RAILROAD MATTERS IN GENERAL.

The result of the recent railroad election of directors in the city of Portland, in which Villard and Elijah Smith were contestants, and the interests of the Northern Pacific, Transcontnental and O. R. & N. companies were directly and the Union Pacific indirectly interested, seems to have been practically a drawn battle, neither side having gained just what they desired, namely the supremacy in control. Concessions were made upon both sides, and by the concessions made by the Northern Pacific or Villard men it is said that the Union Pacific has gained what it has been seeking, the chance of completing its Washington territory lines, and eventually making a sound terminus.

One of the Elijah Smith party is reported as saying: "Our visit may bear fruit in the construction of a line to the Sound, probably from Umatilla by way of North Yakima and the Natchez pass. Tacoma will not be ignored, and it is possible the line may be extended to Port Townsend, although that is a matter of further consideration, and will depend upon the result of an investigation of the resources of the country along the proposed line, the cost of construction, maintenance and operation. It is the purpose of the Union Pacific to find a Sound terminus. If Tacoma can afford the facilities, it will be some years at least before the line will be extended any further. But little reliance is placed in the peace established at Portland Monday, unless the Union Pacific can place itself in an independent position. A road with its terminus in Portland cannot compete with one having its terminus on the Sound. I do not know whether the Union Pacific will be disposed to accept the fourth clause of the agreement offered at Portland. This clause was the only one not accepted, and relates to a traffic arrangement by which the Northern Pacific is to double-track the line to Portland and permit the Union Pacific to enter Tacoma on equal basis."

The special strife of the transcontinental lines seemes to be to acquire the most available and perfect Pacific ocean terminus. Of these terminal points north of San Francisco the Sound and the mouth of the Columbia are the principal ones together with Yaquina Bay. The Northern Pacific has already the foothold on the sound, the Oregon Pacific on Yaquina Bay, and if the Union Pacific people have their eye on the main opening at present they will seek an outlet by the unoccupied mouth of the Columbia river.

A line running almost direct from Ogden, their present western terminus on the main line to the mouth of the Columbia would cross the Cascade mountains on the old military road, said to be the lowest and best pass in the cascades, down the middle fork of the Willamette, thence through the heart of the valley, taking in the most productive part, crossing the Willamette at Albany and making a direct line through Polk, Yamhill and Tillamook counties, finding a country already improved and anxious for transportation facilities as well as a vast area along the coast that would be developed by the railroad building and yield an immense harvest of local traffic.

The route is certainly worthy of consideration by the Union Pacific people, if they have not yet had it under advisement.

It is said that the government has been petitioned not to sell any more land to polygamus Mormons, who are flocking into Montana. The residents if that commonwealth do not appreciate the many wived religionists in their midst.

Brazil has finally concluded to participate in the congress of American nations, called to meet in this country next October.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Contributed by the W. C. T. U

Rhode Island follows in the wake of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. The amendment is lost by a considerable majority.

The United States Brewery Association has appropriated the following sums to defeat prohibition: Dakota $2000; Rhode Island $3,500; Connecticut $2500.

A movement has been started in Brooklyn, by Roman Catholic priests to enforce the laws against opening the saloons on Sabbath. The work is under the auspicies of Fathers Fransioli, O'Hare and Barry. Immense meetings are held and men of all creeds and political views are welcomed to the platform. The prayers of thousands will ascend for their success in this good work.

The prohibitory amendment is defeated in Pennsylvania by an over whelming majority. Scarcely an occasional observer, much less a close student of the times could have predicted any other result. The great state was of two mrch importance for the liquor men to lose, hence money was poured out like water, and although Pennsylvania is a state of churches and of temperance societies, and these did not fail to do their duty in the great fight, yet there was found numbers who would sell not only their vote, but their very souls, if they could, for money and rum.

Wilber F. Crafts, the grand Sunday school worker, will be in Oregon in July. His stay is very limited and he can only hold meetings at three points, Portland, Salem and Coryallis. The managers of the O. P. R. R. have offered to send a special train to return those who may go to Corvallis to hear Mr. Crafts, after the lecture in the evening. He will hold an afternoon meeting, and as the Albany people would go up on the 1 o'clock train, they could be present at that meeting. Forty persons are required to secure a train. We should have that number and more, as we very seldom have the opportunity of hearing such a distinguished writer and speaker.
