OVER THE WIRES.

Chunkey M. Depew's Candidacy for President in 1892.

SUPPOSED TO BE SILCOTT.

Additional Particulars Concerning the Arrest of a Man Supposed to be the Defaulting Cashier of the House.

THE HERALD'S Special Dispatches. NEW YORK, March 1.—The Times says a prominent railroad man says that he would not be surprised to learn of Chunkey M. Depew's nomination as president of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad.

"I know for a fact that Depew's boom for the presidential nomination in 1892 is being shaped on well defined plans with his consent and aid. He will probably resign soon and his vacancy will be filled by the election of Cornelius Vanderbilt. His severance of corporation connections will remove the last obstacle to his nomination."

Chunkey M. Depew denies that he contemplates resigning as president of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad. He says he will become a candidate for the presidency in 1892.

IS HE SILCOTT? The Man Arrested in Washington Recently Affirms His Innocence.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A dispatch last night stated that a man answering the description of Silcott, the absconding cashier of the sergeant-at-arms of the national house of representatives had been arrested at Winlock, Wash. He gave the name of E. E. Thayer, afterwards C. F. Shafer. He made several contradictory statements, and the officers express themselves certain of having the right man. The following additional particulars were received to-day.

THE PRISONER'S STATEMENT. Winlock, Wn., March 1.—E. E. Thayer, alias Shafer, stated that a month ago he was in the employ of the railroad. He now says he never was. He said he was in a syndicate to develop a potter clay bank in Idaho. He had a letter of introduction on a Union Pacific letter head. Said he would not sue the sheriff if he let him go, it was a natural mistake. He has been on this coast three years, so he says, but no one can identify him but a man in Seattle. He is a childless widower. The sheriff still feels sure that he is Silcott.

THE LONDON SCANDAL.

Labourers Stir Up Some of the Pool-Lived Aristocrats. LONDON, March 1.—The conservatives intend to demand that Labourers be compelled to name his authority for the statement last night regarding the conversation between Salisbury and General Probyn, in relation to Lord Arthur Somerset. It is reported that Sir Francis Knollys, private secretary to the Prince of Wales, is Labourers' informant. Labourers said Salisbury and others criminally conspired to defeat the ends of justice and refrained from prosecuting the aristocrats implicated in the Cleveland street scandal, therefore he asked a committee to inquire into the allegation.

SENATE BILLS.

Mitchell Has Two Bills, One in Relation to Warm Springs. WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Senator Mitchell has introduced a bill providing for the appointment of commissioners to fix the northern boundary of the Warm Springs reservation of Oregon, and an appropriation of $2000 for the expense thereof, also to pay to the city of Astoria about $3000 for the expense of paving the space around the public buildings in that city.

COLD WEATHER.

The Mercury Stands at 42 Degrees Below Zero in Idaho. SPOKANE FALLS, Wash, Feb. 28.—A Review special from Genesee, Idaho, says: Wednesday morning the mercury fell to forty-two degrees below zero.

Fears are entertained for the fruit crop. Stock are dying by the hundreds. One man lost 700 head last week near Edicott. Feed cannot be had at any price.

BOULANGER'S WIFE.

She Thinks She Will Soon Be His Only Faithful Friend. PARIS, Feb. 28.—While General Boulanger is virtually in exile from France, planning all sorts of wild attempts to regain power with the fickle French, his deserted wife remains in Paris, broken-hearted but loyal, waiting for the still more dreary day for her lord and master when he will call her to his side as his last remaining friend.

No more pathetic spectacle confronts the eyes of the world than that of Mme. Boulanger. Hers is a sad though handsome face, in which pain has out more lines and grooves than time, while to listen to her low, sweet voice is to wonder how the General can endure passing any of his days beyond the reach of its subtle music.

She is a gentle little lady, from whom the iron hand of ambition has clutched all that she found best in love, and she has not even the satisfaction of knowing that the man who turned the sunshine of her earlier days into the bleak desolation of the present ever gives her a single thought. Still she does not condemn him.

"It is not for me to judge him," she says when some one accuses her concerning him. "We loved each other once. Some day he will need my love again. I don't wish to be divorced from him, because I want to retain the right to care for him when all the rest of the world forsakes him; when, save his wife, he has no friend."

AROUND THE WORLD.

Plans of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. MONTREAL, Feb. 28.—The Witness says the Canadian Pacific Railway is arranging to have a line of three or four steamers to go straight around the world. They will start from Montreal, Halifax and New in the fall, so as to avoid the summer heat in the India and the Suez canal route. They will run to London, Gibraltar, Malta, Suez, Penang, Colombo, Calcutta, Hong-kong, Yokohama and Vancouver, and the passengers will be on the same steamer throughout the voyage.

MARY WASHINGTON.

An Old Monument for Her to Be Final.

TARDY HONORS AFTER YEARS.

A Love Romance That Led to the Memorial to the Mother of the Immortal General.

A vigorous effort has been begun among society women of New York Washington and other cities of the East to raise the money necessary to complete the unfinished monument to Mary Washington the mother of the Father of His Country.

The present condition of the monument, the corner-stone of which was laid by President Jackson in 1833 with Masonic ceremonies and appropriate addresses, is certainly a subject for commiseration. According to the original plan of the designer it was to be a pyramidal shaft, supported by a pedestal of four squares, with two capitals on each side and two eagles perched at the top of the pedestal and the base of the shaft, while on the very apex on the pillar or shaft itself, was a bust of Washington in bronze or marble, surmounted by an eagle with outstretched wings in the act of laying on the brow of Washington a wreath of laurel.

Not even the pedestal was completed when a notification came to stop. The base is much dilapidated. Whatever inscription there may have been is effaced by the hand of time. Visitors to the battlefield of Fredericksburg look at the ruin, scarcely knowing what it is. Its sides have been mutilated by relic hunters; the shaft lies where it fell when the order came to cease work, half imbedded in the soil.

There is a touching romance attached to the pedestal. In the first years of Jackson's administration a beautiful Virginia girl was wooed and won by a rich Northerner. The lover, who was devoted, begged his betrothed to command his fortune for any object she desired, and the lady, like a good patriot, suggested that he build a monument to the memory of Mary, the mother of Washington, whose remains had till that time rested in an obscure spot, unmarked by any monument.

He consented, and orders were given for the monument. The site was chosen and the work was well advanced, when for some unexplained reason the lady married another and the jilted man, to whom she was engaged, on hearing this news, immediately ordered that all work on the monument be stopped, and stopped it was.

INDIAN GIANTS.

Huge Bodies Found in Ancient Graves in New Jersey. MAY'S LANDING (N. J.) Corr. N. Y. Times. For over a week past crowds have been flocking to the site of the unearthed Indian graveyard near Edgewater avenue in Pleasantville. The first lot of skeletons unearthed was about 1000 yards from the city postoffice and embraced eight bodies closely laid together in a deep chamber, snugly packed in with tortoise, oyster and clam shells. One of this number had head and shell decorations, which together with its extreme height, points to the fact that it must have been the powerful old chief Kineawungwa, whose descendants still own farms along the shore.

Professor C. H. Farrel of Baltimore, Charles K. Simpson of New York, John H. Cooley Jr. of New Haven, Conn., and several gentlemen from the University of Pennsylvania immediately went to the scene. Messrs. Risley and Farr, the owners of the land, gave to the archaeological association of the University of Pennsylvania the right to search for relics on their land. These researches have been watched by thousands of people with great interest. Besides weapons of war, savage ornaments, war decorations and numerous valuable shells, stones, etc., over fifty skeletons have been exhumed.

Dr. Charles R. Abbott, curator of the association, is continuing the search, and the skeletons are to be shipped to the university at once. They run in size from a small child to a several of seven feet in height, and one, supposed to be an old medicine man, Wanneck, must have been at least eight feet in height. About fifty students were upon the ground this morning and continued their search until stopped by the rain.

The citizens gaze in silent wonder on these relics of a race that at one time ruled the land. For seven miles along the shore can be seen large mounds of clam and oyster shells left here by Indians who used to congregate by hundreds to open oysters for winter food, and it is near these shell mounds that the great number of skeletons have been taken up.

In some instances weapons of war made of stone and flint have been found lying close beside some exceedingly large skeletons. The relics will be put on exhibition at the museum of the university in Philadelphia.
