HE WANTED TO DIE

BETRAYED BY HIS WIFE AND FRIEND.

A California Man Murders the Despoiler of His Home, and Then Suicide.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 24.—A shooting affray occurred in the Windsor hotel at Redlands this morning. Several shots were heard, and on investigation P. C. McConkey, manager of the hotel, was found in a dying condition in the hallway.

He had a frightful wound in the breast, the bullet having passed through his body. A rifle was found near him. He lived but a few minutes.

The body of D. C. Gresham, foreman of the cinematograph, was found in the parlor. He had a wound under the arm, the bullet having passed through his body. He had a pistol grasped in his hand.

The general theory is that McConkey shot Gresham and then committed suicide. Jealousy is supposed to have been the cause.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 24.—The coroner's inquest over the remains of Gresham and McConkey commenced with closed doors.

Samuel D. Hart, father-in-law of McConkey testified that when he got up at 5 A. M. he found McConkey up, which was very unusual. McConkey was very much depressed, but he attributed it to financial troubles. He considered him and Gresham particular friends.

Miss May Flacker, a school teacher, testified that she had known Gresham for two years and McConkey for six years. McConkey came to her room this morning at 6 o'clock and told her not to get up.

The witness said in a whisper that McConkey was jealous of Gresham. The witness believed to know more of the case than she would testify to.

M. C. Bishop said the tragedy was the result of jealousy on the part of McConkey of Gresham. Gresham told him he had been intimate with Mrs. McConkey and that he expected McConkey would kill him.

Mrs. McConkey, who was in bed, stated that McConkey had been depressed for several days, and on several occasions had been partially insane, and had told her the world was against him; that she did not care for him any longer and that he was going to die.

M. C. Bishop was very hysterical during her testimony.

M. C. Bishop was recalled and stated that he had quite a talk with Gresham about his intimacy with Mrs. McConkey, but Gresham would not admit that it was her.

A letter in a woman's hand, which is dated "Hotel Windsor, March 18th," and begins, "My darling," the writer implores Gresham's forgiveness for "that cruel letter," (referring to a previous one written to Gresham) and says: "It seems as if I should go mad if you do not tell me I am forgiven. I will never, never pain you again that way, no matter what I hear or what you do. I cannot live without your love."

The following letter was also found upon the body of McConkey: "Rep. Wm. Monday, March 24.—Darling wife, babies Clara and Mary, mother and father—My heart is all torn and crushed. I cannot go through life now. I am so sorry I did not look more to your happiness. God will care for you now. Look well to the raising of the poor babies. In a little black cash box in the safe will be found some papers that will be of benefit to you and Clara. Oh, I am so very unhappy.

"You're in death, and my last prayer is for you. Signed, Fred. The jury returned the following verdict: We, the jury, have determined upon the following verdict: That E. C. Gresham came to his death by being murdered by H. C. McConkey for several causes and that McConkey came to his death by a gun shot wound inflicted by himself with suicidal intent.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

Report of the Committee on the Montana Election Contest.

A STRICTLY PARTY REPORT.

A Woman's Suffrage Bill Introduced—The Wilson Silver Bill Reported to the House.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The report of the majority of the senate committee on elections upon the Montana election case was submitted to-day by Hoar. The majority report gives at the outset the circumstances surrounding Saunders and Powers by the republican legislature, and Maginnis and Clark by the court house legislation. This double choice was caused by the fact that the state senate was equally divided, and both sides claimed the majority in the house by reason of two sets of representatives of five each, claiming the election from Silver Bow county.

The report says the case turned upon the question as to which of those two sets was entitled to seats as representatives from Silver Bow. The committee finds that the republicans from Silver Bow presented credentials from the state canvassing board and the democrats from the clerk of Silver Bow. The majority concluded that the territorial law, providing that the county clerk shall issue certificates of election to representatives of the legislature and supervised by the ordination of the constitutional convention, which imposed that duty on the state board of canvassers, and the committee hold that the republicans were the ones who presented the lawful credentials. The whole inquiry turns on the honesty and fairness of the election at precinct 34 in Silver Bow county. The majority thinks the election held at precinct 34 was illegal and fraudulent. The majority in conclusion decline to entertain the proposition that because the governor failed to recognize the republican legislature it was not legally constituted, and hold that position as untenable. They also declare that there is no authority in congress to remand the matter back to the people of Montana. The conclusion reached is that Saunders and Powers are entitled to seats.

The minority report asserts that the laws of Montana which met at the court house in Helena and was recognized by the governor. The evidence, it is asserted, proved also that five persons who were members of the house of representatives were not elected by the people of Silver Bow county whom they claimed to represent. They only had certificates of election.

The majority reports are signed by all the republican members of the committee and the minority by the democrats.

By a vote of 7 to 5 the house committee on coinage, weights and measures to-day authorized Chairman Conger to report the Wilson silver bill to the house with a number of amendments.

Backed to-day introduced a bill to incorporate the national American woman's suffrage association, and creating Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony, Lucy Stone, Rachel Foster Avery, Alice Blackwell and Jane Spofford a body to incorporate. The object of the association is to secure the protection of their rights to the women citizens of the United States by appropriate national and state legislation.

Sherman's anti-trust bill was taken up to-day and discussed at great length. The bill went over without action. After an executive session the senate adjourned.

THE RAILROADS WIN.

The U. S. Supreme Court Decides an Important Case.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The U. S. supreme court to-day reversed the decision of the Minnesota supreme court against certain railroad companies known as the Granger roads. The issue was on certain rates prescribed by the state railroad commissioners, which the railroad companies asserted were so low as to practically amount to depriving the company of its property without a due process of law.

The Minnesota supreme court had declared that the expressed intention of the legislature that the rates fixed by the railroad commission are not simply advisory but final and conclusive.
