THE MAILS. For all offices north of Albany...

Table with columns: Arrives, Departs. Includes train schedules for Albany and other locations.

NOTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Wheat is worth 62 cents. For the finest silver polish in the market go to H. Ewert's.

G. L. Blackburn will sell his entire stock of books and stationery at cost for 30 days.

Fifty pieces of furniture given with all cook stoves or ranges sold by Matthews & Washburn.

Horses run away, boats tipped over, accidents are always happening. Get a policy with Winn in the Traverser.

W. H. Greenwood, photographer, will spend next week viewing the ocean waves at Yaquina, closing his gallery during his absence.

Crawford & Paxton, photographers, will close their gallery and take next week in an outing at the bay.

Rev. Dr. Deere will preach by request from the text, "If a man die shall he live again," in the W. C. T. U. hall at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, Aug. 4.

Our citizens should turn out en masse and listen to Prof. McElroy on Monday evening at the W. C. T. U. hall. The matter of an exhibit at Milwaukee should be looked after.

Surveyor W. E. Barr came in yesterday from the surveyor's camp on the Albany & Astoria railroad line. The survey is now at the summit of the Coast range and making rapid headway.

Mrs. Bunn has a few neat gilt picture frames on hand to which she will fit crayon portraits at from $10 to $20, frame included. Parties wishing to avail themselves of this offer must call promptly, as Mrs. B. will remain here but a short time longer.

Heretofore the Southern Pacific and Oregon Pacific railroads have given excursion rates to Yaquina Bay on Wednesdays and Saturdays, but the crowds have grown so large that these roads have very wisely decided to give regular excursion rates six days in the week. Hereafter pleasure seekers can go and return when they please for $3.50 the round trip.

Nick Zimmerman, landlord of the Waverly House, who was shot yesterday by Barney Wilson, is lying in a very precarious condition. The attending physician has been unable to locate the ball, but thinks it penetrated the left lung, as hemorrhage has been profuse during yesterday and last night. Slit hopes are entertained of Mr. Zimmerman's recovery. The assassin has not yet been apprehended.

The Ashland Record says: Chas. Rideout, of San Leandro, Cal., was in the valley this week looking at the country and pricing lands for neighbors who contemplate to move to Oregon. He is well pleased with the appearance of the valley, and met a number of acquaintances formerly of Albany. He is a cousin of Hon. W. K. Price, of Toke, and a relative of E. P. Rideout, formerly of Ashland.

It is understood that the visit of Senator Mitchell to Ashland has resulted in the understanding that Gen. E. L. Applegate will receive the appointment of U. S. Indian agent at the Klamath Agency, the position now held by Prof. Joseph Emery. Rev. Mr. Bishop, of East Portland, who was appointed, has since declined to serve. The appointment of Fish gives general satisfaction to his numerous old friends in these parts. It is no more than a just appreciation of the general services to that party which he has used his influence for many years. Senator Mitchell also thinks that the daily mail service will be placed on the Ashland-Linkville road again.—Valley Record.

PERSONAL MENTION. Clare Yunk is sick with fever. A. R. Cyrus, of Lebanon, was in the city yesterday.

Jos. Tyler and family went up to Halsey to spend Sunday. Allie and Annie Schlosser went to Corvallis yesterday on a visit.

C. H. Brush, of Portland, is in the city calling on many old friends. Allen Beemer and wife went to the bay yesterday for a short vacation.

Arcible Blackburn, who has been rusticated at upper soda, returned yesterday. W. W. Parrish, of Sodalville, was looking after his Albany interests yesterday.

Marx Baumgart and family went to the bay yesterday for a several weeks' vacation. Carl Luderman, merchant of Ashland, formerly of this city, is making a call at his old home here.

Judge Strahan, Chas. Watts, D. B. Monteith, J. J. Dubraille and A. Klein went to the mountains yesterday.

Frank Dorris, Wm. Stites and his sister, Mrs. Vassello, Merrill Phillips and Claude Strahan went to the bay yesterday.

Col. John Kelsay, the Indian war veteran, of Corvallis, who is prominently urged for the position of consul to Calcutta, was in the city yesterday calling on old friends.

FROM THE SOUNDING SEA.

A Special Letter from the Popular Resort of the State of Oregon.

To the Editor of the Herald: Newport is just now at its liveliest. Its value as a seaside resort is becoming more evident as the crowds here indicate.

The Dalles, Portland, Salem, Albany, Eugene City, and, in fact, from all points within a radius of a hundred miles, come here to enjoy the delightful sea air and the rest which ten months labor demand.

The hotels are full, private houses are full (so far as the residents will admit visitors), the woods are full, and tenting ground is at a premium.

One above the Ocean House, another northeast of Newport, known as the Albany Camp, a third on Nile Creek, called Eureka by some and named Happy Camp by a prominent sign-board, the last at Big Creek.

The weather is delightful. It is said that rarely are seasons so mild as the present one. The days are a little variable, but old Sol beams forth several hours in each twenty-four and occasionally from seven in the morning till seven in the evening.

Newport in itself possesses some attraction. A new Methodist church is being erected, and an evidence of the enterprise of the residents here, Rev. Simpson, of The Dalles, lectures this evening in order to furnish proceeds to assist in its completion.

An earnest worker canvassed the camps and town this morning with tickets. Some residences are being erected and the arrangement of houses on the cliff gives the town rather a picturesque appearance.

Its business houses are rather shabby, and there are but few of them that have not billiard tables or alcoholic liquors, though perhaps hidden from the public gaze. The writer passed into a rather attractive looking confectionery store the other day to find curdains dividing the pleasing boxes of French candies from a billiard hall.

We said that the places of business appear shabby. So they do, with one exception—the saloons. These are as clean and attractive looking as some of those in our metropolises; bright screens are fresh and really nothing appears as fresh and bright on the entire street as these same saloons. Strange, is it not?

Fruit, vegetables and groceries are a little higher here than in the valley. There is a fair delivery system inaugurated for the convenience of campers. Fish of all kinds are plentiful. The government jetty is lengthening daily. The snort of the little engine has a homelike sound to the average Albatopian. A man named Royal fell from the works about fifteen feet to the rocks below and was seriously injured last Monday.

But Mr. Editor, this communication seems to assume proportions that will cause it to become valueless in your columns, and it behooves us to lay aside the pencil.

NEWPORT, Aug. 2, 1889.

Practical Joking. In his Oregonian "Notes and Comments," Sam Clarke very pertinently says: "The latest practical joke is the displacing of a railroad switch, killing the engineer and leaving two others at the point of death. That was what three 'harvest hands' thought the wrecking of a train and attendant death was the consequence. Up the valley there is a desolate home, and a wife mourns her husband dead. A man in the prime of life is cut off and the voice of 'Happy Jack' is hushed at last in death. The idiots and rascals who perpetrated this practical joke may possibly feel some compunctions, now that their joke has borne fruit, but there is law Oregon, and to prevent some other senseless joker wrecking another train and killing scores of people, the highest penalty of the law should be visited on these practical murderers."

Big Fishing. The Astoria Pioneer says that the crew on the Escort broke the fishing record all up into little pieces yesterday, and in three hours, with six lines, succeeded in catching 245 grouper. The fish appeared to have fell right in with a school of the fish, and they were hauled in as fast as the hooks could be baited. Pilot Tom Johnson was out with the tug and caught a genuine blue-black salmon with a hook and line. It is very seldom that salmon are taken with a hook and line, especially out at sea, and Capt. Johnson was proud of his prize.

The Sinslaw Bar. The Eugene Guard says that a letter from Geo. M. Miller, dated at Florence, July 26th, says: "The U. S. Engineers are at work on the harbor making a survey. They report 14 feet on the bar at high tide, and 15 to 50 feet inside the bar. Everybody here seems to think the survey will be of much benefit to the place." Another letter from Mr. Miller dated July 29th, says that "the Engineers have finished work, and that they report as above, also saying the river is the finest along the coast excepting the Columbia, but that the bar will be somewhat dangerous until improvements are made, which will make it a safe entrance."

Good Investment. For a small amount of money that will in a year's time double or treble your money, such an opportunity is offered in South Albany, only one-half mile from the city, embracing the tract of land from Elkins falls to the fair ground road. Lots sold on the installment plan.

TWEDALE & REDFELD. Two doors south of postoffice.

EXHIBIT FOR MILWAUKEE.

Commander E. B. McElroy will be in the City Monday.

The time for gathering the exhibit for the Grand Army Encampment at Milwaukee is now growing short, and really nothing has been accomplished. Our county should be well represented. About all that can be done now is to gather grain in sacks, which will make a very attractive show.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade has been called for Monday evening, at which Supt. E. B. McElroy will be present and present the matter, and a full attendance of members and citizens is requested. The meeting will be held in the W. C. T. U. hall, the G. A. R. hall being occupied by the workmen that night.

More Fishing. Yesterday we quoted from an Astoria exchange a sea fishing story. To-day we clip from the Ashland Tidings a mountain trout yarn, only mentioning that the Alford spoken of is a son of Uncle Thomas Alford of Harrisburg, this county.

The party composed of E. V. Carter and wife, E. V. Mills and wife, M. L. Alford and wife, T. E. Godfrey and Geo. Vaupe, reached home Sunday from their Crater Lake trip, and tell some of the most blood-curdling fish stories ever heard in this modest corner of the world. Mr. Eddings brought home the head and tail of an 18-lb. rainbow trout which he caught with an ordinary trout line and rod and small fly hook in Williamson river—the biggest fish taken on the whole trip. He and the fish had a desperate contest for nearly four hours—the fish on the fly end of the line down in the laughing water of Williamson river, and Mr. Eddings at the other end of the line, balancing himself upon a log over the water, and in constant danger of being pulled in—He never expected to see Ashland again, but the fish finally gave a great gulp of despair and died of exhaustion and the wear and tear of the hook upon his liver, where Eddings's skillful cast had fastened it. Then Mr. Eddings carried the fish to camp and all the boastful fishermen who had been telling about 8 and 10-lb trout breaking their lines and escaping turned green with envy. This is Eddings's story. E. V. Carter and T. E. Godfrey say the fish had Eddings entirely worn out—had dragged him off the log and was just starting out to tow him down to the lake when they arrived at the scene and shot the fish with a rifle. The full particulars of the bloody affray may always be clouded with doubt."

Sad Fatal Accident. The Ashland Tidings says: Richard Hargrave, who lived in Wagner creek valley about three miles southwest of Talent, met with a fatal accident in a well at his place last Saturday morning. He and John Stearns had been digging a well and had excavated it to a depth of about 30 feet, where the water was beginning to flow. Considerable blasting had been done, and Stearns, who was in the well most, was troubled much by the foul air. Saturday morning Mr. Stearns did not feel well enough to go down, and Mr. Hargrave went down in his place. He soon found he could not stay there and sent up the tools, telling Stearns to hurry and let down the bucket and take him out also. The bucket was hastily let down, and Hargrave stepped into it, but when some ten or fifteen feet from the bottom he became asphyxiated and fell from the bucket. Stearns was the only man at the place. Mrs. Hargrave was not able to draw up the weight of a man with the windlass, and the only thing to do was to run to the neighbor's house for help. The neighbor, J. W. Abbott, came as quickly as possible, went down the well and succeeded in taking out the insensible form of Hargrave. Dr. Newman, of Ashland, was called and found the wounded man badly hurt—the well was rocky and rough, and his head was cut and bruised and there were evidences of internal bodily injury. The injured man never regained consciousness, and breathed his last Sunday at 1 o'clock a. m. Death resulted, the doctor says, from injury of the brain and internal injuries. The funeral was on Monday, and was largely attended by the friends and neighbors of the family.

A Postal Law. The following order has been issued by the postmaster general and will interest all: "Any postal card, envelope, or any outside cover, or anything which reflects injuriously upon the conduct, or is plainly calculated or intended to injure the feelings or reputation of the person to whom it is directed or which threatens him, is unmailable. It is allowable for a person to send a request to call and settle, or anything further is liable to result in a heavy fine."

At the Fair Grounds. The Salem Journal says: Work is progressing rapidly at the fair grounds. There are now about forty stalls built and a number of fine horses are already there for training. The grounds are in a poor condition, but the work of improving them will soon commence. The track is also in a poor condition, but will be worked well before the meeting of the state fair association during the week of September 15.

Business Sale. Yesterday Mr. Fritz Hoffman and Henry Taylor, the popular bartender in Marx Baumgart's saloon, purchased the Williamson street and will make it one of the finest houses in its line in the city.

Dressed Chickens. We will have a nice lot of dressed chickens for your Sunday dinner. Call and leave your orders for a nice yellow-legged chicken. Williamson Packing Co.

COAST NOTES.

A daily paper is to be issued at Milton.

The present indebtedness of Washington territory is $126,000. Cheney is to have a fine opera house and a $30,000 reservoir.

Clay, suitable for the manufacture of porcelain, has been found on the land of Joseph Hoff near Uplintown, W. T.

The Goldendale Sentinel says that the shortage in the grain and hay crop in that country will cause hay to bring a good price.

The report of the First National bank of Prineville shows loans and discounts to the amount of $55,857.63, and $69,519.39 deposits.

The O. R. & N. Co. has made a proposition to the town of Wallula to supply water to its residents at $1.50 a month to each house, and for fire purposes free.

Wesley and Harrison, the two men who robbed a Swede of a sum of money in Tacoma recently, have been sentenced to eleven years each in the penitentiary at Walla Walla.

The annual exhibit of the Josephine county clerk shows that the expenditures during the past year were $20,580.14, and the receipts $20,981.16. The county has a debt of $9,743.86.

Charles Hicks and party, of Tacoma, recently ascended Mount Ranier to a height of 14,350 feet, the highest point ever reached. Further progress was impossible on account of a large glacier.

The Ellensburg Register says about 10,000 sheep have crossed the Columbia within the past few days, and 9000 more from the Big Bend country will cross the Moses Coulee ferry in a few days.

The Union Land Company has been organized at Port Townsend, with a capital stock of $100,000, divided into 2000 shares of $50 each. C. F. Clapp, Charles G. Perkins and J. B. Lutz incorporators.

All the Crook county wool has been shipped to market, and the greater portion has been sold. Well posted persons estimate the amount of the wool clip at 4500 sacks, or about 1,350,000 pounds. Of this about 50,000 pounds was brought to the Willamette valley.

An attempt was made to blow open the safe in the office of A. Farquhar at Olympia, but the burglars were frightened off by the approach of officers. They took a few dollars in change from the money-drawer, but did not succeed in getting the $500 contained in the safe.

It is found that out of 125 liquor licenses issued at Seattle previous to the fire, three-fifths of the number were to Germans, the remainder being made up from Swedes, Norwegians and Irish, while there is one Scotchman, one Welshman and but two or three Americans.

The State of Washington Improvement Company has been organized at Tacoma with a capital stock of $1,000,000, by W. J. Gavigan and D. M. Gavigan. The objects of the corporation are to open and work mines of coal and other mineral deposits, to improve roads, and to operate docks, electric light plants, railroads, water-works and gasworks.

Oregon City has taken warning from the numerous disasters by fire this season and will lay a water main along the principal street. It will be connected with a pump to be worked with water power and will be ten inches in diameter from the basin down to the bridge and below that six inches. The pump will give pressure enough to throw water up on the bluff. The pipe has been made at Oswego and is now being strung along the street.

The Oregonian says: Mr. James Steel visited Linnton, where the smelting works are in course of construction. He says the place is the ideal site for such works, and a better situation could not be found. A large amount of work has been done with excellent judgment under the supervision of Mr. Chase, and there need be no doubt about the successful completion of the works, and that they will do a good business. There has been a large amount of work done on the sidetrack from the Northern Pacific part of it being through solid rock.

The Corvallis Times says that one day last week Scott Irvine did something worthy of note and by which he showed his fine horsemanship and presence of mind. Mr. Irvine is employed by one of our butchers and last Wednesday he was driving some wild steers to the slaughter pen. The cattle had been driven some distance and were mad and tried to horn everything in sight. As they came running down Railroad St. one of the enraged steers was attracted by a little four-year old child standing in the middle of the street, bare headed and alone. The animal started for the boy and as Mr. Irvine spurred his horse to full speed for half a block under the circumstances made the blood run cold in the veins of those who saw it. The horse dashed between the child and the steer and the rider reaching from his horse caught the innocent youth by the clothing and lifted him over the fence and into a neighbor's doorway. It was a fine piece of horsemanship and saved the boy's life.

Another Summer Resort. H. A. Thomas returned last evening from Sodalville, where he had accompanied his family. They will remain camped there a month or longer. At Sodalville are quite a number of "seam" people who praise the village as a resort. Mr. Thomas thinks there are at least hundred campers there and all seem to be enjoying themselves in a thorough manner.—Salem Journal.

During our epidemic of dysentery in the summer of 1879 I sold 108 bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and it proved satisfactory in every instance. The remedy is standard in this community.—George B. Darbar, Druggist, Center Point, Iowa.

The epidemic referred to, was by far the worst that has ever occurred in Iowa. Over 40 persons died from it, in a town of only 500 hundred inhabitants; but every case in which the remedy was used, recovered. It was equally successful during the epidemic of bloody flux in Virginia, in 1887, and in Michigan and Southern Illinois, in 1888. It has been in constant use for over seven years, and has proved itself to be the most successful medicine yet discovered for bowels complaints. For sale by Fosby & Mason.
