OVER THE WIRES.

A Trusted Messenger Arrested for Robbing the Mails.

A CHINAMAN TO BE HANGED.

The Record of Crime in San Francisco—A Workman's Death in Sacramento—Other Coast Notes.

The HERALD'S Special Dispatches.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Three weeks ago the postoffice officials in this city were notified that Joseph M. West was reported to be in San Francisco and that he was wanted. No further information was given until yesterday, when Inspectors Seybolt and Irwin arrested West at the corner of Kearny and Sacramento streets on a charge of robbing the United States mails.

It appears that in January, 1888, West was employed in the capacity of mail messenger in Beaver Falls, Pa. His duty was to take the mail from the postoffice to the trains. On January 4, 1888, Postmaster McFarlan made up his report for the quarter ended December 31st, and with $850, the quarter's receipts, in a package sent them through the usual channel to the assistant treasurer. The money package was never received, and its disappearance was noted to have taken place at the same time as the departure of West. The department lately learning of his whereabouts caused his arrest.

West is a beardless young fellow who has been selling a magic soap for the removal of grease spots from clothing and exhibiting trained mice on various street corners for some time past.

When arrested he took the matter quietly. He waived examination yesterday and was committed to the custody of the United States marshal, and will be taken back to Beaver Falls for trial.

WILL BE HANGED TO-DAY.

Wong Ah Hing seems to have no Fear of Fate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Wong Ah Hing, the Chinese who is to be hanged to-day for the murder of his uncle, sits stolidly, hour after hour in the condemned cell, smoking cigarettes and gazing at the ceiling, as if trying to build an airy castle in the Flowery Kingdom. He has a splendid appetite, and the fact that he is to dance on air to-day does not seem to worry him a particle. He eats as often as food is placed before him. He seems to be very fond of fruit, and Sheriff Laumeister has made arrangements to have him supplied with all he wants. With the death watch he is very friendly, but as soon as an outsider steps into the cell he shuts up like an oyster. About 11 o'clock last night, after he had been smoking for about half an hour, he suddenly turned round, said "Good night," and in 10 minutes was sleeping as soundly as if nothing troubled his mind.

WICKED SAN FRANCISCO.

Over Eighteen Hundred Arrests During August.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The monthly report of the chief of police for August shows that during that period there were 1850 arrests. Of these, the greatest number was for drunkenness, as usual, the total for that offense being 875. For battery there were 165 arrests, for burglary 45, and for violation of the gambling laws, 115. There were 7 arrests for murder and 12 for attempts to commit the crime.

Burned to Death.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—Manuel Freitas, an employe of the Eagle winery, met with a horrible death by fire yesterday afternoon. He descended into a tank which had been coated with sulphur in order to receive a vat of wine, when the substance ignited, setting fire to the man's clothing and burning him fearfully. He died in great agony to-day.

CAUSE OF A DEACON'S DEATH

An Astonishing Memorial Erected By a Sorrowing Widow.

Trenton Letter to the Philadelphia Times.

The story of the queerest tribute to the dead on record, comes from Lambertville, in Hunterdon county. Near that town lives Mrs. Elisha Pratt, widow of Deacon Pratt, who was famous as a farmer, a genial soul and an ardent Methodist. He was particularly fond of tickling his appetite, and was deemed considerable of an epicure. His wife was an excellent cook, and her dinner were rare exhibitions of culinary skill for a rural neighborhood. The Deacon enjoyed nothing better than a household of clergymen around a table laden with tempting victuals. And Mrs. Pratt, who doted on the deacon, was in her element when preparing such a feast and helping entertain such goodly guests.

About a year ago a number of ministers were on their way to the camp-meeting at Ocean Grove. There were just a dozen of them. Deacon Pratt had them all stop over night at his farmhouse, and gave them a rousing dinner early in the evening. It was a dinner modeled on the New England plan, as Pratt came from Vermont and so did his wife. There was everything conceivable to eat and plenty of reasonably hard cider to drink. The deacon was in the best of humor, and partook even more heartily than usual of the food. His wife, accustomed as she was to her husband's large appetite, was astonished at the amount he consumed, and made a mental inventory of the various articles and the amount of each that he swallowed.

The next afternoon Deacon Elisha Pratt died of cholera morbus. The physician said the dinner knocked him out. The funeral was the largest the neighborhood ever knew. Eight of the twelve clergymen present at the dinner acted as pall-bearers and the other four officiated at the church and by the grave.

The widow was inconsolable for a while and talked about the tribute she proposed having prepared in memory of her husband. Everybody supposed she was going to erect a handsome monument and the makers of tombstones sent in bids. But they were all mistaken. Mrs. Pratt had in view the most remarkable and yet suggestive of memorials. She had the work done quietly in Philadelphia and it required some weeks to finish it.

When it arrived at the farm and some of the widow's intimate friends were invited to call and see the tribute, they were at first astounded and then shocked, and finally felt a disposition to laugh that was controlled with difficulty. On the table the parlor stood a large glass case. On top of the case was a small arch, made of solid silver. Sprung from an angel blowing a trumpet. Inside the arch and suspended from it center was a tablet of white marble, on which were inscribed the following words in deep, black letters:

"This is What the Deacon Died Of."

But it was underneath the glass case that the great surprise awaited spectators. There on plates arranged in the order they were served, were exact duplicates in quantity and size of the amounts he had consumed. There was a large plate of soup, a big slice of meat, heaping side dishes full of vegetables, three cucumbers, huge slices of pie, a quarter of a watermelon, two plates of ice-cream, a small cup of coffee and three goblets of cider. They were perfect pieces of work in wax, as well as perfect representations of what had passed down the deacon's throat at the dinner. The whole thing had cost some $1000.

The neighbors naturally ridiculed the tribute at first, but they all respected the widow, and when they found that she was really in earnest in her grief and in her regard for the wax memorial, they restrained their mirth and said little about it outside.

Many of them thought that the eulogium had unhinged Mrs. Pratt's mind somewhat. That is why they only after the lapse of a year that the report of the astonishing tribute has leaked out.

NOT WHAT IT OUGHT TO BE.

Dingy Quarters of the American Legation in London.

The official quarters of the American Minister in England would be a disgrace to the United States if it were no bigger than Henrico county, says a correspondent writing from London. A small tin sign beside a door in the tall building in Victoria street contains the legend that this is "The Legation of the United States of America." You are fortunate if you can find the place, for no one you ask has ever seen it. Some think it is at a steamship company's. Having found the place you ring a bell. After a long time a maid opens the door. You say you wish to see the American Minister. Instead of showing you into an ample office, she waves her hand toward the back of the passage, where it is narrowed by the staircase, and with a sniff disappears. You wander darkly back and find a door with a card signifying that this is "The Legation of the United States of America" from which you hail. The upper panel is of smoked glass, to admit a ray of light into the passage; but, as it does not enable you to see, you feel until you find the bell, when you ring again. This time a messenger opens the door and you are ushered into "The Legation"—three or four dim, dingy, little rooms, with old, worn tables and chairs and old, faded, worn carpets.

GRANGE NOTES.

The State Grange of Washington territory will be organized Sep. 10th., at La Camas.

State Lecturer Simpson will visit Eastern Oregon in Grange interests in October.

It is now officially announced that the National Grange will meet in Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 13, 1889.

Thirteen Granges have been organized in W. T. since the meeting of the State Grange.

Farm Life in China.

Popular Science Monthly.

A farmer may be hired by the year for from $8 to $14, with food, clothing, head shaving and tobacco. Those who work by the day receive from 8 to 10 cents, with a noodday meal. At the planting and harvesting of rice wages are from 10 to 20 cents a day, with five meals, or 30 cents a day without food. Few land owners hire hands except for a few days during the planting and harvesting of rice. Those who have more land than they and their sons can till lease it to their neighbors. Much land is held on leases given by ancient proprietors to slansmen whose descendants now till it, paying for its $14 worth of rice annually for $7. Food averages little more than $1 a month for each member of a farmer's family. One who buys, cooks and eats his meals alone, spends from $1.50 to $2 a month upon the rice material and fuel. Two pounds of rice, costing 31 cents, with relishes of salt fish, pickled cabbage, cheap vegetables and fruit, costing 14 cents, is the ordinary allowance to each laborer for each day. Abernethy's advice to a luxurious patient, "Live on sixpence a day and earn it," is followed by nearly every Chinaman. One or two dependent relatives frequently share with him the sixpence.

Disarming an Insect Fev.

"This was sometime a paradox," as Hamlet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unsexed foe, malaria, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Whatever malaria evolves its misty venom to poison the air, and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnate the water, there, in the very stronghold of miasma, is the auxiliary potent to disarm the foe and assure efficient protection. Fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, no matter how tenaciously they have fastened their claws in the system, are first forced to relax their grasp, and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is preventive force that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malarial localities, for it is a certain buckler of defense against which the enemy's powerless. Cures, likewise, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and bilious ailments.

Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co. of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Foshy & Mason's Drug Store.
