FAITH CURE PHANTASY.

Our American people seem to be highly impressionable and liable to take up with peculiarisms and practices that spring into existence. And this gives breath and existence to innumerable but happily ephemeral theoretical phantasies that have fallen upon the munificent expenditures of credulous persons.

The work, influence and progress of the newspapers of the country, phenomenal as it is, is scarcely realized. As an exchange says: One thing, at least, must be generally admitted—the newspaper have put an end to all human privacy.

We are being constantly apprised by the press of the state, headed by the Oregonian, that the restrictive usury laws are sending capital out of the state, and deflecting money that would be invested here to other localities.

what they say, but how they make the statements hang together, is hard to conceive of, when they interlard their accusations with the information that money can be procured at 4 per cent., and cannot deny that in spite of usury laws it can draw 8 and 10 per cent. here. Quite a discrepancy.

MARION HARLAND, with her magazine the Home-Maker, has undertaken the almost hopeless task of rehabilitating and completing the ruined, uncompleted monument to the mother of Washington. Ladies recovered and preserved Mount Vernon, the home of Washington, and if Marion Harland can remove the stain from our country for the neglect of the last resting place of the noble woman who gave to the world a Washington, she should receive all praise and aid in her efforts.

The terrible murder case in Yamhill county, has been under examination by the coroner's jury for five days, and the verdict arrived at by the jury was that the murdered lady came to her death by gunshot wounds at the hands of her husband, William Scott. The evidence was conclusive in its nature and trial will probably result in conviction.

In building a new water aqueduct New York city puts in an entirely new engineering feat. It consists in siphoning the water under the Harlem river at a depth of 307 feet beneath its bed. The cost is immense but the safety and permanence outweigh the expense.

The baby King of Spain is again ailing. If he lives long enough—until next May—he will be four years old. It seems decidedly out of place to be watching around his bedside, with such a fluctuation of governmental prospects in this nineteenth century of civilization.

CHICAGO has won the contest and will have the World's Fair in 1892. This will be a great impetus for the giant city of the west.
