MORE ABOUT BRIDGES.

To THE EDITORS OF THE HERALD: In your issue of Dec. 27th Advance, writing in opposition to the proposed Santiam bridge, quotes from the circular issued by the Woodburn Independent, relating to certain appropriations likely to be made by the Marion county court for the benefit of Salem, and says: "Yes, Jefferson in morses this exwell as the most carefully selected tened to an old wagon. Among pendagre, and this, it is supposed. insures the bridge." This statement is latse. The people of Jefferson discovered that the statements contained in the circular were highly exaggerated, and the meet lag sensibly resolved: "That we are opposed to any unreaso a le expenditure for the effection of an armory building in Marion county; that we oppose any appropriation for advertising; that we favor improvement of roads in any manner that may be legally and justly deended upon; and, further, that we have confidence in the good sense and judgment of our county court in the matter." So much for the action and motives of the Jefferson people. Advance objects to the bridge because a small amount of trade may go from Linn county to Jefferson. This trade is now, and and for years has been, going to Jefferson, for the reason that each trip to Albany means the loss of an entire day, while Jefferson is near at hand. On the other hand there are many people of Marion A resparkable increase is shown county, in the vicinity of Jefferson, in the business of the Albany post- and of the Forks of the Santiam in visit Albany to do business. Advance's views in this regard Dec. 30 1466 65 are entirely selfish, and are not shared by the merchants of Albany, a great majority of whom have joined us in petitioning for the bridge. There are many good and and sufficient reasons for the immediate construction of this bridge, and the matter of a little trade in either direction should not be factor in considering the question. The location is on the central road through this great valley the cities of Albany and Salem. The wonder is that the prosperous counties of Linn and Marion should so long permit the obstruction of so important a thoroughfare.
