OVER THE WIRES.

An Angry Scene in the United States Senate.

SENATOR EDMUNDS RESIGNS.

Montana Democrats Brought in by Force—A Senator Arrested—Nearly 200 People Killed.

The Herald's Special Dispatches.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Senator Edmunds yesterday in the executive session tendered his resignation from the foreign affairs committee, claiming that he had played a trick on him in not securing the passage of his resolution on Tuesday in connection with the ratification of the Samoan treaty. The resignation was declared out of order. The senate refused to consider the ratification of the treaty and Edmunds in anger left the senate chamber.

Before the house committee on marine and fisheries James B. Montgomery, of Portland, read a document in favor of subsidies to American vessels.

FAMOUS ANARCHIST CASE.

The Supreme Court Orders Their Release on a Technicality.

SPRINGFIELD (Ills.), Feb. 7.—The state supreme court rendered a decision to-day in the famous anarchist case of Niehe, Fielden and Schwab, now in the penitentiary, holding that they were denied the constitutional right to be present when the court passed sentence on them. This point has never been decided by the federal supreme court, and if it is sustained it will release the three prisoners and many others and render illegal the recent execution of the other anarchists.

THE MONTANA MIDDLE.

Arresting the Recreant Democrats Who Refused to Attend.

HELENA, Montana, Feb. 7.—The senate to-day adopted a resolution requiring the absent democrats to be present, under penalties ranging from $50 for the first day's absence to $1000 for the sixth, and directing all the sheriffs of the state to arrest them. Senator Becker was arrested at Glendive.

AN UNKNOWN LAND.

A Portion of This Country Never Trodden by White Men.

Seattle Press.

Washington has her great unknown land, like the interior of Africa. The country shut in by the Olympic Mountains, which includes an area of about 2,000 miles square, has never, to the positive knowledge of old residents; of the territory, been trodden by the foot of man, white or Indian. These mountains rise from the level country within ten or fifteen miles of the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, in the north, the Pacific Ocean in the west, Hood's Canal in the east and the basin of Quinalt Lake in the south, and rising to the height of 6,000 to 8,000 feet, shut in a vast unexplored area.

The Indians have never penetrated it, for their traditions say that it is inhabited by a fierce tribe which none of the coast tribes dare molest. Though it is improbable that such a tribe could have existed in this mountain country without their presence becoming known to the white men, a man has ever ascertained that it did not exist. White men, too, have only vague accounts of any white man having ever passed through this country, for investigation of all the claims of travelers has invariably proved that they have only traversed its outer edges.

The most generally accepted theory in regard to this country is that it consisted of great valleys, stretching from the inward slopes of the mountains to a great central basin. This theory is supported by the fact that, although the country round has abundant rain and clouds constantly hang over the mountain tops, all the streams flowing toward the four points are insignificant and rise only on the outward slopes of the range, none appearing to drain the great lakes shut in by the mountains. This fact appears to support the theory that streams flowing from the inner slopes of the mountains feed a great interior lake. But what drains this lake? It must have an outlet somewhere, and as all the streams pouring from the mountains rise in their outward slopes, it must have a subterranean outlet to the ocean, the straits or the sound. There are great discoveries in store for some of Washington's explorers.

Kissed Her for the Cigars.

Albany (N. Y.) Express.

"I'd give twenty-five cents for permission to kiss that girl," remarked an inebriated youth on an Albany bound train the other night, indicating with a motion of his hand an unusually handsome young woman asleep in a seat near by. The young man was one of a group standing in the rear of the crowded car. Another young man said:

"You have my permission, sir, gratis."

"Fraid she wouldn't regard it as sufficient," laughed the first.

"I don't know," replied the other. "I have a good deal of influence with good looking girls. I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll bet a good cigar I can kiss her without waking her."

"Done!" cried the inebriated youth. "I'll give you a cigar if you dare do it anyway, and two more if she don't wake up."

"It's a go."

"The daring young man stepped up to the seat where the pretty girl slept, leaned over softly and kissed her squarely and audibly upon her mouth. She stirred, smiled a little, but did not wake. The group of men had watched the proceeding in breathless suspense, and a long and simultaneous sigh broke from them as young Inebriated straightened up after the operation and rejoined the group, several passengers who had seen the audacious performance staring at him in astonishment.

"By Jove! that was elegant!" the fellow of inebriated aspect exclaimed as he handed the successful kisser his three cigars.

But there was another reckoning to be made. The conductor came hurrying down the aisle and "went for the daring passenger, metaphorically speaking, "hammer and tongs," crying:

"See here, young man, don't you ever try that again! Are you a gentleman, sir? Don't you know that I can arrest you for such a performance as that?"

The young man colored, but laughed nervously as he answered. "No, I don't much believe you can. I guess there isn't any American law against a fellow's kissing his own sister—is there?"

It had not appeared yet whether or not the young woman learned of her brother's astonishing exhibition of disrespect, or whether, if she did, her displeasure lessened the gratification derived from the cigar won in such a questionable manner.

A Soft Snap.

There is a "prophet" on the Island of Java who has been paid $400 per year for the last thirteen years "to not predict a tidal wave which will sweep clear over the island." The natives believe that he has to only predict to set a wave in motion. If any body has a softer snap let him be heard from.

Edison has not only invented a doll which laughs, talks and cries in a loud voice, after the manner of a phonograph, but a clock which counts "One," "Two," "Three," and so on as it strikes. He may even yet invent a machine to count a telegrapher's weekly salary up to $30.

STATE DISPATCHES.

Drowned While Repairing Telegraph Lines at Oregon City.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITAL.

The G. A. R. Encampment Postponed—No Tidings of Young Frazer Who Was Lost in the Snow at Pendleton.

The Herald's Special Dispatches.]

PORTLAND, Feb. 7.—A dispatch received from Oregon City at noon to-day stated that early this morning a stranger was drowned there. His name could not be learned. He was helping some telegraph linemen. When the report first came it stated that two Western Union men were lost, but soon afterward it was contradicted.

ENCAMPMENT POSTPONED.

G. A. R. Encampment at Eugene Postponed Till March 12.

SALEM, Feb. 7.—On account of the washouts caused by the flood the annual G. A. R. encampment at Eugene has been postponed until March 12. Special orders to this effect were issued to-day by Commander E. B. McElroy. The G. A. R. posts of the state will be notified at once of the postponement.

It is thought that by this time the various lines of railways will be repaired, and all the damages resulting from the floods in good running condition again. Department Commander McElroy determined upon this postponement to-day. Prior to taking this action, however, he consulted with all members of the council of administration who could be interviewed by telegraph. He also consulted with the department officers here, and all concurred in the postponement of the encampment not less than thirty days, and all have concurred in the opinion that ample time should be given so that the several lines of travel could make the necessary repairs.

NOTES FROM SALEM.

The circuit court meets Monday with a docket of over 50 cases.

Byron and Newton, who broke jail at Salem several weeks ago, have been recaptured at Newport and will at once be returned here. Nearly the full amount of stock for the cannery is subscribed and the building of that institution is assured.

ADRIET IN THE RIVER.

No One to Rescue a Man Floating Down on a Log.

PORTLAND, Feb. 7.—About 10 o'clock this morning a man came riding down the river in the middle of the stream sitting astride of a log. He went under the first bridge, but nobody went out to him. When last seen he was sailing past the mills below this city. Where he came from no one knows. He was bareheaded and wore no coat.

A FATAL LEAP.

An Insane Man Jumps from a Hotel Window in Portland.

PORTLAND, Feb. 7.—William Stewart, a Scotchman, aged about 40 years, jumped from a third story window of the St. Charles hotel this morning and received injuries which will probably prove fatal. He was taken to the hospital, where it was found he had sustained concussion of the brain, besides having a number of bones broken. The man is supposed to be insane.

WHY THERE WAS NO NEWS.

Telegraph Wires Recovering from Their Crippled Condition.

PORTLAND, Feb. 7.—The Evening Telegram contains no dispatches this afternoon, on account of the great rush of business which has completely flooded the telegraph offices since the eastern wires were secured. The Western Union have succeeded in getting a line as far north as Riddle, and by 6 o'clock will reach San Francisco direct. They now handle San Francisco business by way of Helena.

PERISHED IN THE SNOW.

No Trace of Young Frazer who was Lost at Pendleton.

PENDLETON, Feb. 7.—N. K. Frazer, the young merchant of this city, who went hunting ten days ago and was lost, has not been found, and all hopes of rescuing him alive have been given up. It is supposed that he perished in the snow. He was a prominent business man of the town. He had relatives in Linn county, and his wife's family reside at Eugene, her name before marriage being Miss Ida Cogswell.

IN SOUTHERN OREGON.

The Damage to the Railroad Line Is Very Heavy.

ASHLAND, Or., Feb. 7.—The extent of the damage by the late rains to the Oregon & California railroad between here and Roseburg, one hundred and fifty miles north of here, cannot be estimated even approximately, but it is very INTERESTING FIGURES.

The Enormous Receipts of the United States Treasury.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, the total receipts of the United States treasury were $387,050,058.84. Nearly $254,000,000 came from customs and nearly $130,000,000 from internal revenues. Secretary Windom is in favor of tariff revision.

For 1890 the estimated treasury receipts will reach the sum of $388,000,000; the estimated expenses of government $298,000,000. After all available bonds have been purchased and the requirements of the sinking fund satisfied, there will still remain a net surplus of over $48,500,000 some of which Secretary Windom thinks might well be used to enlarge our foreign markets. He is decidedly of the opinion that part of the money should be paid to American steamship lines, to enable them to compete with subsidized foreign vessels. He says the United States has encouraged the building of railroads by large grants and subsidies, but has not one thing for her great maritime interests, refusing even fair compensation for services rendered by steamers to the government.

In 1879 the pension list amounted in round numbers to $35,000,000. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, $104,000,000 is the amount expected to be required. Apparently the old war veterans are getting wounded over again.

On the other hand, however, the interest on the public debt amounted in 1879 to more than $105,000,000. This year it will be $36,000,000. We are going to get rid of that money somehow.

Under existing laws, the internal revenues receipts will be increased this year to $135,000,000. The tax on tobacco alone will not be less than $32,000,000 for the coming year unless congress takes it off. In that case the surplus will be reduced by that amount. A tax of over $5,000,000 is at present collected from 6,000,000 gallons of alcohol consumed in the industrial arts and in medicines. Mr. Windom pronounces this tax unjust and says it should be removed.

Thought it Was Twins.

Chicago Herald.

There was a large delegation of Episcopalian clergymen aboard the City of Paris, who was returning from a visit to Jerusalem, and the joke they played upon a young Englishman was the subject of great mirth. An Englishman from Manchester was sent over by his employers to represent them in this country. In the exuberance of his feelings he communicated to his fellow passengers before he was a day out the fact that he would be a father by the time he reached the other side.

He was to receive a cable quarantine, which, in the event of a girl being born, would read simply, "Mary," and in case it was a boy it would be "James." The clergyman found a blank cable dispatch, and wrote upon it the word "James," and when the pilot came alongside, of Sandy Hook, they instructed a cabin boy to hand the dispatch to the gentleman, and to say it was a cable for him, brought down by the pilot boat. The Englishman received this bogus dispatch at the same time with another genuine cable, which read, "Mary." "By Jove, twins!" he exclaimed.

An Eye to Business.

Jimmie was the brightest of boys, and having evinced a love for wealth, looked forward to the time when he would be a rich man. One morning at breakfast his aunt informed him that during the night twins had been added to the family, which already consisted of three besides Jimmie. The boy dropped his knife and fork and exclaimed: "Great Scott! Aunt Mary, if father and mother keep on at this rate there won't be fifty dollars to divide among us!"

They Set Him Out.

After they had jailed a tramp in Indiana as "poor, friendless and having no home," he invited the sheriff to dinner, sent out a hundred dollar bill to buy champagne and turkey, and asked him to take charge of $3,000 he had been carrying in his boot-legs. They managed to get that jail door open back to the jamb as he walked out.

A Hardhearted Thief.

A thief went prowling around St. Joe, Mo., night after night, until he had stolen six pairs of shoes from six different policemen who were asleep on their beats, and such a ruction has been raised that none of the force dares go to sleep now unless a comrade stands by to watch his feet.

It Cured Him.

Jas. Shaw, an Ohio farmer, planted a hickory post deep in the ground, tied a straw man to it, and then turned a fierce bull into the inclosure. The bull made a bee-line for the lay figure, struck the post plumb-center, and was killed so dead that he didn't even kick after falling over.
