SPECIAL. 10:30 A. M.

Not to see our stoves and ranges before buying is a mistake. Mistakes are always costly. In heating stoves we have the largest as well as the most carefully selected stock in the city.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For Albany and vicinity—Following is the forecast for 24 hours, ending at 8 p. m. to-day: Fair weather, warmer; northerly wind.

JOTTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

Mr. Wm. Rumbaugh is quite ill at the residence of Mr. C. J. Stuart in this city.

Bishop Webber, of the United Brethren church, of Ohio, was in the city Sunday on his way to Philomath to adjust some difficulty in the church and school at that place.

Three vagrants, ornamented with a ball and chain each, were in charge of the police on the street yesterday. They refused to work and are now living on bread and water.

Sweet potatoes, celery, cabbage, dried fruits, choice honey, mixed pickles, fresh Eastern corn meal and various good things may be found this morning at F. L. Kenton's near the postoffice.

We have received several complaints from patrons of the public school that the little children in forming in line at the south side of the building are compelled to stand upon the wet ground and mud, which is very disagreeable. A walk should be built there.

Albany is recognized throughout the Pacific Coast as being headquarters for the purchase of fine horses, and this accounts for Mr. Rancey, chief engineer of the Tacoma fire department being in the city at the present time. He desires to purchase two span of horses for the use of the fire department of that city.

New subscribers to the Youth's Companion for 1890 will receive the paper free the remainder of this year from the time their subscription reaches the publishers. Persons intending to subscribe for the paper should leave their order at once with F. L. Kenton, and secure the benefit of this special offer. Specimen copies free.

The second series of vocal instruction by Prof. H. W. Young will begin on Thursday evening, Nov. 7th, at the Congregational church. The work will consist of the study of the chromatic scale, the minors and majors, accent, etc. Those desiring to join the class should attend on the evening named.

PERSONAL MENTION.

L. E. Blain went to Yaguina yesterday.

J. Fred Yates, of Corvallis, is in the city.

C. C. Hogue of Corvallis was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. C. E. Barrows and little son arrived Sunday evening from Huron, Dakota.

Wm. Morgan, chief of police of East Portland, passed up the road yesterday en route to Brownsville.

J. K. Elderkin, secretary of the Farmers and Merchants' Ins. Co., returned yesterday from an extended trip through the Eastern states.

W. F. Conaway and wife and Mr. Patterson, of Independence, were in this city Sunday. They were accompanied by O. P. Tompkins, of Portland, who way on his way East.

The Purchase Consummated.

A deed transferring the property known as the Harper Cranor corner was recorded yesterday. The sale was made by D. E. Monteith to Wm. M. Hoag. The property is 100 feet front and sold for about $20,000. The consideration in the deed was put at $5. Plans are now being drawn for a fine three story brick building to be erected upon it next summer. This will be occupied by the offices of the Oregon Pacific Company, the Oregon Development Co., the Albany and Santiam Transportation and Lighting Co., and the Pacific Manufacturing Company. The latter is a company to be organized here for the purpose of promoting the manufacturing interests of the city by engaging in several different lines of factories.

Last Night's Play.

The Grismer-Davies company played "The Burglar" at the opera house last night to a large and delighted audience. The play is one of their latest successes, and was admirably presented. Mr. Grismer and Misses Davies are favorites in Albany, and they received the hearty plaudits and approval of the immense audience. Little Editha is a wonderful child actress, and the support of the company is excellent. Last night is one that deserves to meet with success.

A Thriving Business.

Should anyone have questioned the amount of job printing being done in this city they would have been thoroughly convinced yesterday had they seen the amount of material being delivered at C. W. Watts' job office. Upon questioning it was learned that although it was a dry load, it was only a part of a large invoice of a large invoice of material he had ordered direct from the Eastern factory, part of the bill having been accidentally left at East Portland and the largest amount of printing material ever brought to this city at one time. Mr. Watts' business has so increased within the past three months that he has been compelled to have Messrs. Allen & Goddard wire his rooms so that by electric light he can run two sets of hands to catch up with orders now crowding him to be filled. It is a credit to the town that business men can get any kind of commercial printing as well done and as cheap as in the metropolis.

The Albany College.

The board of Trustees of the Albany Collegiate Institute met last evening at the Linn County Bank and appointed Prof. Condit as their representative to go East in the interest of the college. Certain important changes in the curriculum are now under the consideration of the board, as well as the construction of dormitories to accommodate the rapidly increasing attendance. It is partly in connection with these changes that Mr. Condit is sent East. During his absence members of the board will visit and look after the interests of the school, in connection with the present efficient corps of teachers. Mr. O. A. Archibald, of the Linn County Bank, will take charge of Mr. Condit's classes in book-keeping during his absence.

Patents Granted.

The following patents have been granted to citizens of the Pacific States during the past week as reported by C. A. Snow & Co., patent lawyers, Washington, D.C.: H. Anderson, San Francisco, sewer; C. W. Bassett, Alameda, Cal., buckle; F. E. Engers, San Francisco, battery zincs; C. O. Eaciot, San Francisco, recording compass; L. A. Gregg, San Jose, Cal., orchard cultivator; T. F. Hagerly, San Francisco, concrete pavement; R. W. Hent, San Francisco, roller bearing; W. S. Holland, Pasadena, Cal., sash holder, etc.; J. Lanchance, East Portland, Ore., washing machine; G. G. Mul-Fns, Los Angeles, Cal., rearing copper and alloys; E. H. Woolsey, Oakland, Cal., speculum refractor.

THE CITIES OF OREGON.

What Manager M. B. Goldstein Thinks of Albany's Business Outlook.

Mr. M. B. Goldstein, manager of the Chicago Comedy Company, which appears here on the 11th inst., is in the city. He has just returned from a six months' tour through Washington, British Columbia and Eastern Oregon, and has had an opportunity to see a good bit of country and to observe some of the surroundings and possibilities of the different growing cities and towns of the Northwest.

To a HERALD reporter he said that he considered the outlook of Albany most promising, nor was he surprised at the remarkable growth and development here since his visit six months ago. In conversation with some prominent business men of the city at that time he said that money invested in Albany real estate was better than money put at interest in the bank, and recent developments have proven the truth of his prediction.

He said that while the laying out and selling of town lots has not been carried beyond the safest transactions, more attention must be devoted to building on the business streets.

"I am surprised," he said, not to see more three and four story buildings. Rents in Albany pay a good interest, and with your superior water power a fine opportunity is offered for providing buildings with elevators. While street cars, electric lights, etc., show a metropolitan appearance, the first thing to impress strangers in any city is the fine blocks on business streets. Some enterprising men will find soon that business property is too valuable to be used for less than three or four stories, and as soon as one or two elevators are put in some taller buildings, and property owners discover that such blocks will rent more rapidly, more of this class of building will be done."

"This is a wonderful country, and after traveling the Northwest coast over I am more than ever impressed with the fresh, healthy surroundings of Albany, and the great, rich country tributary to it, so much so that I feel inclined to invest in a little Albany dirt myself. The Oregon Pacific road building into Eastern Oregon will bring a big trade here, and with the different competing railroad lines and the Willamette river, the city possesses shipping facilities enjoyed by no other in the valley, and ought to be the means of inducing more manufacturing."

"The new woolen mills will be a credit to Albany, and more enterprises of the same kind are needed. The proposition for the establishment of the branch of the Grants Pass Sugar Pine Company's factory here, it seems to me as an important one and should not be allowed to slip."

"There are many other things that come into the mind of a stranger among them the establishment of a public park, bridging the Willamette river, paving the streets and other metropolitan improvements. But these things will doubtless come in good time."

"The country is growing in every part of the Northwest, and Albany is certainly getting the lion's share of the public attention now. There is a pleasing contrast between the disposition of the people here and the less conservative men in the booming sound country. There is such a scramble after the almighty dollar that hotel men and others often 'teach' the unwary and unsophisticated, who are unfortunately enough to possess but little money. Here no such practices are resorted to, and Albany has gained a good reputation for the considerate manner in which strangers in the city are treated."

Mr. Goldstein will be in the city for a week or two, and is likely to go into the real estate business somewhat before leaving.

Excellent Books.

Mrs. Ellen P. Propst, a former resident of this vicinity, now a resident of Eastern Oregon, where a failure of crops made the seeking of some other revenue for the family maintenance, is at present canvassing for the following excellent works: "My Story of the War," by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore; "Plat-form Echoes," by J. B. Goff; "Our Famous Women," by twenty different authors; "Thirty Years Among the Wild Indians," by General Cudge. Of the first work it is said that in this new and superbly illustrated work, the world-famous Mary A. Livermore narrates her personal work and experiences as a hospital and field nurse during the war of the rebellion. We do not know when 700 pages have given us more genuine pleasure. Mrs. Livermore spent four years as a nurse in hospitals, camps at the front, and on the battle-field, and these four years were packed with pathos, glory and sacrifice probably never paralleled in the life of any other woman. Her narrative presents a vivid inner picture of womanly side of the war, more especially of her own work and thrilling experiences, with many pathetic and humorous incidents portraying the light and shadows of hospital life. These are described as only an eye-witness and tender-hearted woman could describe them. Put it into your homes. It will be read over and over again by the young and old, with increasing pleasure and lasting profit, and it will be prized by all. You can, in our opinion, dispense with a dozen other books that not possess this. Every subscriber will consider the price of it a charity to himself."

A SERIOUS BLUNDER.

A Lady Nearly Prostrated by a Patent Medicine.

A lady well-known in the Western Addition has been a great sufferer for years with indigestion and dyspepsia. Struck by the testimonials praising Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, she sent for a bottle. The druggist, not having it, talked them into taking another Sarsaparilla. As the leading Sarsaparilla uses mineral blood purifiers, the effect of the emptying of the bowels to a stomach already distressingly delicate was disastrous, almost prostrating her before the mistake was rectified. She then called upon Mrs. Fowler, of 327 Ellis street, whose name was among those cured by Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. Mrs. Fowler said it was true that she had cured her. Analyzed and tested, the vegetable compound was sent for and gotten. The beneficial action of its vegetable stimulants upon the liver, kidneys and digestive organs, and its warm stomachic qualities, were the very things needed, and she began improving and I was held sold to a fortnight. This sounds like fiction, but the names can be given if necessary.—San Francisco Examiner.

Fortmiller & Irving have just opened a new line of porters, table covers, towel rings, chair pads and necessities in furniture and house-fittings. Call and see their elegant new store in the Masonic building.

AN IMPORTANT RAILROAD MOVE.

Is the Albany and Astoria Road a Part of the Union Pacific's Plans?

Dr. August C. Kinney of Astoria says he has authentic information from Omaha that the Union Pacific contemplates extending its lines to Astoria. The information came in a letter from a Portland man, who had a talk with President Charles Francis Adams, in Boston, recently. The company will soon begin a preliminary survey to find the most practicable route for a line.

A well posted railroad man said to a representative of the HERALD that he had good reason to believe that the Union Pacific intends to reach Astoria by crossing the Cascades southeast of Albany, and that the Albany and Astoria Railroad Co. recently incorporated in this city is a Union Pacific movement. The Union Pacific Co. has recently had surveyors in the field, looking for a route across the Cascades, and more improbable things have happened than that this company incorporated right beneath our noses should be a part of the plans of the Union Pacific in the extension of its lines to the Pacific ocean.

This would also verify the assertion made by Col. T. E. Hoag while here, in reference to the building of the Oregon Pacific to an eastward connection, that it was no longer a question of whether or not the Oregon Pacific would become a transcontinental road, but a question of how many other such lines would be built in the near future.

Professional Courtesy. Last Thursday when Mr. M. B. Goldstein, manager of the Chicago Comedy Co. arrived here with the irrefragable bill poster, Jack Warner, from billing Corvallis, they were going to bill this city, but seeing a telegram that Mr. Sam Thrall, business manager of the Grismer Co. was coming in on short notice to advertise his company, and by the way an old friend of Mr. Goldstein, the billing was put off to give him an opportunity to advertise his splendid company, and have the amusement-loving people witness a good show. Mr. Goldstein's ad. for the Chicago Comedy Co. is in our advertising columns under "New To-day."

A POPULAR ESTABLISHMENT.

How Janus Gradwohl's Golden Rule Bazaar Meets the Public Want.

One of the most extensive and elegantly stocked establishments in the Willamette valley is to be found in the Golden Rule Bazaar store of Julius Gradwohl in this city. In order to accommodate his many customers he is in the field early this year, and has already commenced receiving his immense line of beautiful goods for the fall and winter and for the holidays, and has one of the most gorgeous and dazzling displays to be seen in any Golden Rule Bazaar in Oregon.

The line carried comprises a bewildering assortment of fine china, glassware and glassware of the latest styles and most delicate designs. The beautiful china and glassware, together with the decorated and fancy wares, novelties, elegant stand and hanging lamps, toys, boys' wagons and general bazaar goods, present a scene well worth one's time to visit.

Here may be found a complete line of table cutlery of the celebrated makes, Roger Bros.' silver and silver plated goods and Bohemian wares of every variety while his stock of dolls, toys, toilet and fancy goods, in plush and silver, and novelties for the children will be larger than ever before. Mr. Gradwohl has enlarged his stock in such a replete manner that his Golden Rule Bazaar is not only a credit to the city of Albany but to the entire Willamette valley, being one of the most extensive establishments of the kind in Oregon. The most important feature to purchasers is in prices, and when we assert that his prices are as low as any house in the state and that his goods are sold at figures that cannot be equaled in the Northwest, it is but the recital of an absolute fact. It will be to the interests of the country merchants to purchase their holiday goods from this establishment, and orders should be sent in at once.

Mr. Gradwohl has long since proven his adaptability to this business, and it is taking no risk to say that this emporium of elegant fancy and decorative ware is the most complete in the Willamette valley. Those who deal at the Golden Rule Bazaar, will find a large assortment to choose from, and a square, reliable gentleman to deal with.

Newspapers and Magazines.
