MURDER WILL OUT.

Arrest of Three Fiends who Wrecked the Overland Train

A REMARKABLE CONFESSION.

One of Them While Under the Influence of Chloroform Confesses, and Afterwards Corroborates the Same.

Since the fatal train wreck of the Overland Southern Pacific train near this city Sunday night, vigorous efforts have been made to discover who had tampered with the switch. These efforts were rewarded yesterday, but in an unexpected and most remarkable manner.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.

Week Being Pushed Forward A Small Strike and a Sheriff's Sale.

Steam Statesman, July 31.

Sheriff Croisan returned yesterday from Galesville and the front where he has been to conduct the sale of personal property levied upon by Fiechler, Moyer & Co., against Seale & Dean, former contractors at Galesville on the Oregon Pacific railroad. The property was bid in by the plaintiff's attorneys for $1500, who will at once dispose of it at private sale and settle the matter satisfactory between themselves.

Sheriff Croisan says that things appear business like up there and work seems to be going right ahead.
Mr. Croisan says there was a strike for four days last week by the 100 men working at the tunnel, or what is known as the tunnel.

Yesterday morning, however, he came back to have his arms dressed and appeared thrice. He asked the doctor if he had heard anything about who opened the switch and caused the accident. The doctor replied, "Nothing except what you told while under the influence of chloroform." This excited Hill and when Dr. Davis told him just what he said, he made a clean confession.

He said that on Sunday evening, in company with Fred and Herbert Roll, who were working in a threshing area with him, he left Albany for Fremont. They were partially intoxicated, and when passing the switch the younger Roll brother stopped and placed a rock between the rails of the switch, and also tried to break open the lock. Hill said he and the older Roll endeavored to dissuade him from tampering with the switch, and went on leaving him at work. Young Roll soon overtook them and said he had unscrewed the bolt, removed the switch bar and tried over the rail, showing them the bolt. Instead of turning back to notify the train, the three men went on to Fremont. This is substantially the story told by Hill. The doctor informed the officers and Hill was arrested by Constable D. B. Monteith and incarcerated in jail on a charge of murder.

Constable C. G. Burkhardt and City Marshal Hoffman went into the country where Hill and the other two men were at work, and found them, arrested them also on a charge of murder. They were lodged in jail. They were, of course, kept apart from each other, and not told conflicting stories.
The older brother said that the three men went out Sunday evening together, but neither of them remembers the switch. The younger said they stopped and cracked hazie nuts on the switch with rocks.

There is little doubt but these are the right men. Hill says his parents reside at Astoria, and the Roll boys had from Sweet Home, one of them having gained some notoriety by shooting a horse while a neighbor was driving.

The theory generally believed is the three men, who were partially intoxicated, on passing the switch imagined if they turned so that the overland train would run out towards Lebanon and by being about they could trip nearly to their destination and jump off when the train stopped, that they did this and then went to the depot and boarded the train, being on it at the time of the accident. This would account for Hill's injustice, which has foolishly claims was caused by turning over suddenly in bed. He thinks as many they are none the less guilty, and if the right men, richly deserve hanging.

The examination will be held in Justice Humphrey's court at 2 o'clock to-day, and it is expected that the Southern Pacific Company will send up an attorney from Portland to assist the presentation of case.

Much interest was manifested over the arrests and some excitement caused by open threats of railroad employees and others of lynching the prisoners.

The Salmon Pack Will be Light.
B. A. Seaborg, the Baker's bay salmon canner, told an Oregonian reporter the other day that it was his opinion that the salmon pack on the Columbia would not reach 300,000 cases this year, compared with about 300,000 cases last year.
Mr. Seaborg says that the fish traps in Baker's bay are filled with seagrass, and the current being unable to pass through them, many have been swept away by the force of the water. Many more have been taken up to escape destruction. They will be replaced next spring.

As Usual.
We are in the land. To-morrow we will have sweet potatoes, grapes, bers, string beans, green peas, things of this life. Call early and State School Superintendent Mc-Elroy estimates that the ratio of school children to the total population in Oregon is one to five. His report shows the total number of school children in the state to be 93,068, which, on the five to one basis, would make the population of Oregon 465,490, an increase of 216,278 over 1885 and 209,723 over 1880. The population of Lincoln county, he estimates, is 28,470 against 14,339 in 1885.

disease was not at home, Mr. S. E.
White, merchant of Gaylor City, recommended the husband of the sick lady a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and ask him to try it, and it did not cure, he need not pay for it, but to
