ELECTION RETURNS.

Pugilistic Encounter at Toronto Before a Large Crowd.

MUCH SCRATCHING DONE. Only Small Offices at Stake—Colored Vote in Virginia—Ohio Out in Force—A Quiet Election.

The HERALD'S Special Dispatches.]
TORONTO, Canada, Nov. 5.—A boxing contest between Jake Kilrain and John Scholtes, of this city, last night was witnessed by one thousand people. Four rounds, Queensberry rules, were boxed. Scholtes was in first-class condition. Kilrain was very fat. Kilrain was on the defensive most of the time. General opinion was that Kilrain did not exert himself.

THE ELECTION.

An Off-Year Politically and Everything Quiet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The weather throughout the state is generally fair and cold. Reports show an off-year vote. Everything in the city is very quiet. A large amount of scratching is reported.

NOON.—The great bulk of the vote of this city seems to have been polled before 10 o'clock. Politicians are all at sea as to the result. Indications are that Taylor and Wemple, on the democratic state ticket, will run considerably behind. The vest-pocket vote is larger than ever before known.

VIRGINIA

Is Claimed by Both Republicans and Democrats.

REICHMOND, Nov. 6.—Indications are favorable to a good vote being polled throughout the state and in the city. While the democrats have been voting steadily the negroes have not as yet turned out in their usual strength. Contrary to the expectations of many, up to noon no trouble had occurred. Both parties claim Virginia. The weather opened cool and cloudy.

ILLINOIS.

A Very Light Vote Polled—Cool Weather.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—A very light vote is being cast. Only minor county offices and two judgeships are at stake. The weather is cool and cloudy.

OHIO.

Foraker Not Scratched to Suit Opponents.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 5.—A heavy vote is being polled. Foraker is being scratched, but not to the extent anticipated by the democrats.

PENNSYLVANIA.

A Light Vote is Being Cast—Clear and Cold.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—A light vote is being polled throughout the state. It is clear and cold.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC.

Wall Street Agitated Over the Mystery Concerning Its Affairs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Times says: Wall street has been much worried lately over the mystery in the affairs of the Missouri Pacific. The price of the company's stock fell three points in the last two days of the week's business from causes that apparently nobody but an insider could understand. It has been reported that Jay Gould has intimated that dividends upon the stock were about to be suspended. This has sounded unreasonably, for the reason that the quarterly dividend has just been paid and that the next one is not due for nearly two months. There seems to be much more basis for the belief that a very substantial issue of bonds is to be made. It has leaked out that Jay Gould, George Gould and Russell Sage have "claims" against the Missouri Pacific company "for moneys advanced, etc.," aggregating $7,875,000. Other claims not openly held in the Gould-Sage name are said to be of size enough to make a total of $10,000,000, which is the amount of the bonds now said to be ready to be issued.

Wash for Trees.

The Sutter County Farmer is indebted to Mr. J. T. Bogue for the following receipts for cleaning trees, giving its effect and advantages:

Take stone lime, slake and prepare as for ordinary whitewash, in an old barrel or box. Take enough at a time to make bucket two-thirds full—proper consistency for ordinary whitewashing. Now add one pint of gas tar, one pound of whale-oil soap dissolved in hot water, or one pint common soft soap, or one pound of potash, or one pint strong lye from wood ashes, then add clay or loam enough to make a bucket full of the wash of proper thickness to be applied with a whitewash brush. If the trees have had the earth ridged up around them, take the earth away from around the collar, and apply the wash to the body of the trees, from the limbs to the ground or down the roots. Its advantages are: First, it will destroy the barklouse, will give the trees a bright green, healthy appearance. This wash will drive out all borers that may be in the trees, and the moth will not deposit eggs on or about the trees the same season the wash is used. All who grow apple, peach, dwarf pears, quince and ash trees should not fail to use this wash; don't fail to use it because not patented and sold at a high price. We have known cases where peach trees have been badly affected by the borer; they have all left, and the trees become healthy and vigorous with one application of this wash. Again, mice and rabbits will not gnaw trees where the wash is used. Apply in May for borers and general benefit to the trees, and the late autumn as a preventive against mice and rabbits. Gas tar, applied pure, will kill trees.

Irresistible America.

London Spectator.
No State, however powerful, will ever again do with ease anything to which the American republic is strongly opposed. There is not a diplomatist in Europe who does not know this; or who does not hold that Napoleon III was only sane in quitting Mexico, and that Prince Bismarck showed his wisdom when, rather than quarrel seriously with Washington, he abandoned all pretensions in Samoa. Regarded from the point of view of diplomatists, it is because of her American alliance that the legislative independence of Ireland would be dangerous to Great Britain—so dangerous that we rather wonder Mr. Gladstone, unlike most his subordinates, did not take pains to avoid showing how deeply his Irish leadership makes him feel the ever-growing strength and irresistibility of the Union. It was of that he thought when he pointed out that already Great Britain was surpassed in population by the republic, as a century hence Europe, as a whole, probably will also be.

A New Wind Instrument.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
The latest invention in cheap mouth instruments comes from Austria, and is generally called the "laxet potato," though its right name is the ocarina. It is made of clay, and exactly resembles a sweet potato in shape. It is a kind of combination of the flute and clarinet, but is, of course, very much shorter. The ocarina is made in every key and can be played with out difficulty, being probably the easiest-learned musical instrument ever invented. It is very clear in its tone, and answers well for experiments with the phonograph.

Another Addition.

OLD CHINESE BRIDGES.

Engineering Science in the Celestial Empire.

The Chinese suspension bridges, dating from the time of the Han dynasty (202 B. C. to 220 A. D.), furnish striking evidence of the early acquaintance of the Chinese with engineering science. According to the historical and geographical writers of China, it was Shang Lieng the commander of the army under Raen Tsu, who understood the construction of the roads in the province of Shensi, to the west of the capital, the high mountains and deep gorges of which made communication difficult, and which could be reached only by circuitous routes. At the head of an army of 10,000 workmen Shang Lieng cut through mountains and filled up the valleys with the soil obtained from the excavations. Where, however, this was not sufficient to raise a road high enough, he built bridges resting upon abutments or projections.

At other places, where the mountains were separated by deep gorges, he carried out a plan of throwing suspension bridges stretching from one slope to the other. These bridges, appropriately called by the Chinese writers "flying" bridges, are sometimes so high as to inspire those who cross them with fear. At the present day there is still a big one existing in Shensi 4000 feet long, which stretches across a gorge of immense depth. Most of the bridges are only wide enough to allow of the passage of two mounted men, railing on both sides serving for the protection of travelers. It is not improbable that the missionaries who first reported on Chinese bridges two centuries ago, gave the initiative to the construction of suspension bridges in the West.

DIVINATION BY CRYSTALS.

Revival of an Art Practiced by Ancient Necromancers.

The notice of a scientific man has recently been directed to the revival of the old experiments in "crystal vision" known as divination to the Assyrians, Persians, Japanese and Hebrews in the earliest times, says a writer in the Youths' Companion. The necromancers among these people in the early ages of the world secured that they were able, on looking into a crystal or beryl, or into a cup filled with a black, opaque liquid, to see scenes and figures which retold the future. It was the cup with which Joseph "divined" our readers will remember, that was placed in his brother Benjamin's sack.

Down through the whole course of English and French history we find occasional mention of crystal divination as practiced by charlatans. It is revived now, and with the light of science turned upon it will probably prove to be a very simple matter. The experimenters in England and this country procure a globe of crystal, or black, shining surface, and holding it close to their eyes look fixedly at one point until a scene of dizziness and faintness is produced. Then they assert that pictures are seen in the magic mirror—figures, landscapes or woods. These "visions," they state, can invariably be referred to some idea which had passed through their brains and had been retained by the memory.

While the explanation of the phenomena is not yet fully given by physicians, it is probable that the art is produced by the strain upon the optic nerve, which affects the brain.

Group Can Be Prevented.

We want every mother to know that group can be prevented. There is no question about this; as it has been done in thousands of cases, and you may depend upon it that when a child takes the group it is wholly owing to the negligence of its parents. True group never appears without due and timely warning; a feverish day or two before its attack, the child becomes hoarse. This hoarseness is the first indication of group, and is a sure sign that group is to follow, unless promptly and properly treated. The free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed with each bottle, under the heading "To prevent group," will dispel all symptoms of the disease. This first sign of group, hoarseness, may be overlooked by busy mothers or those not familiar with the disease. Under such circumstances, or when not promptly treated, the hoarseness becomes more marked, and the child shows signs of symptoms of having taken cold, then a peculiar, rough cough is developed. Even at this stage Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the group, but after the cough has developed the child is liable to appear at any moment. The proper way is to keep a bottle of this remedy at hand, it costs but 50 cents, and only a few doses, or at most not over a third of a bottle, is required to dispel all symptoms of the disease. Can you afford to risk so much for so little? There is not the least danger in giving this remedy in large and frequent doses, which are always required, as it contains no injurious substance. As proof of this fact we refer to John L. Olson, of Des Moines, whose 18-month-old boy drank the entire contents of a 50 cent bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy without the least injury. Certainly it made the baby vomit very freely; but after taking a nap he would have been glad to have drunk another bottle of the remedy, as he liked it. A similar instance occurred near Valley Springs, Dakota. Mrs. Mattie Johnson's two-year-old daughter, Annie, drank the entire contents of a 50 cent bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy without the least injury.
