

Morning Daily Herald

SPECIAL, 12:30 A. M.

Not to see our stores and ranges before buying is a mistake. Mistakes are always costly. In heating stores we have the largest as well as the most carefully selected stock in the city.

ON SALE

The Daily Herald will be on sale each morning at the new stand of W. F. Kuhn's, where it can be procured at 5 cents per copy.

WEATHER INDICATIONS. For Albany and vicinity—Forecast is the forecast for 24 hours, ending at 8 p. m. to-morrow: Fair; slightly warmer.

NOTINGS ABOUT TOWN.

F. M. Kizer, of Harrisburg, is in the city.

Miss Hall, daughter of Prof. Hull of Corvallis, is visiting in this city.

Dr. Guise will remove to Woodburn soon to go into the drug business.

Mrs. Joseph Klein, of this city, has returned from a visit at Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, of Springfield, Illinois, have located in this city. The latter is sister of A. A. Rhodes.

The vote on the bonding question at the special city election on April 7th should be almost unanimous.

The merchants carnival to be given in this city on April 10th and 11th promises to be a most interesting affair.

An enjoyable donation party was tendered Rev. J. F. Stewart, pastor of the Christian church, Wednesday evening.

The summer of 1890 will be a busy building season in Albany, and many important improvements will be made.

H. R. Chapman, engineer on the Oregon Pacific railroad, and Miss Nellie M. Elgin were married in Salem the 24th inst. They will reside in this city.

A proposition has been made to the wooden mills of this city from the state agricultural college at Corvallis to furnish the uniforms to be worn by the students of the school.

Nelson Thomas, returned to this city yesterday from Vancouver. He says things are a little quiet at the bay just now, but the people there expect to enjoy a big boom this summer.

The Stanton Simons, that Col. Van Cleve, editor of the Sea Press, offered the narrow gauge officials $100,000 for that road and they wouldn't take it. It is said that they would have been glad to have taken the offer up at his offer.

The city council of Eugene recently passed an ordinance prohibiting cows from running at large in that city. The mayor vetoed the measure. That mayor should receive a leather head.

The city council, however, had public spirit enough to meet and pass the ordinance over the mayor's veto.

Prof. E. G. Gorman and wife, Prof. J. D. Letcher, Mrs. Margaret Snell, of the State Agricultural College, came over yesterday and took part in the Farmers' Institute last evening. Prof. G. A. Covell and Prof. E. R. Lake of the same school will be present today to take part in the proceedings.

Mrs. S. A. Warren wishes to say to the ladies of Albany that she is on hand with a new and well selected stock of millinery, which she assures them can not be surpassed in style and elegance. She can be found at the St. Charles until she can make suitable arrangements for a store, as she wishes to locate permanently.

Another Fine Business Block.

Plans are being drawn for a fine brick business block on the corner of Second and Broad streets, which will be built this summer by Dr. G. W. Maston, S. E. Young, L. E. Blain and E. F. Scott. It will be two stories high, 70x100 feet wide and will be arranged for three stores on the first floor. Applications have already been received by them from men who desire rooms to open for business. The building will be a substantial structure with walls heavy enough to admit of a third story in the future if desired. There is a great demand in this city for business houses, and this promises to be the beginning of the extension of business upon Second street. Such enterprises is what promotes a city's growth.

Refrigerated Precincts.

A President Corcoran, of the Northern Pacific company, is expected to arrive in Portland today. Mr. Corcoran's visit is understood to have reference to an agreement as to the terminal facilities and a union depot also the proposed acquisition by the Northern Pacific of the Oregonian railway, and the conversion, along with the P. & W. V. Railway to a standard gauge track. The Corvallis-Junction extension is also understood to be fully decided upon.

THE FARMER'S INSTITUTE.

The Opening of the Season at the Opera House Last Night.

The farmer's institute, held under the auspices of the State Agricultural College, commenced at the opera house last evening. A large attendance was present, and the session opened auspiciously for a profitable and interesting meeting. A number of prominent farmers and educators were present, and more will attend the sessions to-day.

Hon. R. A. Irvine was elected chairman for the evening.

The exercises were opened with an enjoyable song by Messrs. Lee, Sears, Barrows, Fortueller, Hart and Goss.

Byron J. L. Cowan then delivered the address of welcome. The address was full of keen, shrewd thought, and was listened to with the utmost attention. It contained many points that were well taken and of great value to the audience.

Prof. J. D. Letcher of the State Agricultural College made a most excellent response to the address of welcome, giving the objects for holding these meetings and the connection between the farmer's occupation and educational work.

Miss Minnie Van Horn sang a very beautiful song accompanied by the piano by Miss Annie Houk, which was encored and loudly applauded.

Prof. Margaret Snell of the State Agricultural college presented the subject of Domestic Economics in a very able manner, showing the method in which the college teaching exemplified the subject, and the methods of work in that institution.

In the general discussion upon the subject Mrs. M. J. Train, opened the way and called upon Major Story, who was in the audience and gave a convincing speech leading on to the patriotic side of the subject.

Prof. E. G. Gorman, of the Agricultural College, followed with a practical rendition of the subject, and prompted questions that called out Mrs. Snell with further remarks in explanation of the operations and teaching in her department of the college.

Hon. F. M. Kizer was called out and gave a practical talk upon the farmer's work and needs, and educational aids that should be given to agriculture, and the necessity of adding agricultural science to the curriculum.

Miss Vesta Mason recited a Welsh classic, in which she effectively related how the Welsh people, when in their trial, repeated Welsh for Greek, and when caught at it showed and boldly escaped and retained his position. The audience was delighted with her vivid description of the incident.

The "Nativities" Question.

The Portland Oregonian says of the potato: It is a staple and necessary article of diet, and is sold at retail for 3 cents per pound. Probably no one, except the oldest inhabitant, has seen these potatoes in any other form than as a vegetable in this section. This is one of the times when the farmer makes a winding in potatoes, although it must be remembered that the dealer receives a percentage of profit out of this price. If the farmer gets 2 cents he is doing very well, and if he could be assured of that price all the time he would make more money than a speculator in any outside property. It happens, however, that at this season of the year farmers sometimes cannot get enough for potatoes to pay for hauling them to market. The farmer who makes a point to raise a good lot of potatoes every year wins in the long run, and there are several persons in the vicinity of this city who have made small fortunes by sticking to raising potatoes alone year after year. This year there is likely to be considerable railroad building going on in this section, and consequently there will be a good market for potatoes, beef, pork, hay, oats, etc., as well as vegetables of many kinds. Farmers and gardeners will do well to remember this, and also the fact that this city is every year requiring a larger amount of all these articles for home consumption.

Hung in Light.

At Monmouth Wednesday when the darkness broke away there was revealed suspended from the trees opposite the postoffice two objects which had the appearance of human forms. They were man and woman and upon examination were found to be of straw. They were supposed to represent the two actors in the rather shocking story that is just now exciting Monmouth. The directors of the school held a consultation and accepted his resignation, and requested the lady in question to continue teaching. This she did, but the seniors, it is said, refused to recite to her, and there the matter stands.—Salem Statesman.

An Expensive Joke.

A good joke is related at the expense of C. J. Stuart of this city, the popular traveling freight and passenger agent of the Oregon Pacific Co. He wanted several hundred small apple trees to plant in beautifying Maplewood addition to Albany, in which he is interested. He wrote to Squire Lyons of Lyonsville to ship him the trees, but to cut off the tops to save freight. When the trees arrived in this city it was found that not only the tops, but the roots also, had been cut off. Mr. Stuart telegraphed at once to Squire Lyons asking him to send out a writ of attachment and take the poles back to Lyonsville and attach them to the roots.

THE NEW PRECINCTS.

Definitely Matter of the Disruption of Their Boundaries.

The three new precincts, formed by the board of county commissioners, are attracting attention now as there time of election approaches. The boundaries of each of the new precincts were fixed and appear properly upon the records, but the boundaries of some of the old precincts from which the new ones are cut off, are not given, which threatens to cause trouble unless the clerk figures the boundaries out and writes them up.

At the January term of the county court, the following action was taken: The name of East Albany precinct was first changed to Albany. Then the east portion of the latter and a small portion of Lebanon precinct was cut off, forming East Albany precinct. The dividing line in the city is Jefferson street. The voting place was fixed at the office of the Farmers' warehouse.

Tangent precinct was created from portions of West Albany and Center precincts, dividing line being four miles south of Albany. Peoria precinct was created from portions of Halsey, Shedd and Orleans precincts.

The boundaries of the three new precincts are as follows: East Albany—Beginning at a point in the center of Jackson street in Albany, Linn county, Oregon, and on the banks of the Willamette river and running thence south along the center of said street to the center of Ninth street in said city, thence in easterly direction to the point where the Sanderson bridge crosses the Albany road, thence along the center of said Sanderson bridge road to the center of the Santiam river, thence down the center of the main channel of said Santiam river to a point where said river crosses the north line of section 25, tp 10, south of range 3 west, thence along the O & C railroad crossing the north line of section 28, tp 10, south of range 3 west, thence along the line of said railroad to the point where said railroad crosses the south line of said section 28, thence west to the Willamette river to the place of beginning.

Tangent—Beginning in the center of California creek, where the township line between townships 11 and 12, south range 4 west, crosses said creek, thence east a long said line to the northwest corner of section 3, tp 11, south range 3w, thence south to the north boundary line of section 12, tp 12, south range 3w, thence west along the north line of Shedd precinct to the center of California creek, thence along the center of the main channel of said creek to the place of beginning.

Peoria—Beginning at a point on the south boundary line of section 20, tp 12, south range 4 west, where the same intersects the east bank of the Willamette river, running thence east of said section line to the southwest corner of section 26, in said township and range, thence south on corner line to the southwest corner of section 25, tp 10, south range 3 west, thence west one mile, thence south to the north boundary line of township 13 south, range 4 west, thence west to the township line of the Willamette river, thence down said river to the place of beginning.

The Monmouth Scandal.

A dispatch from Monmouth states that the scandalous charges against D. F. Stanley, president of the State Normal school, of infidelity with a lady teacher, were fully investigated by the board of directors and the accused honorably acquitted. The charges were preferred by two students, who, it is said, offered to keep still for $300 each, which being refused, they circulated the story. The young men have been expelled from the school. The president resigned, in order to keep harmony in the school. His successor will be selected at the June meeting of the directors.

Golden Rule Bazaar.

Julius Gradwohl has decided to add to his mammoth stock of crockery and fancy goods a complete line of groceries. He has on route a large invoice of sugar, and will keep a complete assortment of choice groceries, and the best of coffees and teas to be had in the market for the benefit of his customers. He will also enlarge his hardware department. He informs us that he buys all his goods for net cash, which will enable him to sell goods as low as any house in Oregon, and there is no need of people going abroad when they can do as well at home, or even better.

At Cost.

Having purchased a drummer's samples consisting of ladies' and children's muslin underwear, babies' fauntelroy caps and hoods, infants and children's slippers and dresses, etc., etc., and receiving on the same a great discount, I will offer the same to the public at the wholesale price. From 25 to 50 per cent can be saved on all these goods. Call early before the stock is broken. G. W. Simpson.

REMINISCENCES OF LEVY.

Something of the Early Life of the Great Cornetist—A Wonderful Musician.

Levy is a Londoner by birth, and when a mere child kept awake nights to listen to the cornet player of an orchestra near the residence of his parents.

Being infuriated with the sound of a cornet, he contrived to save enough pennies, when five years old, to buy one; but his unappreciative parents compelled him to spend his pennies for boots instead of the longed for cornet.

During his boyhood he followed the bands in the Park, when they gave concerts and became a regular music-stand for the cornet player studying his every movement.

Young Levy yearned to be the owner of a cornet.

When about seventeen years old his father invested fifteen shillings for one, from a pawnbroker. It was defective, nevertheless it was a cornet, and Levy practiced on it so severely that his life was put in jeopardy. Soon after his recovery, however, Dan Godfrey, the leader of the "Greenadier Guard Band," heard of our hero, and engaged him as a member of his band, at the magnificent salary of two dollars per week. This was the total amount Levy received for two years, but he practiced continuously ten and twelve hours a day, and was soon looked upon as a marvel by the great leader.

In 1861 he was engaged at the Princess Theatre, at thirty shillings a week, and his salary soon increased to fifty shillings per week.

The next season he was offered a position at the Royal Italian Opera at five pounds a week, and also secured a position at the Crystal Palace, at three pounds a week. After this his services were in great demand and at high prices. He leaped immediately into popular favor, and during his visit to the city was engaged by Papa Bateman for a tour in America, at one hundred pounds a week.

He made his first appearance at Boston Music Hall, Oct. 9, 1865, and during the season of 1866, made a tour of this country with Parepa. Since that time the American people have been familiar with the remarkable artistic career of Levy, who has in later years received higher prices for his services than any other instrumentalist.

Levy has recently been offered an engagement at Covent Garden, and has also been offered by the War Office of Russia the position of band leader of all the military bands of Russia.

He is now acknowledged to be the greatest cornet player in the world.
