A number of petty thefts are reported about the city. Six suspicious looking fellows were disposed of before Recorder Henton yesterday.

Six vagrants were up in Recorder Henton's court yesterday. Three of them were given five days in the city jail, and were sentenced to work on the streets. The other three were given notice to leave the city, which they did.

The hotel of J. A. Gross, at Waterloo, caught on fire the other day from a lighted candle. The blaze caught in some curtains and spread all over the window, and catching the ceiling above, but was put out with some difficulty.

The democratic papers are attempting to "boom" Governor Penoyer for re-election. This will accomplish nothing, asserts the Times-Mountaineer, as the people are not desirous of elevating to the executive a man who has made so many mistakes as he has during the past four years.

A Proposed New Town.

The postoffice at the junction is now called Tallmont. They propose to call about seventy acres and lay the remaining off in small tracts. They will donate land for any church, school house, or public building and propose to boom the new town. Lebanon Junction or Prairie City are the names suggested for the town. It is four miles from Lebanon.

What can we reason but for what we know? Reasoned says George because I'm from here. Following the custom, others brag and brag. But for the goods do all, that it allow.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The City Grade Case Argued and Submitted—Sylvester Nichols Found Guilty.

The suit of A. H. Marshall against the city enjoining the work of grading Washington street, was argued before Judge Boise yesterday, and was submitted last evening. The status of the case is this: The referee has filed his report, finding that the city has the right to grade the street, and that the injunction should be dissolved, but that a lien for the work of such grading cannot, under the charter, be placed upon the property.

IT IS A SOUTHERN PACIFIC MOVE.

The Narrow Gauge Lines to be Consolidated and Run As One System.

The incorporation of the Oregon Western Railway Company by Richard Koehler, John Kelly, formerly of Paris, and W. T. Muir, with a capital of $200,000, subject to increase, the other day, savors of a Southern Pacific move.

Parties connected with that company have been striving for some time to get control of the lines of the Oregonian railway company, and it is said they have been successful.

The Southern Pacific will merge the Portland & Willamette Valley road, which it controls, into the Oregonian road, and operate the combined lines as a narrow gauge system, under the name of the Oregon Western road.

The incorporators of the new company act upon advice from the Southern Pacific purchasers, of whose intentions they are not informed. Mr. Koehler said yesterday that he had no advice as to what the next step would be.

When asked if the company would bridge the Willamette at Portland he said there was nothing definite in regard to the proposition.—Oregonian.

The Boy Ate Strychnine.

A little son of Samuel Goutley had a narrow escape from death yesterday from eating strychnine. Mrs. Goutley had put out some dough with strychnine upon it for rats at their place near town, and the little fellow found it, and his curiosity led him to taste it. Mrs. Goutley found him eating it, and they at once drove to this city for medical assistance. Dr. McAllister gave the little boy an antidote and in the course of an hour or two he was all right.

Railroad Work.

On the eastern extension of the Oregon Pacific, employment is furnished to over a thousand men, and a gentleman just down from the region of Britenbush says that the line was being built first class in every respect. It is firm, and well balanced, and made to stay. Six contractors are hustling the work of construction, anxious to complete the road to the summit of the mountains this winter. Ton after ton of rails come from San Francisco by each trip of the steamer.

A Big Purchase.

A syndicate consisting of Messrs, D. B. Monteith, S. E. Young, G. F. Simpson, L. E. Blain, A. Hackleman, John Fox, J. M. Bardue and J. R. Abbey have purchased the Thiel place containing seventy acres of land on the south beach at Yaquina, paying for the same $7000. It is situated adjoining the grounds upon which the new hotel is to be built by the Oregon Pacific Company.

AN IMPORTANT ENTERPRISE.

A Proposition to Establish a Branch of the Grant's Pass Sugar Pine Factory Here.

Mr. Harry Miller, of the Sugar Pine Sash and Door Factory of Grant's Pass, is in the city. He says the factory which was recently burned there will be rebuilt. The company had before the fire made arrangements to establish a branch factory here, and they are still desirous of carrying out such plans.

What they propose, Mr. Miller states, is this: To establish an extensive jobbing establishment here, erect an extensive brick building for the purpose, and make Albany a general distributing point for the entire state. The company had intended to put their own capital into the enterprise, but since the fire they have found themselves unable to establish as extensive a business as desired without some stock being taken in it here. The branch will require to start with $25,000 from Albany. Of this amount Messrs. Hochstetler & Sears have agreed to take $15,000, becoming stockholders to that amount in the company and merging their business into it. If the remaining $10,000 of stock is subscribed, Mr. Miller states, the business will be established.

It would be an important addition to the city's manufacturing interests, as it is proposed to conduct an extensive jobbing business here. The lines of work would be sash and doors, finishing material of all kinds, and the company would make a specialty of such work as pulpits, counters, tank and store fittings. The factory here, Mr. Miller says, would eventually become the principal place of business, and would employ about 100 hands.

The advantage in establishing the factory here is the superior shipping facilities offered in Albany. The enterprise is an important one, and there will doubtless be no hesitancy in making up the remaining stock. The matter has been left with Mr. Frank J. Miller, of this city, and Mr. Hochstetler, who will present the matter to the citizens of the city, and if the amount is subscribed the factory will be established at once.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The reading room has been open every night during the past week from 7 to 9:30 o'clock and fairly well patronized.

The new curtains put up Friday have greatly improved the appearance and attractiveness of the room.

The reading room now receives five daily papers, besides a great many weeklies and semi-weeklies from both Oregon and Washington, as well as from some of the Middle, Eastern and Southern states.

The association has made engagements with Prof. W. Steele, of Washington, D. C., to give lessons in book-keeping, short hand and penmanship in their rooms, a special reduction in tuition being given to all who are members in good standing of the association. All desiring to join any of these classes are requested to meet in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday evening. These classes are not to be continued to members.

The association tenders many thanks to all who so willingly paid their subscriptions to the acting secretary of the association yesterday.

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S PLAY.

A Brief Sketch of the Charming Actress, Phoebe Davies—Her Earlier Career.

Mrs. Phoebe Davies-Grismer, the charming actress who will appear in the role of Alice in "The Burglar" by the Grismer-Davies Company at the opera house to-morrow evening is by no means unknown to the Albany public, having appeared in this city several times to delighted audiences.

Phoebe Davies made her debut about ten years ago at the Baldwin theatre in San Francisco in her great part Miss. The San Francisco public, which inclined to be particularly critical, accorded her a most enthusiastic welcome. Her engagement was a great success, and she received numerous offers from Eastern managers, who wished to secure her. About two years later she was married to Mr. Joseph R. Grismer in California, her native state. She is to-day considered one of the best emotional actresses in this country. Mr. Grismer is an actor of power and fine perception in impersonating his characters, and the company has met with overwhelming success everywhere.

This will probably be their last engagement in this city until 1892, as they leave in April for a tour in Australia. The press of San Francisco, where they have been playing, says that Mr. Grismer may well feel very happy over "The Burglar." It is a play that will make a good deal of money. Mrs. Hodgson-Barnett has struck a gold mine in this drama. It appeals to all classes of people. It is comprehensible to young and old, and is in this play the paternal and maternal instincts are powerfully appealed to, there does not seem to be anybody but old bachelors left without an ostensible interest. They are very likely to steal in, if it is only to congratulate themselves that they did not get married. Old maids will require a box of handkerchiefs each. It's a good "souvenir" play, for a good strong eye wiper will always come in useful. The work done by Mr. Thomas in setting this little bit of dramatic jewelry has been most creditable. The play which leads up to and planes off that pretty scene of the child and the burglar is interesting. The relations are made of sufficient importance to be followed closely. There is enough of "The Burglar" to interest deeply without overloading the play. Indeed, it is very much to Mr. Thomas' credit that he has never been carried away by the melodrama. It is all through well acted and Mr. Grismer and Miss Davies play their respective parts admirably.
