STEAMSHIP AGROUND.

All Efforts to Raise the City of New York Prove Futile.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Inman line steamer City of New York is still aground in Lower bay, and 11 tugs have been sent to her assistance. It is feared she is sinking in quicksand. The first report was that the big steamer had grounded in the channel last night, but that was a mistake. She lies hard and fast a little east of Buoy 5½. The company this morning expected to get her afloat at 3 o'clock this afternoon. One of the big tugs which went to her assistance returned to Quarantine before noon and reported that all previous efforts to float the ocean racer had been unavailing. This tug did not confirm the report that the steamer was sinking in quicksand, but brought news of considerable excitement existing among the passengers on board.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Viscount Cranbrook, lord president of the privy council, is about to retire from the cabinet, owing to ill health.

THE FLYING SQUIRREL.

A Cute Little Animal That Makes an Admirable Pet.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Among the small animals which are quite a rare sight to city folks, and even dwellers in the towns, is the cunning little flying squirrel. This is really a wonderful creature, and seems to be a sort of compromise between a bird and an animal. It is about five inches long as to its body, which is black and gray and white beneath, and carries a bushy tail quite five inches in length, having a peculiar construction which assist it in its flight from tree to tree, but the main apparatus used in flying, or in reality leaping, is a loose membrane connected to the front and hind legs on each side which the squirrel has the power to expand at will, thus increasing the surface presented against the air. When they desire to go from one tree to another they first ascend to the topmost branch, and boldly leap off into space. Then it is that their kite-like appendages make themselves useful. They spread out and the little animal, guiding itself by the tail, takes a downward, circular flight toward another tree. When it arrives within six or eight feet of its intended landing place it changes its position so as to light upon its feet against the tree, when the membranes become greatly reduced and are not at all in the way.

They live in decayed trees, where, if not disturbed, they become quite numerous. They are difficult to catch, and bite viciously when captured, but they are easily domesticated and make admirable pets, and soon become an unfailing source of amusement to the children. They live upon nuts, acorns, insects, and are said to eat small birds.

Every evening a family of three or four of these interesting surviving denizens of our suburban woods, who make their home in a giant oak, sail across the street, one after the other, to a tree at the residence of the writer, where they scamper about the limbs searching for their favorite food. It seems from their actions that they are nocturnal in their habits and pass the day snugly curled up in their home in the old oak, which probably accounts for their survival long after the dainty gray and fox squirrels have disappeared.

WALTON RIVER NOTES.

WALTON, Lane county, Oct. 8.

Jeff March and family have returned to California.

Mr. Fowler has rented his farm to Mr. Smith of Nebraska.

George Meredith has rented his farm to Mr. Blevins and the latter has taken possession.

Hon. Thomas Vaughan, of Coburg, passed through this vicinity on his return from the coast.

The Walton Grange met with the Pomona Grange at the Chesler school house and became members of that order.

The Collier Bros., of Eugene have the contract of sectionizing a lot of unsurveyed land on the coast, and they are getting a part of their help from this vicinity. They expect to start between the 8th and 15th.

All of our neighbors have returned from the hop yards, where they report the supply much grater than the demand for pickers. In F. Castleman's yard a little child belonging to a family from Douglas county pulled a kettle of hot water on itself, from the effects of which it died after suffering about a week.

Jake Clearwater's barn burned with all the contents, among the rest a milch cow and some money. He had been to Eugene to get some burlap to bail hops and wrapped his picking money up in the burlap, and when he got home he threw it in the manger. After the fire he found that about $20 was destroyed, and the rest was blackened but not otherwise damaged. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lamp by some of the pickers.

Mr. Chamberlain, of Eugene, has discovered a silver and gold mine over on Deadwood, about four miles north of Joseph Whisman's, and claims to have sent specimens to San Francisco and Sacramento to have assayed and they have shown from $20 to $180 to the ton. The deeper in the mountain the richer the quartz. They have traced the ledge nine miles north and south. He and his sons have bought a quartz mill and will proceed to business soon.

Mr. Butler's dog got after something the other night, and Butler went to his assistance and they killed a skunk. Then the dog dashed on a few feet further and commenced barking at a clump of bushes. Mr. Butler went to the bushes and pulled them apart and shoved a torch in and saw what he supposed to be the eyes of a coon. He hissed his dog, when the animal, which proved to be a large cougar, made a dash at the dog and then jumped up a few feet in a tree and looked on the man and dog with unconcern. Butler's torch went out and he beat a hasty retreat and went for help, and the cougar went his way.

The London Races.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The czarowitch stakes were won by Primrose to-day, with Ingram second and Mercy third. There were thirty-two starters.

She Spat on Her Bait.

New York Sun.

We had long since voted her the prettiest girl on the boat. This would have been an offset for poor luck at fishing, if she had only known it, but we weren't saying a word for fear of spoiling her, and by and by she looked up to the grizzly old captain and asked:

"Captain, shouldn't I spit on my bait to bring luck?"

"Guess you should," he replied, "Lemme put on a fresh shrimp and then you can spit."

"Real hard?"

"Yes."

She held the hook within three inches of her nose, twisted her tongue three or four times, and then gave a "hu-choo!" We saw something fly overboard, heard a scream of despair, and the next moment the prettiest girl fell in a heap in the bottom of the boat. She had thrown both plates of false teeth out of her head into twenty feet of water.

The Better Part of Some Dinners.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The latest thing in hotel bills of fare is an edible menu card. You select the dishes you want, and then while waiting for them you amuse yourself by leisurely eating up the bill of fare, it acting as an appetizer. It is the scheme of a London confectioner. He makes a thin sheet of sweetened dough, and after it has been baked he prints the menu upon it in ink made of chocalate. It hasn't got over here yet but, but it will by and by.

THE NEXT HOUSE.

What May Be Done by the Minority this Winter.

THE APPROACHING SESSION.

Views of an Experienced Republican—Representative Burrows Making a Fight for the Speakership.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—"Yes, the minority can practically rule the house this winter in spite of fate, and I have no doubt that it will rule," said General Tom Browne, of Indiana, while discussing this afternoon the announcement by Chairman Mills that the democrats do not intend to permit the adoption of a new set of rules, by which the republicans can do as they please. General Browne is one of the oldest and most influential republicans in the house, and his prognostications generally hold good.

He continued: "Under the most common parliamentary rules—the constitutional inherent parliamentary rules—which must stand under all conditions—the minority, if mean enough, can prevent the majority doing anything almost, and especially is this true where the majority is as slender as it will be this time on the republican side. Filibustering will be easy. Motions to adjourn will always be in order, you know, no matter what the rules are, and the minority can at all times demand a quorum. I do not believe it will be possible for us to adopt a set of rules which will give us supreme power. No party has ever done it, and I don't believe we can now. The majority will be at the mercy of the minority, and if we accomplish anything it will be by sufferance.

"I am certainly in favor of making the best effort we can to get rules which will enable the majority to control and accomplish legislation, and at the same time my best sense, based on experience, tells me that it is next to an impossibility. I anticipate, as Mills, Oates, Bynum and other democrats have announced, that there will be a long fight over the adoption of a set of rules. It will result in a compromise, which will leave the majority practically in the hands of the minority. I am in favor of the majority ruling, if it consumes the entire session to establish the majority's rights. We must start out right if we expect to accomplish anything."

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

The friends of Representative Burrows, of Michigan, are feeling quite well now over the outlook for their candidate for speakership. It is claimed that the elections in the new states last week added five votes to Burrows' strength. During last summer Burrows made a tour of the Pacific Northwest.

In His Old Quarters.

W. R. Graham has opened a merchant tailoring establishment in his old quarters on Broadalbin street. He has received one of the finest lines of genuine imported suitings and pants patterns ever brought to this city. Pants will be made from $6.00 upwards, and suits for $28 and upwards. He has a very large line of patterns, and will warrant all work to be first-class. Those desiring a fine suit made to order at almost the price of ready made clothing should give him a call.

Disarming an Unseen Foe.

"This was sometime a paradox," as Hamlet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unseen foe, malaria, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Whatever malaria evolves its misty venom to poison the air, and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnater the water, there, in the very stronghold of miasma, is the auxiliary potent to disarm the foe and assure efficient protection. Fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, no matter how tenaciously they have fastened their clutch on the system, are first forced to relax their grasp and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is preventive force that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malaria-cursed localities, for it is a certain buckler of defence against which the enemy is powerless. Cures, likewise, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and billious ailments.

Let us give the readers of the HERALD a little timely advice. Hot weather is coming and with it colic, cholera morbus, dysentery and diarrhoea. The only safe way to combat these diseases, is to keep some reliable remedy at hand, and all who have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy will admit that it is the most prompt, reliable and successful medicine known for these complaints. It costs but 25 or 50 cents, and may be the means of saving you or your family much suffering if not life itself, before the summer is over. For sale by Foshay & Mason
