and labor expended in the land by all occupants, and the justice of such payment is sustained, by every principle of natural law and moral right, since the capital and labor so expended represent all the commercial value that the land possesses. And, finally, to deprive the individual of his occupancy and possession, although it be to reinstate the owners in common, can only be in natural justice and moral right upon payment of the value of the capital and labor represented in the land, which is the whole commercial value of the land. It follows, then, that the demands of natural justice and moral right would be ignored if all taxes were put upon labor, because one form only of labor and capital would be thus compelled to bear the whole burden of taxation. The trouble in the discussion of this matter is that theories only are promulgated and the practical side of the question ignored.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator One Dose WORTH 100 Dollars! Dear S. L. N.: I consider one dose of Simmons Liver Regulator worth $100. I was afflicted with indigestion, headache, and nervousness, and after trying many other remedies, I found that Simmons Liver Regulator was the only one that cured me. I feel better than I have for many years, and I can now do my work without any complaint. I have recommended it to all my friends, and I have seen many others cured by it. I have a letter from a teacher who writes: "I have been a teacher for twenty years, and during that time have had repeated attacks of headache, produced by indigestion, and I have been entirely cured by Simmons Liver Regulator. I found it to be of so great a character in its action as not to interfere, in the least with my duties in the school room, and I have since very often recommended it to my pupils. I cannot too highly recommend Simmons Liver Regulator." J. C. MARTIN.

I was afflicted with indigestion, headache, and nervousness, and after trying many other remedies, I found that Simmons Liver Regulator was the only one that cured me. I feel better than I have for many years, and I can now do my work without any complaint. I have recommended it to all my friends, and I have seen many others cured by it. I have a letter from a teacher who writes: "I have been a teacher for twenty years, and during that time have had repeated attacks of headache, produced by indigestion, and I have been entirely cured by Simmons Liver Regulator. I found it to be of so great a character in its action as not to interfere, in the least with my duties in the school room, and I have since very often recommended it to my pupils. I cannot too highly recommend Simmons Liver Regulator." J. C. MARTIN.
