THE THREE RIDERS.

Three riders set out for the temple of Fame,
Each booted and spurred and equipped the same.
The first rode forth at a rattling pace,
Like a jocky who wins an exciting race
The second set out with a caution, slow,
So that, when need was, he might faster go.
The third rode steadily, quitely on,
At a quick jog trot he could reckon upon.
And which do you think will the winner be,
The hare, the tortoise or number three?

The first one soon broke down, of course,
He saved the saddle, but lost his horse.
The second met the regular fate,
Dallied too long, and was just too late.
The third, I grieve and regret to say,
Did not get there, for he lost his way.
He thought so much of his regular trot,
That to look at the signs he quite forgot.

See how strangely things befall,
Another, not thinking of Fame at all,
Who on his way to the bread-fruit tree,
To provide for his wife and children three,
Went straightway into the temple of Fame,
And innocently asked its name!
They answered him. And with a quizzical face
He remarked: "It's a most uncomfortable place."
Then he went on to the bread-fruit tree
And home to his wife and children three.

CHARMED BY A SNAKE.

A Rattler Fascinates a Texas Girl.

Denison (Tex.) Special to Globe-Democrat

H. P. Hedden, who resides southwest of Denison several miles, brought to the city his little child Sallie te be treated for a snake bite. About 6 o'clock the little girl left the house with a pail on her arm to gather wild blackberries near what is called Stone spring. The child was expected to return home in a few moments, as the family was to leave early to pass the day with a neighbor. The child being absent something over an hour, Mrs. Hidden proceeded to the spring. The child was not there. and the mother called her name loudly several times. Receiving no response she left the spring and walked into the blackberry patch to hunt up the child.

Passing through the patch she saw a scene which made her scream and almost faint in horror. The child was seated on a rock, and curled in her lap was a large rattle snake. The child was carressing the snake, whose head was slightly elevated and moving to and fro. Sometimes the snake's head would almost touch the lips of the child, who pushed it away without appearing to anger the snake. The child was so completely under the spell of the serpent that it paid no attention to the mother, who screamed so loud that her husband heard her a quarter of a mile distant and hurried to the scene.

When Mr. Hedden appeared the snake placed itself in an attitude of battle and the air almost seemed to vibrate with the noise of the rattler. Mr. Hedden advanced upon the snake, the child fell back as if in a swoon, and the snake struck it on the thumb of the right hand, and then sprang at Hedden, who killed it with a rock. Hedden sucked the wound, which he is confident saved the life of his little girl. Saleratus was also applied to the wound. The hand and arm of the little girl were but very little swollen when brought to the city for treatment. The child states that she was sitting on the rock picking berries when the snake appeared, and that she was unable to move when she looked at it; that she was not afraid of it; that when it waved its head to and fro in her face, she felt like going to sleep.

Woman's Discovery

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co. of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Foshay & Mason's Drug Store.

JOYS OF CAMP LIFE.

All Modern Inconveniences, but No End of Fun.

Did you ever go out camping? That's the real way to take solid comfort during a vacation. Avoid country hotels and farmhouses. The true path to enjoyment is to get a party of three or four, hire a tent, load yourselves like packmules with bedding, frying pans and a shotgun and go somewhere. The further you get away from home the better you will enjoy yourself.

You have taken your gun along, and some day you succeed in shooting a couple of chipmunks and a sparrow, perhaps. You don't know how to dress them, though, and about one-quarter of the flesh is wasted in the process. It is easy enough to cook them. Put them into a pot of water, throw in some salt and let them boil. By and by the flesh boils off the bones, and then you regret not having studied up on this matter of cooking. If one is really hungry the chances are that he will have to walk two or three miles to procure a pint of milk and a few eggs from some farmers' wife. Eggs are a food peculiarly fit for the camper out, in that everybody knows how to cook them. But the best way is to beat them all up together and scramble them. You proceed to break them, one by one, in a tin dipper, daubing your hands and clothing liberally in the operation. The last one is stale, and you suddenly decide you do not care for eggs that day. With average camping luck there will be a smart shower every day, clearing off soon enough for your traps to dry before the next one comes along to wet them again.

Here is an extract from a letter written in camp, which will illustrate some of the beauties of the life: "Howard and Dick have gone off gunning, or trying to gun; Joe is outside the tent, busy about something, and I have the first peaceful moment I have had since we came here. This is real fun. We are having an immense time. Rain for four days, but it is lovely this morning. I wish you could see the bushes about here just now. Every one presents some picturesque appearance, covered as they are with overcoats, rubber and woolen blankets drying in the sun. I am barefooted, waiting for one of my three pairs of shoes to dry."

THE TERRITORIES.

They Will Be Well Treated by the Administration.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Secretary Noble, in an interview with Delegate Carey of Wyoming Territory, to-day said that the policy of the Administration would be broad and liberal toward the Territories; that lands where there were no evidences of minerals should be sent to patent; that persons who settled upon public lands or purchased lands in good faith should have their evidences of title; that this was his policy and that Acting Commissioner Stone was in accord with him. The Secretary also informed Delegate Carey that he might say to the settlers of Wyoming that they should have their patents, and that in addition to home rule every proper encouragement would be given to efforts looking to the advancement of the Territories and their admission as States whenever they were prepared to assume the duties of Statehood.

Who Burned Ellensburg?

Tacoma Ledger.

E. T. Wilson of Ellensburg, in speaking of the fire, said:

"The fire which on Thursday night destroyed the entire business portion of Ellensburg, with one or two small exceptions, is still at this moment a matter of mystery. Many think it the act of an incendiary; others the work of an Indian squaw who had been outraged by some white man and sought to obtain revenge by firing the town. Still others, by tramps or vagrants who had recently been infesting the city.

"To strengthen this last idea several reputable citizens stated on the morning after the fire that they had found in their yards a red card on which had been written in ink the words, 'You have no pity—we show no mercy.'

"There is another supposition, however, but as it involves the standing and position of one who was burned out, yet heavily insured, I do not feel warranted in telling you upon whom this suspicion has been directed. Investigations are now on foot, and if this party is found guilty, or indeed if any one is apprehended who set the city on fire, he will be most rigidly dealt with."

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well and popular known as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, and remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers—For the cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try electric bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded. Price 50 cents and $1 00 per bottle at Foshay & Mason.

OVER THE WIRES.

The Salmon Fishing Industsy on the Alaskan Coast.

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES.

The New Soon-to-Be States—Women as Soldiers in Hayti—John L. Sullivan Still Dodging the Officers.

The HERALD Special Dispatches.]

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The secretary of the treasury has received a letter from the collector of customs at Sitka, Alaska, in regard to the salmon fishing in that territory in which he suggests that inasmuch as there are over 40 fishing and canning corporations actively engaged in catching and preparing salmon for market to be distributed over a large area, that he be authorized to visit such portions of territory to see that the laws for the protection of those fish be properly respected. He has been informed that his request cannot be granted because of lack of appropriations out of which his expenses would be paid. It seems that while congress passed an act for the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska and to prevent the unauthorized killing of fur bearing animals in Alaskan waters, it made no appropriation for carrying out such objects.

Commander Schley returned this morning from Philadelphia, where he had gone to accompany the new steel cruiser, "Baltimore," on her first trip at sea. He is in a high state of satisfaction at the action of the new craft that he will command as soon as she is put in the commission. He calls her a magnificent ship, and says she will be the most formidable vessel afloat when fully equipped and armed. The trial was a complete success. The vessel was taken outside and was run through a heavy swell. She was unequipped, and her guns were not compensated for by extra weight. Everything worked beautifully, pointing to a complete fulfillment of the contract requirements.

HAYTIAN AMAZONS.

Legitime Arming Women To Serve In The Ranks.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Times' Port-au-Prince letter of June 29th says: Matters are going to an extreme in Hayti, for Legitime is arming women and placing them in the ranks. He is resorting to everything possible to strengthen his position, which is far stronger than is currently reported. Every peak and prominent position about the city is found fortified, and, though quaker guns are mounted on not a few of the earthworks, the whole system of defense renders Legitime's position a strong one.

Yellow fever is prevailing in the city, though not to an alarming extent. The women serving in the ranks of Legitime dress in male attire and appear to endure the hardships well They are said to be all young girls and many of them are mistresses of the soldiers. Fortified as Legitime is, he is too strong to be taken by Hippolyte, while Legitime, it appears, does not dare to come out and risk a battle.
