COMING WEST.

It is said that in several of the older eastern states the worn-out farming lands have ceased to be profitable for cultivation under the rapid system of American tillage...

While it is to be hoped that the plan will prove a complete success, there is room for grave doubts. There are millions of acres of rich, uncultivated land in this Western country...

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is now announced that President Harrison and cabinet have decided not to call an extra session of congress.

BUFFALO BILL has acquired a fortune and twenty-seven offers of marriage in France. The fortune and the way to spend it are both at his service in that happy land.

GEN. COIT of Washington owns the galleons on which John Brown was hung and proposes to exhibit it. If he wants to show it in action we have candidates to nominate.

English capitalists are not devoting their entire attention to the acquisition of American breweries, mines, etc. They have a few pounds to spare, and a favorite investment is found to be the tourist hotels on the continent.

There is something manifestly wrong about the assessment system of this country, though the workings of which property owners perjure themselves annually. They make an oath that they have given in their property correctly, when in fact not one man in one hundred is willing to have his real estate assessed at its full value.

The French papers and the great daily newspapers of this country continue to publish columns of firestorm dispatches concerning Dr. Brown-Segard's bogus "elixir of life." A long-suffering reading public is beginning to demand a rest on the subject of Dr. Brown-Segard and his elixir.

Mr. W. P. ROBINSON writes a long letter to the Albany Express to show that there is no party in Canada desiring annexation to the United States, and he furnishes confirmatory opinions from many influential and well-known Canadians. Mr. Robinson is undoubtedly right, this year, but he might be wrong the year after.

inclinations of our northern neighbors. With a snug harbor always open to them the opportune day may come at any time when they will prefer to drop anchor there than to take further chances outside.

On the 26th of September, the greatest exposition ever held on the Pacific coast will be opened in Portland, and will continue for a full month. The association has expended $250,000 on the building and grounds, and every available inch of the six and one-half acre of floor space in the mammoth building has been taken by exhibitors.
