MILLIONAIRE DEAD.

John Jacob Astor, of New York, is Dead.

JURY BRIBERS PUNISHED

The Orleans Prison Not Worth Imprisoning. Wife Poisoner Hanged--Colored Man Executed.

The HERALD'S Special Dispatches.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—John Jacob Astor died this morning of heart failure. He was the grandson of John Jacob Astor, who laid the foundation of the colossal Astor fortune by trading in furs, and gave the name to the city by the 954, at the mouth of the Columbia river in your state. The founding of the Astor library, which from the different generations of Astors has received upwards of a million dollars, was the most public recommendation of this later John Jacob, as he added materially to both the building and the endowment.

MINISTER HANGED.

He Poisoned His Wife and Paid the Penalty.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 22.—Rev. Henry Duncan, a white minister of the Freewill Baptist denomination, was hanged at Ozark yesterday for poisoning his wife.

MITIGATE HIS SENTENCE.

Reconsidered and Sent Across the Line.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—A cabinet meeting was held this morning, at which it was decided to set aside the sentence of two years imprisonment imposed upon Duc d'Orleans, and have him escorted to the frontier to-day.

THE CRONIN JURY.

The Brothers Came to Grief on Trial.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The jury in the Cronin jury bribing case this morning brought in a verdict, finding the only remaining defendant on trial, Jeremiah O'Donnell, guilty, and fixing the punishment at three years in the penitentiary.

MURDER HANGED.

BERMINGHAM, ALA., Feb. 22.—Gilbert Lowe, colored, was hanged yesterday for the murder of J. W. Meadows, white.

BUYING UP COAL FIELDS.

Huntington Negotiates With Villard for Valuable Properties.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Referring to a telegram from New York that stated it was rumored there that C. P. Huntington was negotiating with Henry Villard, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, for the purchase of coal lands in Washington, the Chronicle will say to-morrow: "Details of negotiations could not be learned at Southern Pacific headquarters yesterday but the truth of the report was confirmed by prominent officials there. Negotiations for the purchase of immense tracts of the most valuable coal lands discovered in the Puget and country have progressed favorably and the trade will probably be consummated very soon. It is understood that the scheme contemplates the investment by the Southern Pacific Company of an amount reaching into the millions. The negotiations include not only the purchase of large coal fields, but the building of a road connecting them with tide water at a point not yet announced. Whether this road will be built by the Southern Pacific or Northern Pacific company is also one of the problems of the situation at present.

Another feature of the scheme will be the establishment of a line of colliers between the terminus of the coal fields and San Francisco. The immense amount of coal consumed by Southern Pacific Company necessitates putting forth every effort to secure its own supply, the Chronicle will say.

Besides the advantage of owning its own supply, the Southern Pacific company will thus save 75 cents duty, which is now paid on every ton of coal brought from Vancouver.

BLAINE TALKS TO CANADA.

Opening Behring Sea in Return for Privileges of Fishermen.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A special train from Washington to the north and south-eastern portions of the state. There are some very large herds in that section. Lux, Miller & Devine had 60,000 head, Glenn & French, at Stein mountain, 40,000 head, Riley & Harding, at Harney Lake, 25,000 head, and there are many other large herds. There are tens of thousands of sheep in the southern part of the state, of which a large percentage will be lost. This last cold snap is what has done the business for the poor beasts. There was four feet of snow on the ranges and it has thawed and settled to two feet and then froze hard, and then more snow came and cattle and sheep, and even whole bands of horses, just died in their tracks. In Eastern Oregon and Washington the ranges have mostly been settled up, and the loss of stock there will be comparatively small.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Contributed by the W. C. T. U.

"When I see a man going home with a gallon of whisky and half a pound of meat, that's temperance lecture enough for me, and I see it every day.

I know that every thing in his home is on the same scale--gallon of misery to half a pound of comfort." This correct estimate was recently given by a colored lecturer in North Carolina.

Dr. Symes Thompson recently lectured on "Alcoholic Inheritance" at Gresham College, and is reported as saying: "We doctors are often tempted to wish that the human race could be propagated with as much care as is shown in the breeding of horses." The lecturer followed with a really terrible list of the evils to which "Alcoholic subjects," or the children and children's children born of drunkards, are liable, not the least of which are insanity and every of mental aberration. It was very noticeable, said the doctor, how much the moral character of the drunkard was destroyed, and the same effect of the parents sin was traceable in his children. Again, drink was the greatest destroyer of brain power in the world, and its results were wonderfully manifested in the drunkard's issue. It was well understood that drink destroyed self-control, and a great necessity of the present day was the training of drunkard's children in self-control."—Christian Inquirer.

People take a swallow of brandy to keep off infection when going to attend sick people; others whose work leads them into sewers and similar places do the same. The fact is, that taking the brandy prevents the eyes to which they are inevitably exposed, from passing out of the system quickly; indeed, taking the brandy keeps the poison in the system longer than it would otherwise stay.—Dr. B. W. Richardson.

The Attorney-General of Kansas says, concerning the effect of prohibition: "The country jails throughout the state are comparatively empty, and the number of convicts in the penitentiary is growing less."

The "cigarette law," passed by the legislature of South Carolina, at its recent session, makes it unlawful for any person or persons, by himself or themselves, to sell, furnish, give or provide, any minor or minors under the age of eighteen years, with cigarettes, tobacco, or cigarette paper, or any substitute therefor; and that any person or persons violating the provisions of this section, either in person or by agent or in any other way, shall be held and deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon indictment and conviction therefore shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $100 not less than $25, or by imprisonment for a term of not more than one year nor less than two months, or both, in the discretion of the court; one-half of the fine to be paid to the informer of the offense, and the other half to the treasurer of the county in which such conviction shall be had.

A FIT ENDING.

The Montana Legislature Adjourns and the Hall Burned.

OPENING THE BEHRING SEA

The Southern Pacific Purchasing Coal Lands--General Grant's Old Room Desecrated.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 21.—A Journal's Helena, Mont., special says: At 2 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the Granite block, and the building was completely gutted. There is no question but that the fire was caused by firecrackers carelessly thrown my members of the republican legislature during the jollification over the windup of the legislative session. The legislature's journal, books and papers were destroyed.

The losses are: Helena Clothing Company, $25,000; American Express Company, $5000; T. H. Klein-schmidt, on building, $20,000, and some minor losses.

HELENA, Feb. 21.—The legislature closed its ninety days' session at midnight last night, having accomplished nothing. At the eleventh hour the democrats sprang a compromise proposition on the members of the house, and asked that all ten contestants resign and that a new election be held. They were informed that the democratic claimants could appear in the house and enter a formal contest, which was refused.

The unfortunate fire occurred just after the house had dispersed. About 2 o'clock flames were seen bursting out of the Granite block, the building where the sessions have been held. After a severe fight the fire was controlled but the building completely gutted. The origin of the fire was at first ascribed to fire crackers, which the members had used at the close of the session: An examination of the premises and statement by attaches contradict this, however, and the fire is traced direct to incendiarism. The records are safe.

LIGHT ON CROSSED WIRES.

How New Monitor Batteries Work on Incandescence Indicators.

Chas. S. Keep in Troy Times.

Telegraphy is yet in its infancy. Although improvement has been made to facilitate the working of the telegraph, yet every day are coming other improvements which tend to lessen labor and better the work. The recent adoption by the Western Union Company--motors to generate electricity in place of the old time batteries of copper, zinc and nitric--supplies a current that is at once strong and will keep its strength as long as the motor is kept running. This current, whether applied to one wire or a hundred wires, remains equally strong.

When wires get crossed this motor current comes into new use, that of ascertaining what particular wires are misplaced. In a darkened room just off the operating room are large shelves, holding incandescent lamps, each lamp being connected with a different wire, and numbered according to the number borne by the wire with which it is connected. As an example, when a cross occurs between wires 28 and 33, lamps 28 and 33 are immediately lighted, and attention is at once attracted to them and the cross removed.

Formerly it was impossible to tell whether wires were crossed or not, unless operators trying to work those wires should discover it by not being able to raise certain offices, or by the bad and frequently interrupted working of the wire.

A BATTLE IN THE DARK.

Exploit of Russian Infantry While Fighting a Turcoman Horde.

A Russian General in Harper's for January.

The Russian soldier dies at his post. I have seen him in winter on sentry duty on the heights of Shipka die standing, surrounded with snow, and transformed literally into a statue of ice; I have seen him die on the march, striking over the sandy desert, and yielding up his last breath with the last step; I have seen him die of his wounds on the battlefield or in the hospital, at distance of 3000 miles from his native village--and in these supreme moments I have always found the Russian soldier sublime.

In the Khiva campaign, the night of July 15th, our troops broke camp at 2 a. m. Hardly had the first squadrons, with Prince Eugens de Leuchtenberg at their head, started along the road, than suddenly the air trembled with clamor, howls and savage war cries from a crowd of several thousand men, and seven Turcoman tribes, men and women together, fell upon our troops. Our squadrons were flung back upon the rear of the cavalry by force of the shock upon the infantry. The confusion was terrible. We could not see the confusion, for it was too dark, but we felt it. No more could we distinguish friends from enemies. At this moment I was crowded in the midst of a group of Cossacks, and my horse was pushed gently and slowly, as if by waves, first one way, then the other. At first not a single shot was heard, but only the thud of sabers striking human bodies and the lamentable cries of the wounded. Suddenly there was a flash and a glare in front of us, and a violent explosion, then a second, and a third. The rocket battery, being amongst the first squad-

ADVENTURE WITH SMUGGLERS.

How a Government Officer Had to Swim for His Life.

Detroit News.

"Do you ever have difficulty with prisoners in making arrests?" was asked of United States Marshal Penneck the other day.

"Never. Not one in a hundred ever offers any resistance. No matter what their chance for overpowering the officers are, they are always awed by the authority of the United States and go quietly.

The only case that the office has had since my regime was with 'Little Johnny, the Rat.' That is fresh in the minds of everybody. He was arrested in front of the Kirkwood House, and before being taken the strength of five men was necessary to subdue him. He was a little fellow, too.

"The worst experience that a Deputy Marshal ever had in this district was that undergone by Harry Blanchett years ago. The Marshal had received a tip that a gang of smugglers were operating between here and Canada, but that was all the information that they could get for a long time. One night Blanchett was down near the Rouge, reconnoitering. Presently he saw a series of flash light signals on the Canadian shore, and soon after a small scow came toward this side. He got under an old barn in the vicinity and awaited developments. The scow landed within a few feet of where he was hidden, and he was in ecstasy, because he could hear everything. A miserable little cur that the smugglers had with them went sniffing at Blanchett's feet.

"Blas't that dog!" he muttered, giving the cur a kick that sent it away with a howl that disclosed Blanchett's presence.

"Oh! So you're watching us, are you?" said one of the smugglers. "Come out o' there and ye can get a better look us."

"Blanchett complied, and was watched by three of the crew until the cargo was unloaded. He was then chucked aboard, sails were set and the boat started for Canada. Blanchett was not kept in suspense as to his fate. When the middle of the river was reached they hid him good bye and threw him overboard. He was too good a swimmer to go to the bottom, and reached the shore in safety. A posse was immediately organized, and by quick work the whole cargo was captured, but the smugglers got away. They must have become badly scared when they realized what they had done, and they were never known to do any more work afterward."
