THE MOUTH OF THE COLUMBIA

Huntington's Proposition to Astoria. Work on the South Coast E. R.

Huntington's proposition is that the city of Astoria is to make such financial arrangements as shall guarantee him on the completion of a standard gauge railroad from the city of Astoria to transcontinental connection with the Southern Pacific lines.

Further: All the road now built under any contract the Astoria and South Coast railway company, now late shall be turned over to him, including the completed road to the seaboard; the property so turned over to him to be entirely free from all indebtedness.

Further: The terminal facilities heretofore devoted to the company under certain conditions, and all the earnings or holdings of the Astoria and South Coast Railway company, including all its property of any nature to be included in the transfer.

All the transfer to be made forthwith, and the $200,000 to be paid upon the completion of the road, as agreed by him.

The board of directors had a meeting last night, at which were present Messrs. Page, Fulton, Case, Conn, Kinney and Taylor.

The proposition was read and discussed. No definite action was taken on it for the reason that it is a board of directors; it is for the people, the citizens, those interested in the advancement of Astoria and the success of the enterprise, to say. All the directors can do, so far as the $200,000 liability is concerned, is to counsel, advise, aid and suggest. They can take the lead in the matter of committees, etc., empowered to raise.

A large load of cars laden with rails and spikes for the Astoria and South Coast railway came down from Portland yesterday morning, and was taken to the yard where the cars were on of the barge on the track of the railroad, and will be at once despatched to the front, where track laying is progressing rapidly.

THE OREGONIAN.

The Oregonian tells how they dispose of dead dogs in the big city. It is often said that the "dead things sometimes crawl," and a circumstance occurred yesterday which proves the truthfulness of the saying.

Early in the day some one telephoned to the auditor's office that there was a dead dog at the corner of Sixth and Commercial streets, and the night master was wanted there. Auditor Matthews replied that there was some uncertainty as to whose duty it was to bury dead dogs, and there did not seem to be any one to attend to the matter.

An hour or two afterward a message was telephoned in, stating that there was a dead dog at Sixth and Washington, with a rope around his leg, etc. A little later the dog was reported from Sixth and Morrison and a while after from Sixth and Commercial, stating that the dog was out on Seventh street. "Has his leg rope around his leg?" inquired the auditor. The dog has a rope on his leg, and Mr. Matthews then asked earnestly if the dog was really dead, as he seemed to be able to trot, and so on. "The dog was dead, but not enough but when people found to one was coming to take it away, they moved it on a block at a time. By this process it will eventually get out of town."

IN MEMORIAM.

The following resolutions were adopted by Rescue Hook & Ladder Co. of Albany, Oregon, at the last regular meeting:

WHEREAS, By a decree of the Supreme Being of the Universe, death has entered our human family, and our fellow members, therefore be it

Resolved, That in George Vasselto, Rescue Hook & Ladder Co. has lost an active, zealous member, and the community a generous, honest, and intelligent citizen, and that each member has been deprived of a true and earnest friend.

Resolved, That our sorrow shall be in harmony with that of his dearest relatives.

Resolved, That the loss of Geo. Vasselto from the councils of our meetings will be greatly missed.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be recorded among our minutes, presented to the family of the deceased and published in the local papers. J. D. GIBBS, W. F. READ, Committee.

Wheat in Grain Sacks.

Grain dealers in San Francisco talk of refusing to accept wheat this year that is put in sacks that have been used before, saying that second hand sacks seldom contain wheat. It is thought the principal objection is to compel farmers to buy new sacks, and that a combination has been made between the grain bag manufacturers and the grain dealers for this purpose.

A good way to rid grain sacks of weevil is said to be by using bisulphide of carbon. It may be done in the car-houses after the sacks are filled, but the best way is to put the sacks in some deep place and sprinkle them with the fluid or pour it over them and shut them up. This should be done away from fire as the fluid or gas is very explosive. Register.

DRIVES AND SHIPMENTS.

A large number of sheep to be taken from Unadilla Co. by Eastern buyers.

Penitentiary Oregonian. An enormous number of sheep will be driven or shipped from Unadilla county this season to Eastern markets.

Buyers have been eager and active, and a good price has been the rule, invariably. R. Boettcher, the heaviest buyer, starts one drive of about 8,000 head from Lee's crossing today.

He will take nearly 24,000 head out of the county, all of which go to Nebraska markets.

W. A. Lanterman, of the Mandan, Dakota, firm of Lanterman & Bro., will ship twenty cars-loads from Pendleton in a few days, and ten carloads from Sprague, in all about 8,000 head. These sheep go to Dakota. Mr. Lanterman has finished buying.

W. S. Parkins will make a shipment from Pendleton next week of five or six thousand head, to Dakota markets.

Richard Ray starts a drive from the Allak county next week, of about six thousand head, bound for Nebraska.

A Card.

To the Citizens of Albany. Having been appointed by the Oregon conference of the Evangelical Association to Albany, and as pastor of the Evangelical church in this city, and having received the hearty approval and esteem of the citizens of Albany, since my stay among them, I desire to express my gratitude for the kindness and many tokens of friendship to myself and family during the past two years. Hoping that the friendly feeling which existed may so continue in the future, praying that I may be a blessing to your city so long as I stay among you, trusting that I may have the cooperation of the Christian people of Albany, and the love and esteem of all our citizens. I am humbly your servant and brother. T. B. FROST.
