Warning.
The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and insidiously, but if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, stomach and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

You Cannot Afford.
At this season of the year to be without a good reliable diarrhoea balsam in the house, as cramps, colic, diarrhoea and all inflammation of the stomach and bowels are exceedingly dangerous if not attended to at once. One bottle of BEGGS' DIARRHOEA BALSAM will do more good in cases of this kind than any other medicine on earth. We guarantee it. G. L. Blackman, druggist.

THE SEATTLE FIRE.
Preparations for Rebuilding Already Commenced.
NO MORE WOODEN BUILDINGS
A Proclamation by the Governor Aided Sent to the Sufferers from Various Places.
The Herald's Special Despatches.
SEATTLE, June 7.—The loss by yesterday's fire will reach $10,000,000, but already in a number of places workmen have begun to grade and clean up lots preparatory to rebuilding. Many merchants have secured quarters in the residence portion of the city and are opening this morning with the remnants of the stock saved from the fire.
NO MORE WOODEN BUILDINGS.
The people here decided to rebuild the city with brick and stone. This conclusion was reached yesterday almost unanimously at a meeting held. A call was published in this morning's papers, asking the citizens to convene at the regimental armory at eleven o'clock to consider the matter and adopt ways and means. The question discussed was, "What shall we do under the trying circumstances?" The attendance was large. At 11 o'clock Mayor Moran called the meeting to order by rapping on a table at one side of a large hall. Immediately he was surrounded by 500 to 600 citizens, each one on active business bent. No more earnest gathering was ever seen anywhere. Mayor Moran stated that the city council was to hold a meeting to-night and desired an expression of opinion on two important questions. They were as to whether they should permit the erection of wooden buildings within the fire limits. G. Morris Holt said if a wooden building is erected it will remain until burned down. He thought that no wooden buildings should be erected within the fire limits. George B. Adair mentioned the fact that $558 had been raised for the Johnstown sufferers and asked if the sum had not better be applied to the home relief fund. One hundred voices said: "No, let her go."
A HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.
A committee of five was appointed to confer with the county authorities concerning the subject of widening the streets. Another committee of five was appointed to receive donations and extend relief wherever found necessary. All the companies of the Fire Department are out checking the damaged property and preventing pilfering of merchandise or home furnishings. The city is quiet and everybody is hopeful.
A MILLION INSURANCE.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The insurance here by insurance companies foreign and home, in this city on Seattle amounts to over a $1,000,000.
PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR.
SEATTLE, June 7.—Governor Miles C. Moore is here and has issued the following proclamation, copies of which have been sent to the mayors of every city in Washington territory:
A proclamation. The city of Seattle, the pride of Washington, is in ashes. A hurricane of fire swept over this queenly city and she is in ruins. Thousands of her citizens are without food or shelter. Nothing can subdue the undomable spirit of her people. Still she will rise again. In her desolation she is not a supplicant, but there are homeless people to be sheltered and hungry ones to be fed. I appeal to the great hearted people of our territory, who have recently so generously responded to the cry of distress from Johnstown to heed this appeal for aid to their own suffering fellow citizens. Subscriptions can be sent Mayor Moran.

RUSSIAN NIHILISTS.
A Party With a Formally Adopted Platform.
A REVOLUTION IS IMPENDING.
Objects of the People Who Terrorize the Czar of Russia—Some Inside Facts.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—William J. Armstrong, a newspaper man of ability, and an orator and lecturer of reputation, spent some years in Russia as Inspector-General of Consuls under President Grant. He is in the city now, and on the invitation of the Grand Army will deliver a lecture on "The Russian Nihilists" at Metropolitan Hall on Monday. A reporter found him at his hotel yesterday. Mr. Armstrong has much to tell of the liberating element in Russia. A lecture he delivered in Washington at the residence of the Senators and Congressmen, criticized by Mr. Kennan, was instrumental in causing the latter to visit Siberia for the Czar.

"Let me tell you something that is not generally known," said Mr. Armstrong. "The nihilists have written platform formally adopted in session by a few brave men. Its principles have been subscribed to by the recruits, who come from all classes, but principally from the middle and upper. Intelligence revolts at tyranny; ignorance exists under it. The platform declares in favor of constitutional government, free press, free schools and free speech, and the abolition of the standing army. That is not a great departure from the platform of our revolutionary sires toward Great Britain. The nihilists are popularly believed to be socialists, anarchists and communists. This popular view is an erroneous one. They do not desire the success of the principles of these various representations, constitutional government, and freedom from despotism. "Russia will know no rest until a Czar lives who does not need a coat of mail to guard him from his subjects. Last week reports of outbreaks were sent to us, in anger, unsatisfactory. It was said the Czar was wounded; we cannot tell, because the press there publishes nothing of such occurrences and dispatches are opened and scrutinized before leaving Russia. "The outrages to which the people are subjected past and present. Men, women and children are torn from their homes in the dead of night, are thrust into prison and return to their friends no more. No one is safe. Priests, students, soldiers, citizens—all are driven into line on that terrible march to Siberia, over the portals of which is the legend of hades: 'Abandon hope all ye who enter here.' Do 100 tongues speak for the silent one and 100 men take his place in the ranks of the avenger. Nihilism is spreading. Tourgenief some years ago applied the name to some of the characters in a novel he wrote; they wanted to reduce everything to nothing. The name was given the conspirators in derision; it means very much now. The principles of the terrorists are taught in the university; they are whispered in the saloons. The people read them in circulars secretly printed and surreptitiously distributed. The army is inoculated with the feeling that animates the people. Officers and men have been arrested for complicity in plots, and the fall of despotism cannot long be delayed. The revolution cannot be peaceful; the press dares to say nothing; the people speak only in whispers, and the change will be effected by fire and sword."

Shaming an Unseen foe.
"This was sometime a paradox," as Hamlet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unseen foe, malaria, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Whenever malaria evokes its misty venom to poison the air, and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnate the water, there, in the very stronghold of miasma, is the very stronghold to disarm the foe and assure efficient protection. Fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, no matter how tenaciously they have fastened their clutch on the system, are first forced to relax their grasp and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is preventive force that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malarial or miasmatic localities, for it is a certain buckler of defence against which the enemy's power is vain. Cures, likewise, of rheumatism, kidney and bilious ailments.

The Coming 4th of July.
Every family as well as the several committees should do everything in their power to make the coming celebration a grand thing. Those wishing to treat their visiting friends and see us, we guarantee something good to eat can do so by purchasing their groceries, vegetables and all kinds of delicacies at the Willamette Packing Co's.

Why Illinoisians Are Called Suckers
The first settlements of Illinois were made in the southern portion of the State. The land was new and rich, and yielded abundantly with but little cultivation. But there were no means of transportation, or markets, and money was scarce and hard to get, an old-fashioned picaune looking as big as the bottom of a half-bushel, and was carefully hoarded to meet some contingency. As a result of this state of things all the surplus population regularly every spring took up their line of march to the Galena lead mines, where they worked during the summer, and as regularly every fall took up their line of march for their homes in the southern part of the State. This being the habit of that numerous family of fish called suckers, which then, as now, ascended the streams in the spring and descended in the fall, the bands of Illinois settlers fluctuating between their homes and the mines soon became known as suckers, and later on the name was generally applied, and Illinois became known as the Sucker State, and her people as suckers.

Nothing can subdue the undomable spirit of her people. Still she will rise again. In her desolation she is not a supplicant, but there are homeless people to be sheltered and hungry ones to be fed. Subscriptions can be sent Mayor Moran.
MILES C. MOORE, Governor.
