A TRAMP DID IT.

No Doubt But the Southern Pacific Disaster Was the Work of a Tramp.

Under these headlines the Portland Evening Telegram says: "There is no doubt existing now regarding the cause of the accident to the Southern Pacific south-bound passenger train near Albany. Mr. Brandt, superintendent, said to a reporter of this paper to-day that he feels satisfied that the switch had been tampered with. The switch bar was found to be broken, and a nut had been taken off from the fireman's side of the track. When the engine ran into it, it moved over to the left and let the engine through.

The engine and tender are not so badly wrecked as thought and can be fixed up in a few days. They will be brought down to the shops at once. The mail car was smashed up a little. Beyond the injuries to the engineer and fireman nobody was hurt to speak of.

The superintendent congratulates all hands upon the fact that the smash-up terminated with so little damage. The track runs on an embankment several feet high, and as the train had over 100 passengers there was great danger of someone being killed. Every effort is being made to locate the party who moved the switch-out, and if he is caught his position will not be a very pleasant one, as public feeling is worked up to such a pitch over the matter that he might be severely dealt with. All the tracks are cleared and the trains are moving.

A Singular Fire. The threshing machine of Messrs. A. M. Flory & H. P. Milten was totally destroyed by fire in Andrea Keany's grain field, 2 1/2 miles north of Lexington last Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, says the Heppner Gazette. The machine was threshing after a header and had stopped a few minutes waiting for grain. William Campbell came up with the header wagon and as the machine started, he asked Mr. Flory, the feeder, to change places with him that lead. The grain had no sooner struck the cylinder, than a flash like sheet lightning came out of the machine, and before water could be procured, was totally destroyed. The horse-power and strawstack were saved with some difficulty. Not one of the crew were addicted to smoking, and what set the machine on fire is a mystery. It is probable that the cylinder tee h struck a small pebble in the shattering, produced sparks, ignited the dust collected on the interior of the thrasher.

Lecture To-Night. Wilbur Crafts, D. D., of New York city, general secretary of the National Sabbath Reform Association, accompanied by his wife, will lecture at the W. C. T. U. hall this evening on the subject of "Sabbath Reform." His wife is also a talented lecturer, and it is expected will deliver an address in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Crafts lectured at Corvallis yesterday, and a number from this city went up to hear them, among them being S. G. Irvine, D. D., Prof. E. N. Condit, Rev. H. P. Webb, Mrs. Henrietta Brown, Miss Elizabeth Irvine and other. Dr. Irvine speaks in terms of highest praise of their lecture in Corvallis.

Will be Tested. Several days ago reference was made by the Herald to an ingenious invention in the way of a harvester made by Wm. Crane, of this city. It is a patented combined header and thrasher and is drawn by 22 horses. Its manufacturer claims for it that it will take the wheat standing, cut and thresh it, leaving the grain sacked ready for market. A trial of the machine will be made upon the farm of James Roberts, near Roberts' bridge, on Tuesday, August 6th. Farmers interested should be present and witness the test.

Fire at Brownsville. The Brownsville Times says: Brownsville came near being placed on the list of big fires Tuesday morning. A fire was started in the engine room of the Eagle Woolen Mills, and everything being so very dry, the whole roof was on fire. The hands at work in the mill came quickly to the rescue and made good use of the big hose which has been supplied for the purpose. By a few minutes of hard work the fire was under control and was soon subdued.

A Pleasant Feature. Those who go to Newport this summer are afforded an opportunity to indulge in the luxury of deep sea fishing. They are also permitted to taste the terrors of a siege of seasickness. Almost daily the trim little schooner Mischief makes fishing excursions over the bar to deep water. Tickets are cheap and many who go to Newport can recount among other things the story of their going out over the bar.

STANDS AT THE HEAD.

The Oregon Exhibit Stood First at the National Teachers' Association.

Concerning Oregon's exhibit at the National Teachers' Association at Nashville, Tennessee, the Nashville American, published there, says: "The exhibits are so numerous and all so worthy of mention that it is difficult to determine which carries off the palm, especially as they differ essentially. Still it seems to be the general opinion that the exhibit from the public schools of Oregon deserves to stand first on the list. This exhibit consists of drawings in crayon and pastel, and also primary work of the same kind. It is no fulsome praise to say that this branch of education has been brought to a high state of perfection in the public schools of Oregon, and the exhibits reflect great credit alike upon the pupils and their teachers.

Special attention is due to the little party of seven who have shown such progressive and enterprising spirit in bringing this exhibit over 2500 miles. Conversation with them reveals the liberal ideas with which they come, ever ready to generously overlook the possible shortcomings of a southern city, lavishly praising its every advantage, and all the while manifesting a just pride in the merits of their own state and country. They have not labored in vain. The general superintendent pronounces their work undoubtedly the best of all. They have gone in to make a deep and favorable impression. Three rooms at the Maxwell are profusely decorated and published as they headed quarters. Their space at the capitol extends over one whole section and in one of the rooms is stowed enough to fill the entire hall of representatives.

Specimens of fruits, marble and building stone and descriptive pamphlets abound. The work is in charge of Major E. B. McElroy, state superintendent of public instruction. This delegation left for their home in Oregon on July 20, accompanied by the admiration and best wishes of all who have known them here, both for themselves and their great state.

He Was No Granger. A good joke is told at the expense of a traveler for a San Francisco stationery house. While in this city some time ago he purchased a fine horse of Geo. L. Blackman. He wanted to feed it well, but he was no granger and knew nothing of the price of hay. On arriving at Portland he thought it would be economy to purchase a ton of hay, and finding a farmer who assured him his load of hay was cheap at $17, he bought it and shipped it to San Francisco. The freight amounted to $21.60. He then paid $10 cartage to Alameda, making his ton of hay cost $48.60. His fellow travelers have since been relating the joke, and his wife now purchases the hay for the horse, buying it from California farmers at $8 per ton.
