JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Decoration Day. Mason fruit jars at F. L. Kenton's. G. W. Simpson pays the highest cash price for wool. What has become of Albany's public park enterprise? Burkhardt & Keeney are removing their real estate office into the Strahan block. Fifteen commercial travelers were registered at the Revere House yesterday. Shultz & Henderson are removing their real estate office into L. Sender's new brick on Ferry street. Strawberries five cents per box, and fresh every morning. Leave orders for canning at Brownell & Stanard's. Eleven splendid prizes free. A coupon given gratis with every 25 cent purchase at Blum's, opposite the Revere House. If you want to get screen doors and windows put on your house call on R. B. Vank, shop corner Second and Ferry street. A crate of Oregon cabbage fresh from the garden just opened at Hardie & Underwood's, also a lot of the best brands of fruit jars. Matthews & Washburn have secured the services of Mr. Martin Ludvig, who is a first class plumber and are prepared to do all kinds of work. Attention is directed to the new adv. of G. W. Smith, in this issue. He carries a mammoth stock of tinware, plumbing goods and general builders' hardware. Do not forget to get your seats for the return engagement of the Chicago Comedy Co. next week. The opening play Monday evening will be "The Lottery of Life." Just received at Will & Stark's a new line of jewelry in latest patterns, including pins, charms, lockets, and gold and silver jewelry of all kinds. Call and see them. The Mill City and Mehama baseball nine played a game Sunday, the score standing 9 to 9, in favor of Mehama. This beats the Monmouth and Albany match in this city on Saturday. Railroad tickets are sold to all points East by F. A. Burkhardt, opposite the First National bank from $5 to $10 cheaper than they can be had over any other line. Call and see him if you want to go East. The excursion train to Grant's Pass, which leaves Portland at 7 o'clock Friday morning, will arrive in this city a few minutes after 10 A. M. A number of men from Albany and vicinity will go on the excursion. For the best roasted coffee, cream cheese, beef chipped to order, Golden Star tomatoes, and all canned goods in proportion, go to Conrad Meyer. He also has some of the best and freshest rolled oats in the market. The Corvallis Times says: There will be a base ball club organized in Corvallis the first of next week, equal to any south of Portland, so we are informed. When the boys have had a few practice games they will probably be open for challenge. All hands on the narrow gauge railway south of Dundee quit work Saturday night, and no train has been over the road since. Trouble has been brewing for some time and it was decided at the recent meeting held last week to quit work unless their pay was forthcoming. Last Friday Mr. Geo. Howery had one leg broken and the other badly lacerated while chopping wood at Hawkin's mill near Philomath. It seems he was cutting down a tree and while it was falling bounced from the stump and caught the unfortunate chopper with the above result. First grade genuine imported Havana's from 10 cents upwards. All Havana Key West cigars 3 for a quarter and 10 cents each. The best five cent cigars in the world at Blum's. We ask you to patronize us for cigars and tobacco. No other class of merchandise for sale. "Live and let live" is a motto worth observing. It will bear good fruit. The Chicago Comedy Co. are playing to crowded houses at Corvallis and the general verdict is that it is the best company that has ever visited that city. The opening play at the opera house next Monday night, "The Lottery of Life, or Terry the Swell," is full of dramatic situations and gives the favorite comedian, Jas. Devlin, a great character, and no one should fail to see it. Spread Eagle. The finest sign in the city was put up by the Willamette Packing Co. last evening. It represents the American eagle. It is a fine piece of work and a credit to the city and to this enterprising firm. Special Inducements. All those desiring to put up strawberries will do well to call and see us, as we are selling them in quantities at special rates. Willamette Packing Co.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The Roll of the Country's Famous Dead.

A SILENT CAMPING GROUND.

The Memorial Deeds of the Nineteenth Century Now so Nearly at Its End.

On the twenty-first Decoration Day of history the roll of the famous dead includes Thomas, Garfield, Hancock, Grant, Logan, and Sheridan. But one of the great leaders, Sherman, survives, and, however sadly his thoughts may go back over the fields that trembled with the tread of marching millions, the glory and pride of peace accomplished must thrill his heart, coming from every hamlet and city, North and South, East and West, where blue and gray cross hands over the last battle-field—the grave. The occasion of a great national centennial has prepared the public to commemorate this year's Decoration Day in a more marked and intelligent manner than ever before. The two occasions are rife with historic and pathetic reminiscence, and the 30th of April and the 30th of May, 1889, will be long remembered days in the memory of those who may live to see the last of the veterans of the great war follow their leaders to the silent camping-ground. The spirit and genius of the commemoration that Logan set apart as a national annual event becomes more vivid and sentient to arouse and thrill, as the slower step, the whiter head, the rarer presence of those who followed the flag to victory tell that soon they, too, will slumber under garlands of tear-jeweled flowers. Decoration day has become a national yearly pilgrimage, not one of strife or fanaticism, but of love and peace, while at its end stands the immortal shrine of liberty. Every succeeding Decoration day has evidenced the fact that the survivors of the war have not considered their work at an end, with the termination of hostilities. They were enlisted for life, and action and progress have marked their purposes, whenever a worthy companion in arms was in sickness or distress, and sweet charity has shone forth as a lustrous beacon-light of beneficence. Those angels of mercy, too, the ladies of the Relief Corps, who tenderly bound up the wounds of a bleeding brave without caring for the color of his jacket, because he was "somebody's son," are to-day teaching lessons of beauty and love that enable the rising generation, who perpetuate the valor of their predecessors as sons of veterans. The nineteenth century, so nearly at its end, will go into history memorable for great deeds of war and peace alike—with the battle of Waterloo and that of Gettysburg chronicled in the same volume with the development of electricity and steam; for these are the military and civil revolutions which have changed the world. The plowman now fills the ruts of cannon wheels, and fields of carnage have become fields of harvest. The tendency of the custom of Decoration day is wholly in the line of peace and national brotherhood. The people of the country are fraternized. The originator of the ceremony of Decoration day was a Confederate, it is said, and this fact should promote national unity and good-feeling, in the yearly pilgrimage of the blue and gray to the shrine of those who we once deadly enemies. "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than a war," and the three million colonists of the revolution, merged into the sixty millions of to-day, see new stars added to the glorious banner that waves under the magnolia and the rugged pine alike. While Russia expends $150,000,000 annually on war and $10,000,000 on education, America, with nearly an equal population, devotes $45,000,000 to the support of the military and $90,000,000 to instruct the ignorant. Its 54,000 ante-war churches have grown to 72,000, its $3,000,000,000 war debt shrunk to nearly one-half, and the mighty pathway of steel that scales the Rockies and intersects South, North and East, tells of the progress that has replaced the bullet with the ballot, and made of friend and foe a vast army of peace, with hatred and bloodshed unknown—merged under the lilies, the roses, the magnolias, the tears, the hopes, the tender holiness of a great national Decoration Day. DECORATION DAY. How the Day Will Be Observed in This City—The Programme. To-day, Thursday, May 30, being set apart as a legal holiday for the purpose of observing the beautiful custom of decorating with flowers the graves of our soldier dead, it will be appropriately observed in this city. This praiseworthy custom has been extended to include the decoration of all departed friends, citizens as well as soldiers, and the G. A. R. post and Women's Relief Corps have invited all military and civic societies, ministers, church organizations, Sabbath and public schools, and all who have friends interred in the different cemeteries to join in this mark of respect to the dead, strewing their graves with choicest flowers, whose soft perfume will float o'er the hallowed ground in token of the cherished memory of those who quietly rest beneath the sod. The members of McPherson Post and corps together with all who desire to join in the exercises, will meet at the G. A. R. hall at 8:30 A. M. The procession will form and march, at 9 o'clock, to the city cemetery, where the ritualistic services will be held at the grave of the late Charles Mueller. The graves in both cemeteries will then be decorated by details from the post and corps, returning to the opera house at 10:30, where the following order of exercises will be observed:

The more the subject of public school education is considered in conference by the teachers and school officers of the state, the greater does its importance become. It remains for the teachers to carry forward and develop this important work to higher degrees of excellence, and in order that we may be able to secure for our public schools that attention and aid which their importance demands, all are earnestly and cordially invited to attend and co-operate in their great work of education. A Regular Aviary. On his farm of some 1200 acres in the Waldo Hills, Judge Waldo has about 150 Chinese pheasants. The singing quails and several pairs of the sky larks lately received from Germany were also sent up there, where they will be carefully looked after and protected. Judge Waldo does not stand in any dread of having his farm laid waste by the Mongolian pheasants, and allows no one to shoot birds of any kind on his farm. He will be surrounded by a regular aviary in a few years. College Commencement. In this issue is published in the form of a folder the programme of the commencement exercises of the Albany College. In order to accommodate the large number desiring to attend, the exercises will be held at the opera house. An entertainment will be given by the undergraduates on Monday evening to defray a portion of the expenses. The Woolen Mills. Mr. O. C. Burr, who will superintend the construction of the Albany woolen mill building, has arrived in this city. Work on the building, which is to be a two story and a half brick structure will be commenced in a short time, being now only delayed by non-arrival of the plans and specifications, which have been prepared in the East. Wool Wanted. All the wool in the country can find a ready market at G. W. Simpson's store. In Albany, and the highest market price will be paid for it. Call and get the prices.
