released from the penitentiary to-day, leaving 287 still in prison.

Frank Jachetta, sentenced to three years for killing "Crawfish Charley," at Portland, was landed in the penitentiary to-night by Deputy Wetherell.

Farm for Sale.

Persons looking for a fine bargain in a farm should call upon me on the premises, 3 1/2 miles northwest of Albany on the other side of the river. There are two hundred acres in the piece, nearly all under cultivation, all number one land; good new house and large barn, fencing in good shape, living water in the pasture the year round, good well at the barn and also one at the house, both fully fitted with pumps. For particulars inquire of me on the premises. The school house is only a quarter of a mile distant.
