NEWS FROM SALEM.

Supreme Court Cases—Captioned in the Willamette—The Woolen Mills.

Special to the Herald. SALEM, March 10.—In the supreme court today the following cases were disposed of:

Job Wilkes, appellant, vs. T. R. Cornelius, executor of the will of Annie Wilkes, respondent; appeal from Washington county; judgment reversed and cause remanded to lower court for further proceedings.

State of Oregon, respondent, vs. W. E. Hawkins, appellant; appeal from Marion county; application for rehearing denied.

Merchants' National Bank of Portland, respondent, vs. George Pope, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; argued and submitted. Chas. H. Carey, attorney for appellant; L. B. Cox, attorney for respondent.

Sheriff Moss, of Josephine county, brought to the asylum for insane to-day C. H. Williams, insane about 40 years, whose mind is deranged through adverse circumstances. He imagines himself to be king of the combined nations of the earth and threatens to do violent things.

The Salem woolen mills were formally opened Saturday, when a great throng visited them. Robert Dunlap and Lawrence Madden, two loggers from Brown's island, came to Salem this morning on business, coming down in a light skiff, and during the day imbibed pretty freely of strong liquor. They started on their return this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the foot of Ferry street, and Madden, who was extremely drunk, insisted on rowing. When well out in the stream he took a drink from a bottle. This he repeated several times and in the hilarity one of the oars floated away and the boat drifted down the river to State street. Madden attempted to move around and in so doing the boat tipped water and some filled. Madden jumped out and succeeded in swimming ashore. Madden clung to the boat and at the foot of court street it capsized, throwing the drunken man under and when rescued he was almost gone.

Our Coal Mines.

There seems to be no doubt as to the abundance of coal in the ledges recently located up the Santiam, the only doubt being as to the quality or commercial value of the coal. Capital stands ready to invest in opening up the mines as soon as the value of the deposit is ascertained.

To ascertain the value of the find, the property must be thoroughly and systematically "prospected" by experts. This may not cost but a few hundred dollars and it may cost several thousand. The value of the coal ought to be properly tested, for if the coal has the quality and quantity, every property owner at least in The Forks is directly interested in the immediate development of the mine, because the development of such an industry will at once enhance general values to a greater or less extent; and one wishes or has the right to retard the growth and prosperity of a community, when it is possible to prevent it. This being the case it is expected that the steps here or soon will be taken to show up the value or non-value of our coal interests.—Scio Press.

The Portland Branch.

Going away, going away. We have decided to close out business, and our entire stock of clothing, boots, shoes, gents' furnishing goods, furniture, stoves, tinware, crockery, etc., must be sold by April 15th, next, regardless of cost. Remember this is your last and only chance to get goods at almost your own price. Come one, come all, and take advantage of this great opportunity. Also house and lot for sale cheap in the best locality in Albany. The Portland Branch, F. Wise & Co., proprietors, S. E. Young's old stand.

Our Corner Window.

Is worth your special attention, where are displayed over three hundred gifts to be given away with our Unity tea, a gift with each can, and a number for a chance for the capital prize. Willamette Packing Co.

Officers Elected.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Odd Fellows Building Association held last night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: L. E. Blain, S. E. Young, Julius Gradwhole, W. C. Tweedale, John Joseph, Chas. Keifer and Conrad Meyer.

School Election.

The annual school election yesterday was attended by no excitement whatever and little interest was taken in it by voters, the vote cast being very small. Voters evidently felt that the school is in good hands and were willing to let well enough alone. John Foshay, director, and C. G. Burkhart, clerk, were unanimously re-elected.

THE UMPQUA RIVER RAILROAD.

The Resources of Northern Douglas Co. to Be Tapped by a Fifty-five Miles Line.

Mr. W. G. Steel was seen yesterday by a Oregonian reporter in reference to the Umpqua River railroad for the construction of which he holds a contract with the company. "My partner and I," said Mr. Steel, "visited New York in December last and had little difficulty in placing the bonds of the road satisfactorily. The line passes through a rich fertile country, on a water level route, and has tributary to it a country which will export over it annually about 2,000,000 bushels of wheat, half as many bushels of oats, 1,000,000 pounds of wool, and other products in like proportion."

"The road starts from Drain, a station on the Southern Pacific line 160 miles south of Portland, and extends fifty-five miles along the banks of Elk creek and the Umpqua river to a point near Gardner, where it finds deep water, navigable by heavy draught vessels. It is a singularly easy road to construct, its heaviest grade being fifty-two feet to a mile and the line does not average two miles either way from a straight line drawn between the termini."

"The inhabitants of Northern Douglas county are jubilant over the assurance of the road, and it will open up and make famous one of the richest valleys in Oregon, which in the nature of things has been kept in the dark thus far."

Mr. Steel and Mr. Heald, his partner, who was formerly Waste the tragedian's leading business manager, left for Drain Saturday afternoon to make arrangements for construction work.

Ingomar.

A delighted audience gathered at the reopening of the opera house last evening to listen again to the John S. Lindsay troupe in the above named piece. The drama is purely Greek in its construction and simplicity. There is hardly a breath of levity in its lines, and it inculcates the noblest principles of truth and honor and reveals the shallowness, corruption and base treachery of the Greek civilization. As Ingomar, Mr. Lindsay reveals his noblest powers as a tragedian. His majestic force, his powerful presentations of noble barbaric virtues, and yet tender and sympathetic as a child, wins the heart of all. One of his daughters, Miss Luella Lindsay, took "Parthenia" in a most lovely manner. Her Greek figures and feature; her noble and chaste impersonation of maidenly purity; the lesson of the power which comes from strength and animal passion—all these grand conceptions this sweet young actress carries from beginning to end with force and power. The other parts were well sustained throughout. To-night they present "Damon and Pythias," and they will be greeted with a full. No better or purer acting can be seen than this troupe gives.

To the Ladies.

To my patrons and ladies of Albany—I shall be in Albany with a full stock of the latest styles in millinery by the 15th of the 1st of April. Thanks for past favors. Respectfully, Mrs. S. E. Wayne.
