

Morning Daily Herald

SPECIAL 12:30 A. M.

Not to see our stoves and ranges before buying is a mistake. Mistakes are always costly. In heating stoves we have the largest as well as the most carefully selected stock in the city.

ON SALE. The DAILY HERALD will be on sale each morning at the new stand of W. F. Kuhn's, where it can be procured at 5 cents per copy.

WEATHER INDICATIONS. For Albany and vicinity—Following is the forecast for 24 hours, ending at 8 P. M. to-day: Rain; stationary temperature.

NOTINGS ABOUT TOWN. The river is steadily falling at this city.

Crawford & Paxton have made a large number of views of the flood.

One or two storm-going tourists will leave to-day, going down the river in a boat.

Albany has been extremely fortunate in escaping any serious damage from the floods.

Prof. Palmer has made arrangements to organize a class in violin studies for orchestral practice.

A messenger from the forks of Santiam states that the approach of the Sanderson bridge is damaged somewhat, but the bridge itself is all right.

The supreme court is not in session in Salem this week. The attorneys in the different cases are unable to reach the capital, and Justice Strahan is storm-staid in this city, and could not reach Salem without walking or swimming down the river.

Death of D. B. Allen. The word brought to this city on Monday from Jefferson that D. B. Allen, the owner of the Jefferson terry, was dangerously sick, proved to be true.

The word brought to this city on Monday from Jefferson that D. B. Allen, the owner of the Jefferson terry, was dangerously sick, proved to be true. Messengers brought word that yesterday morning Mr. Allen had passed away. D. B. Allen was a native of Pennsylvania, 43 years old and served in the 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry. He was a member of McPherson Post No. 5, G. A. R., and Safety Lodge No. 13, A. O. U. W., in this city, and also a member of the Odd Fellows order. The disease was peritonitis. The funeral services, by Comrade Allen's request, will be conducted by the G. A. R. Post, assisted by the A. O. U. W. lodge.

Divers Opinions. A dozen or more gentlemen gathered in the waiting room of the depot hotel yesterday, a number of them employees of the railroad, were prognosticating on the probabilities of the trains resuming running on the Southern Pacific. On some wager each one figured out the probabilities of when the first train would run through from Portland to Roseburg. The result was a variation of dates ranging from the 11th to the 24th inst., as follows: J. A. Grose, February 12th; C. E. Fields, February 24th; Gus Barker, Feb. 20th; W. L. Lester, Feb. 13th; H. L. Floggatt, February 13th; M. Young, February 14th; T. G. Neale, February 14th; C. E. Happersett, February 15th; Wm. Bau, February 12th; Lew Cavish, February 12th; S. W. Leonard, 11th.

LETTER LIST. Following is the list of letters remaining uncalled for in the post office in Albany, Linn Co., Oregon. Persons calling for these letters will give the date on which they were advertised: Armstrong, Miss Minnie; Addams, B. F.; Brown, Fred; Coffee, John—2; Costas, Miss Magnus; Davis, Miss Millie; Douglas, Pat; Fanno, E. B.; Giren, G.; Griche, W.; Herron, Orin; Irving, Samuel C.; Jarrett, R. F.; Jackson, Mr.; Janson, Thomas—2; Lewis, J. B.; Kitchen, Lou A.; Mattson, Isaac; Miller, Mrs. F. A.; Minler, Peter; Powell, T. A.; Parkinson, E. C.; Roberts, Mrs. Lizzie; Russell, Wm.; Rosenthal, Barney; Shelton, Mrs. E.; Shannon, John W.—3; Scott, J. W.; Shields, R. G.

Worthy of Praise. Albany can be congratulated upon having an electric light and power plant that does not succumb to the difficulties of the present situation. Every other city in the state of Oregon, which depends upon electricity for its light, is in darkness, but Albany, with its plant run by two powerful 60-horse power engines, runs steadily along with all its lights on at full power. All honor to the staunch company who guards the city's welfare so faithfully.

Astoria. The lots offered for sale in another column are without question the most desirable lots for the money that are to-day offered in Albany. Do not miss this chance to make some money. Call at the office and compare locations. E. G. Beardsley, agent.

PATH OF THE FLOOD.

A Few Meagre Details Caught from the Crippled Wires.

DESTRUCTION EVERYWHERE.

The Water Reaches Second Street in Portland—The Roseburg Woolen Mills Gone—The Stayton Bridge Safe.

PORTLAND, Feb. 5.—The water has been rising steadily all day. This morning it had reached First street and was two feet deep on Front. This evening the water has reached Second street. Business houses along Front street are flooded. It was feared that the Morrison street bridge would go out, but it is now considered safe.

OREGON CITY INUNDED.

OREGON CITY, Feb. 5.—The water is from 28 to 30 inches deep in the stores on Main street. The Excelsior mills went out this morning, entailing a loss of $50,000. The water is over the tops of the telegraph poles in many places in the Clackamas bottom. Many houses have been swept away.

William Miller and family were rescued from their submerged residence last night under peculiar circumstances. They lived in a small house near the river. They were driven by the flood into the upper story. Mrs. Miller was in a delicate condition. Last night the rising waters reached the second floor. Then the husband fastened a swinging bed to the rafters, from which Mrs. Miller and her newborn babe were rescued. It was a boy, and has been named Moses.

ROSEBURG WOOLEN MILLS GONE.

ROSEBURG, Feb. 5.—The woolen mill at this place has been washed away by the flood. The loss will be about $5000. Many of the bridges of the county are gone.

SAW-MILL WASHED AWAY.

SALEM, Feb. 5.—A messenger from Independence states that the saw-mill at that place yielded yesterday to the flood and went out. The loss will be heavy.

THE STAYTON BRIDGE.

JEFFERSON, Feb. 5.—A messenger who arrived this evening from Stayton says that the wagon bridge across the Santiam at that place is safe. One of the approaches is somewhat damaged.

FROM MARION COUNTY.

GERVAIS, Feb. 5.—Your correspondent has been at South Prairie and Mission Bottom all day with hundreds of other visitors viewing the river and ruins. At that point the river is about 3 1/2 miles wide. There is no loss of life but great danger exists. The loss of stock is large. Several families are in destitute circumstances, having lost their all. A number are sick. Medical aid, provisions and clothing will be sent here tomorrow. The neighbors are doing all in their power to aid and assist the sufferers. Mr. Leonard Jones and family are the heaviest losers, losing about $3000, including the fine stallion "Grey Duke," valued at $1000. They narrowly escaped with their lives. The river fell during the day about six inches.

THREE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

EGUISE, Feb. 5.—E. J. McClannahan and E. R. Luckey went down the river to-day in a boat as far as Irving. Near the river they found two woodchoppers, who had left their submerged cabin and had been clinging in a tree-top for three days without food. They were rescued and cared for.

NEWS FROM SALEM.

Flags of Distress Flying in the Inundated District.

Special to the Herald.

SALEM, Feb. 5.—After almost equalling the flood of '61 the water is going down. Yesterday was the second day of the memorable flood, and it will not soon be forgotten. There were scenes of destruction and loss that beggar description. Salem, although losing heavily, has been fortunate in escaping with no loss of life. Far more fortunate is she than her neighbors to the north on Kaiser Bottom, where much stock perished and where not few people suffered. In Kaiser Bottom the situation is sad. The current is so swift that small boats could not live and rescuers had to look on the distress flags and listen to the cries for aid, powerless to act. At Carr's house flags are waving and Carr, his wife, two daughters and son are known to be imprisoned in the upper story of a small barn. Nothing can be done for them, but as the flood is past its height, the hope is that they may still be safe.

At Bybe's the valuable stock is all safe, closely imprisoned in the barn, with water roaring past the door. On South prairie the situation is about the same. Many head of cattle are drowned and R. S. Scott's house is gone. In Salem fifty houses are flooded, both docks are gone and several houses. The big bridge fell Monday. The electric light works are flooded and the water works are shut down. No lives have been lost here. The river is now receding, after reaching its highest yesterday afternoon.

A Timely Hint.

A celebrated physician says that during high water or floods the best thing for people to take is good strong coffee. He forgot to mention that Mueller & Garrett have the finest coffee in the city, ground free of charge. We also have the finest assortment of teas in bulk or packages.

We are not here for only 10 days but to stay and help build up Albany, and we will guarantee at all times to sell you the best goods at the lowest possible price. W. F. Read.

NEWS FROM PORTLAND.

The Metropolis Inundated The Water Up in Business Houses.

Mr. Geo. E. Porter, of this city, who is in the employ of the Oregon Pacific Railroad Co., came down from Corvallis yesterday. The West Side telegraph line to Portland was working and news had been received from there.

On Tuesday night the water on Front street in front of the Oregonian office was two feet deep, and yesterday morning it had reached First street and was up in the Western Union office. The bridges across the river at Portland were considered safe. The Columbia was very high. The cables of both the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies were down and the wires have been strung across the Morrison street bridge. The city was in darkness, the electric lights having been stopped by the high water.

THE RIVER AT CORVALLIS.

Mr. Porter came down from Corvallis in a skiff. He stated that the government reclamation work at that place had gone out and the river had spread over upon the Linn county side for three miles, and was running across in a fierce current, threatening to change the channel of the river so as to pass some distance from the town. Several small buildings on the east side of the river were washed away and considerable stock was drowned.

A work train on the Oregon Pacific came down to Bowers slough, and a train from Yaquina will reach Corvallis to-day, the track westward being all right. Mr. Porter, with a force of men will resurrect the telegraph line from this city to Corvallis to-day.

A Heroic woman.

Idaho Democrat: On Tuesday of last week a painter of this city named Kessler induced two boys residing near the mouth of More creek, to accompany him to a hunt on King hill, where the day before he had killed a deer. The names of the boys were Sias Sandlin and Jimmy Percy, the latter but fourteen years of age. During the hunt Kessler selected a point where he desired the boys to remain until he came for them again, but not making his appearance, the boys started home taking with them a pony that Kessler had left with them belonging to Jake Meyers. Young Percy gave out when within two miles of Oliver Call's house, while Sandlin proceeded on and told what had transpired to Mrs. Call. She forthwith mounted the horse, then at 10 o'clock at night, came to where the boy was lying in the snow, and placing him on the horse packed him to her house where she used all the remedies in her power to restore him. Mr. Call was away from home. The boy's feet and hands were badly frozen and his back was blistered. Amputation of some of his toes and perhaps portions of both feet may be necessary. He will be brought to town tomorrow on a sled so that medical attendance may be promptly rendered.

How He Got Even.

A young lady of East Portland broke off her engagement with a suitor some time ago when a wealthier lover appeared on the scene. She wrote to her old lover requesting him to return her photograph. Here was a chance for revenge, what to do and how to do, and how to obtain this sweet revenge was the perplexing question. Finally he sought this method and sent her the following note: "I would gladly comply with your request, but if I did it would spoil my eucure deck. I have a collection of photographs which I use for playing cards, and I do not want to break it by giving away the queen of diamonds."

Cottonwood and Paper Making.

The business of cutting and rafting cottonwood logs to the paper mill of the Willamette Pulp and Paper Company at Oregon City, is quite an enterprise. On Brown's island, near Salem, there is constantly employed a force of twenty men. Of this number six do the rafting, while the remainder are employed in the logging camp cutting the logs and making them into rafts. Each week an average of 250,000 feet go down with the current and come from the mill in a few days as first-class paper. Work on the island will be continued two or three months longer or until the timber has all been felled. Then the men will move up on the Santiam and continue operations. Most of the timber they use is the balm, or female cottonwood, there being but few male forests, or cottonwood proper, in the valley.
