TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION... WEEKLY... A COUNTRY OF INTEREST.

Perhaps there is no part of this ball of earth on which we live that attracts the attention of mortals so much as does the continent of Africa at present. The New York Herald says that Africa will tempt the avarice of every race on the globe within the next century.

"People never hear their own voices—any more than they see their own faces. There is not even a mirror-glass for the voice. Of course there is something audible to us when we speak, but that so nothing is not our own voice as it is known to our acquaintances. I think if an image spoke to us in our own tones we should not know them in the least."

The honor of being the highest point on this ball of earth has been contested for by various mountains, but for years it has universally been accorded to Mt. Everest.
