A $1000 horse race created some excitement here last Saturday, it was a three-fourth of a mile dash easily won by Cottenfields, an Eastern Oregon horse. Kinnock Belle is no longer champion here.

The Santiam Mines. An old prospector of the Santiam mining region, who watches the development of mining interests in the Cascade mountains with interest, says it was thirty years ago when he first commenced prospecting that district, and ore was shown from there that promised good returns.

After that, about 1864, August McDonald discovered the White Bull lode, and a company was organized at Salem in 1865 to work it. Over $100,000 was expended for wagon roads, sawmills, a quartz mill and town, to be abandoned when the pocket was worked out, and those who invested became discouraged. Now, after almost a quarter of a century of rust and rest, Quartzville, the seat of former industry, will again become headquarters for further action.

To those who have no personal knowledge of these mines it may be of interest to know that the district containing ores is extensive, extending from the Little North Fork of the Santiam, in Marion county, to the extreme waters of the South Fork of the Santiam, in Linn county.

The different affluents of that river drain a mountainous region about fifty miles north and south, and its ores show gold, silver and copper, lead and zinc, also, in Butte, in Montana, veins of very different ores run parallel and adjacent; for instance, the great Anaconda mine, which is mostly copper, parallels a rich vein of gold bearing ore. Thus, the veins in the Santiam district are charged with different minerals, all of value if they can be readily reduced.

SCHOOL REPORT. The following is an abstract taken from the school register in district No. 64, of Lane county, (formerly district No. 80, of Linn county), for the month ending May 24, 1889: No. of days taught, 20; No. of days attendance, 767; No. of days absence, 113; No. of times tardy, 12; No. of boys enrolled, 22; No. of girls enrolled, 22; average daily attendance, 38; No. of visitors, 21; deportment good, John Banta, Frank Barnes, Edwin Rhoads, Edwin Smith, William Stewart, Ora Stewart, Geo. Board of Equalization. The city council met as a board of equalization yesterday afternoon at 1:30 for the purpose of equalizing and correcting the assessment roll of the city. The assessment roll is completed footed up $1,164,000. A seven mill tax was levied, which will make the revenue from taxes this year about $218,000. The assessment is about $125,000 in excess of that of last year. It does not represent by any means the wealth of the city, as property is assessed at about two-thirds of its real value, and the indebtedness is deducted from the footing which appears in the roll.

Work on the Oregon Pacific. It has been announced that work would be begun on the eastward extension of the Oregon Pacific immediately. We understand that the work which would have been begun Wednesday will be delayed a short time for the measurement of the uncompleted work on the unfinished contracts of former contractors.
