Small Blaze at Scio.

The fire was extinguished without much damage.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.

Active Work on The Road Resumed all Along the Line.

MORE MEN GOING TO WORK.

The Road Now to be Packed to Completion Without any Further Stoppage—Track Laying and Grading.

Wm. M. Hoag, general manager and vice-president of the Oregon Pacific railroad company, went to the front yesterday on a special train, returning last evening to Corvallis. His trip was for the purpose of completing arrangements for the active resumption of work all along the line.

To a representative of the Herald Mr. Hoag furnished this information: That the company is organizing its entire force of men to push the grading and track laying, and will keep the track up with the grading, and push the road to completion, as fast as men and means can accomplish it.

"Part of the force," he said, "will go out on to-morrow morning's train, and we are now getting the boarding cars ready for steady work on the road."

Bridge Superintendent Frank J. Miller states the bridge men have received orders to go to work at once. They will be engaged at work on the bridges from the end of the track to the summit, and will probably stay in the field all winter.

Mr. J. S. Antonelle, the contractor, who has been at work with a force of graders all summer, is increasing his force, and an advertisement for more men will be found in our columns this morning.

It has been generally known that active work on the road was delayed in the earlier part of the season by certain negotiations pending between the managers of the Oregon Pacific company and the Chicago & Northwestern people, but now it is understood that arrangements are all successfully completed for pushing the road through to an eastern connection at Boise City without any further stoppage. There is no further doubt as to the fact that the company means business from this time forward, and is now in a position to carry this important undertaking to its final completion, an event which the people of Albany have for years been deeply interested, and for which they have given generous and material aid.

Next season will witness the completion of the road through the now isolated Eastern Oregon region, and the wool and other produce which is now freighted across the mountains to Albany in wagons will come by rail, and a much larger volume of trade with it, while the wealthy stockmen and merchants of that district, instead of hauling their goods a hundred miles or more, will receive it by rail direct from this city in one day; and then, a little later, when the final connection is made at Boise City and a direct traffic with the East is established, the people of Albany will fully realize that they were not mistaken when they directed their efforts toward building up a city here in the heart of the Willamette Valley by encouraging railroads and inviting trade.

During our epidemic of dysentery in the summer of 1879, I sold 108 bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and it proved satisfactory in every instance. The remedy is standard in this community—George B. Darbar, Druggist, Center Point Iowa. The epidemic referred to, was by far the worst that has ever occurred in Iowa. Over 40 persons died from it, in a town of only 500 hundred inhabitants; but every case in which the remedy was used, recovered. It was equally successful during the epidemic of bloody flux in Virginia, in 1887, and in Michigan and Southern Illinois, in 1888. It has been in constant use for over seven years, and has proved itself to be the most successful medicine yet discovered for bowels complaints. For sale by Foshay & Mason.

STATE DISPATCHES.

Sandy Olds, the Murderer Sentenced to be Hanged.

HE WILL SWING ON NOV. 1ST.

A Fatal Accident at Salem—The State Purchases a Tract of Land—News Throughout the State.

Special to the Herald.

PORTLAND, Sept. 10.—This morning the criminal court was densely packed with an unusually respectable-looking crowd, to hear "Sandy" Olds, convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Emil Weber, in May last, sentenced to death. It was generally expected that Olds would make a speech, but he refrained from doing so.

At about 9:30 Judge Stearns took his seat, and District Attorney McGinn stated that the time had arrived for pronouncing judgment upon the convicted man.

Judge Stearns ordered Olds to stand up, and, in reply to the question as to whether he had anything to say why the death sentence should not be pronounced in his case, the prisoner half faintly said, "No, sir."

The court then sentenced him, as follows: "The judgment of the court is that you be taken hence and securely confined in the county jail of Multnomah county until Friday, the 1st day of November, A. D., 1889, and that on Friday, the 1st day of November, A. D., between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 2 o'clock P. M. of said day, you be taken from thence to the enclosure of the jail of said county, and then and there, in the manner provided by law, you be hanged by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

Naturally, Olds turned a trifle paler than usual while he listened to the ominous words that fell from Judge Stearns' lips. He remained in the court room a few minutes longer, consulting with his counsel, and then he was reconducted to the county jail.

Shortly before noon to-day, the little 4-year-old daughter of Mr. William Hidesay fell from the top of the landing of the stair-way in the International hotel, bounding down to the first floor. She was picked up in an unconscious condition and soon afterwards died.

The steamer Wasco was sold today at 1 p. m. by the United States marshal, to ex-Governor Z. F. Moody for $900
