Should be Accepted.

A definite proposition has been received from the Tacoma Starch and Glucose Co., to locate here, and the proposion is one that should be taken under advisement and acted upon at once. The conditions of the proposition is that our citizens take $50,000 of the $100,000 shares of stock in the concern. The establishment will employ from 75 to 250 men, and would have a capacity of five tons of starch and five tons of glucose in 24 hours, and a guarantee of a 30% profit upon the starch manufactured. The reason for changing to this locality is the well known superiority of the Willamette valley wheat in starch properties. Mr. E. L. Scanitt president of the Washington Bank is authority for the propsition and there should be no hesitancy in considering it. A meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening will act upon it.

Our stock of staple and fancy groceries is all nice and fresh and of the best quality. Spencer & Blackburn.

GOVERNOR PENNOYER'S SPEECH.

It Was The Same Old Harrangue - Free Trade-Taffy for Senator Mitchell.

Governor Pennoyer and Geo. W. Webb, State Treasurer, addressed the citizens of this city yesterday at 1 o'clock, at the court house.

The meeting was called to order by T. J. Stites, chairman of the county central committee, and Hon. W. R. Bilyeu was elected chairman, who introduced the governor in a brief speech, in which he said that there was a considerable republican majority in the state, and appealed to voters to lay aside party and vote for the best men.

Governor Pennoyer began by reviewing the present administration and said there had been a great increase in the school fund and that the state government during the past two years had been run for $25,000 less than during the two years previous, but he did not think as good a showing could be made during the next two years. He also went for the last legislature, and said it was most extravagant in its appropriations, and conveyed the idea that if he had not been ready with his vetoes the state would have been bankrupt.

Before he got through, however, he acknowledged that he signed some of the worst measures of the session. He said that he signed the wagonroad bills because he did not consider them exactly unconstitutional. He said he vetoed the Portland water bond bill, but pleaded guilty to signing The Dalles and Baker City bond bills containing the non-taxable clause, for which he was very sorry, and said he did not take the pains to examine them, thus showing that he is interested more in the affairs of Portland than the welfare of the dear people of the state, about which so much hallow brag is being made. He said he vetoed the Portland bridge bill because he considered its location was the worst place in Portland, but said nothing about its location interfering with his saw-mill property just below it.

The state railroad commission he denounced as a useless extravagance, and said that never was a greater fraud perpetrated on the state. He did not mention the fact, however, that he, as governor of the state, had appointed a railroad commission of his own, and by refusing to recognize the acts of the legislature had three of these boards of railroad commissioners in existence at one time, bringing the state into a costly muddle and open ridicule, and that the governor and his commissioners subsided only after a suit for their salary was begun before Judge Boise and was carried into the supreme court of the state, and there decided against them.

The governor was opposed to The Dalles boat railway scheme. He accused D. P. Thompson of wanting to sell the Oregon City locks to the state at an enormous figure, although he acknowledged in the next sentence that Thompson had sold his stock to the locks company for $16,000.

On the labor question he referred to the riot among the Italian laborers on the Oregon Pacific railroad at Corvallis, and said that the company made such low estimates on the work on the road that the contractors grew disgusted and left the state, and that he compelled the company to pay the men, and that he afterwards got a senator from Linn county to introduce a bill to give laborers on railroads a lien on the road for their wages, but that the bill was destroyed by amendments and then passed.

He made the accusation that Mr. Thompson said he would be governor, if it cost him $100,000, and said that two gentlemen told him so.

He touched the tariff question very lightly, probably remembering the result of the vote in Linn county when Cleveland ran on a free trade platform. He said the republicans favored free sugar and the democrats free wool, and when the farmers present remembered that Oregon has wool to sell and has to buy sugar, there was no applause.

The governor broached a subject which he had not touched upon in his speeches heretofore.

It was the silver question. He said the demonetization of silver has reduced the price of wheat in Oregon from $1.10 to 68 cent cents per bushel. He eulogized Senator Mitchell for favoring the free coinage of silver and extended to him a copious amount of taffy. He tried to make an issue on the silver question, but as the free coinage of silver is endorsed in both the democratic and republican state platforms the effort was a failure.

Governor Pennoyer speaks fluently, but his speech displayed an inordinate egotism, and showed that Pennoyer, while he poses as the patron saint of the laboring men, is not altogether sincere.

He was followed by G. W. Webb, who said that none of the state funds had got away during his term of office, and that the state was in a prosperous condition. He said his opponent was an upright gentleman and that either of them would make a good state treasurer. His opponent, he said, was a portly man of about 200 pounds, and being a very small man himself, he thought voters ought to choose the lesser of the two evils.

Farm Residence Burned.

The fine farm residence of Edward G. Cox, situated seven miles east of this city, was burned yesterday morning with nearly all of the contents. Mr. Cox and family were in this city when the fire occurred. It was observed by the neighbors too late to save but little, an organ and a sewing machine being the only articles taken out. The house was large and cost about $3000. It was insured for $1000 in the State Insurance Co.

LETTER FROM GATESVILLE.

Something of the Settlement and Growth of This Thriving Town on the O. P.

GATESVILLE, May 22.

Doubtless your readers are aware that up here, nestled in the foothills of the Cascades in the valley of the Santiam, is a place called Gatesville, so named after a family of old-timers who came here years ago. To the casual observer there is nothing in or about the place worthy of notice, but the future of the place, or the possibilities of the future thereof, are worthy of note. First it is the nearest accessable point to the mines of the Santiam which are now receiving their share of attention from the speculating world, and it is safe to say those mines are making as good showing as any mining district in America today, as there are not 15 miles from Gates, millions in precious metals that this year will without doubt be developed and Gates will be the depot for supplies to that camp. Again will in 5 miles of this place are at least fifty thousand acres of fine timber land as ever grew, and already several companies are in process of formation for the purpose of erecting mills to cut up this timber, and Gates will be the R. R. point from which it will all be shipped. These mills and mines will give employment to hundreds and perhaps thousands of men in the near future. Again the agricultural land on this continent lays along the foot hills of the Cascade Range, and these heavy timbered lands, when the timber is removed, will be as fine farms as the sun shines on, and will richly repay the husbandman, and land that now goes begging at $10 per acre inside of two or three years can not be bought. We have seen just such changes wrought once before in a short lifetime, and we will see a repitition of it in the valley of the Santiam.

Teachers Take an Outing.

A pleasant party composed of the teachers of the Albany public schools and friends, drove to Corvallis on Thursday evening to attend the closing exercises of the public schools at that place. The programme was rendered in the opera house and greeted by a very large audience. The entire programme was interesting, including pupils from every department of the schools. It consisted of music, vocal and instrumental, recitations, tableaux and gymnastic exercises. All features were worthy of note but perhaps one of the most attractive, was that of calisthenics presented by forty young ladies in costume. The boys followed with a brief series of athletics both funny and entertaining. A little lady executed a minuet with the stately grace said to characterize our grandmothers as she recited "Long Ago." The party were especially to the courtesy of Prof. Yates and the lady teachers in the cordial greeting extended. These pleasant exchanges tend to develop harmonious relations between our towns and are much to be desired.

Sin and Salmon.

A man's home record should be reasonably good. The point to this observation is that the Rev. Le Roy has been in this State some three years. During his first years residence here, he was stationed at Astoria. It seems that he has given Astoria the "goby" in his political travels and Bro. Miller had to go it alone down at the "City by the Sea." The Rev. Le Roy did not visit his old home and the reasons for this are given in the following extract taken from the Daily Astorian of recent date under the heading of, "Our Oregon Burchard:" Rev. Le Roy was advertised to speak here tonight, but is not on hand. Some time ago this gentleman, who is now running for state superintendent on the democratic ticket, in a public address in Portland, is reported to have said that there was "nothing but sin and salmon in Astoria." This is decidedly complimentary to Astoria. He ran for county superintendent of public instruction on the prohibition ticket county at the last election and got 95 votes out of 2024. He probably wants no help from Astoria, which has nothing in it, according to him, but "sin and salmon."

Death In a Mill.

The Coos Bay News relates the following fatal accident in a mill: An accident occurred at Porter mill on Monday forenoon, which resulted in the death of A. B. Porter, an employe. He was working on the steam rollers, when two 10-inch cants came off the carriage. The cants were to be transferred to other rollers, and Charley Woodward let out chain for Porter to make fast with. He was in the act of crawling under the cants to fasten the chain, when one of them fell off the rollers, striking the unfortunate man on the head and scattering his brains over the mill. He was a green hand, and had been cautioned not to crawl under the cants. Porter was about 45 years old, and lived for a time on South slough. He leaves a wife and family at Empire, for whom much sympathy is expressed.

A New Church For Lebanon.

The Baptists of Lebanon met at the C. P. church Monday, May 12, and organized a church with a membership of twenty-one. At a meeting held last Tuesday the following officers were elected: Clerk, S. O. Wallace; deacons, S. O. Wallace and John Grisham; messengers to the association which meets at Albany, June 18, C. A. McElroy, John Grisham, S. O. Wallace and Mrs. Tillotson. Rev. McElroy, of The Dalles, has located in Lebanon and has been engaged to preach for these people. —Lebanon Express.

The "Deestrick Skule."

Never, perhaps, was so much hearty, side-splitting laughter indulged in at the opera house as was done last evening, the occasion being the presentation of the "Deestrick Skule" by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, assisted by prominent citizens of the city. The entertainment was a representation of a country school 50 years ago. The ladies were attired in old-time costumes, with huge pantalettes extending to the ankles and dresses much shorter. The school was taught by Hon. W. R. Bilyeu, and his frisky boys were composed of well known citizens, some of them venerable pioneers. The exercises were excessively ludicrous, and were a great success, there being an immense audience present. Mrs. Geo. E. Chamberlain sang "The Old Oaken Bucket" in a charming manner, and in response to an encore sang "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." Mr. A. B. Seal sang "Old Dog Tray" in a fashion that brought down the house. The school gave an exhibition, and the songs, recitations and original orations were of a character calculated to make the worst dyspeptic laugh. The entertainment was a great success.

Drowned In a Spring.

Wm. Perkins, a respected citizen of Yamhill county who lives near North Yamhill, met his death last Monday evening in a peculiar manner. He had been away from home visiting for the day and upon returning unhitched his horses and led them to the spring near by for water. While standing near the bank of the small pool of water he was taken with a fit, to which he is subject, and fell into the water. Before assistance could be rendered he was dead.

Decoration Day At Lebanon.

The following is the programme for Memorial day: Procession will form in front of the Firemen's hall and will march to the M. E. church, preceded by the Lebanon Cornet Band. At the church an oration will be delivered by Judge D. R. N. Blackburn, and at the close the procession will re-form, march to the cemetery and proceed to the decoration of graves and other exercises peculiar to the occasion. A very interesting time is anticipated. We extend a cordial invitation to all who are bound by the ligaments of a common brotherhood to join the people of Lebanon in perpetuating the names of our heroic dead.—Express.

Republican Speaking.

Hon. T. H. Tongue, of Hillsboro will address the citizens of Halsey on May 28th at 8 P. M., Lebanon May 29th at 2 P. M., Brownsville May 29th at 8 P. M. on the political issues of the day. Everybody invited to attend especially the ladies.

A Beautiful and Useful Book.

Mrs. John A. Logan has prepared a very useful book called the "Home Manual," which treats of social, dramatic and business life, and contains a mine of useful knowledge for every person. The book is not only a very valuable literary production, but it is also a most attractive and valuable artistic souvenir in its illustrations and general make-up. It is a work that should be in the possession of every household. Mrs. A. M. Talt is taking subscriptions for this valuable work, and our people should not fail to look the book over when she calls upon them, for it is a rare treat to even see it.

DECORATION DAY CONCERT,

MISS FLORA BATSON

THE GREATEST COLORED SINGER IN THE WORLD.

At Albany Opera House,

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 30TH

The Peerless Mezzo-Soprano.—New York Sun.

The Colored Jenny Lind.—New York World.

All her numbers were sung without effort—as the birds sing.—Mobile, Ala., Daily Register.

A charming and gifted singer.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Has earned the fame of being the greatest colored singer in the world. —Vicksburg, Miss., Post.

A voice of great range, and of remarkable depth and purity.—Louisville, Ky., Courier Journal.

She will never lack for an audience in the "City of Seven Hills."—Richmond Va., Planet.

The sweetest voice that ever charmed a Virginia audience.—Lynchburg, Va., Daily Advance.

A highly cultivated mezzo-soprano of great sweetness, power, and compass, and of dramatic quality.—Charleston, S. C., News and Courier.

The range of her voice is such she can easily change from the purest soprano to as fine a baritone as any male singer can produce.—Columbus, S. C. Daily Register.

It is the general verdict that her singing here has fully justified the magnificent notices of the Eastern press.—New Orleans Pelican.

A reigning favorite in Chicago. Her songs reach the heart.—Chicago Conservator.

The most wonderful voice we ever listened to.—Pueblo, Col., Daily Chieftain.

Her articulation is so perfect her renditions seem like recitations set to music.—Kansas City Dispatch.

Her inimitable rendering of the world's favorite songs will yet make her name a household word from ocean to ocean.—St. Louis Advance.

At 21 years of age she has sung her way into hundreds of thousands of hearts.—Philadelphia Sentinel.

She displayed a range of voice and execution little short of marvelous.—Omaha, Neb., Republican.

She electrified the vast audience at the Mormon Tabernacle service on Sunday by her marvelous rendition of the 27th Psalm.—Deseret Evening News Salt Lake, Utah.

Possessing a voice of rare richness and wonderful range, she is undeniably the greatest singer among the 8,000,000 colored people in America, and deserves a high rank among the great singers of the world. Her progress through the country has been one continuous triumph.—Denver Rocky Mountain News.

During the great temperance revival in New York, Miss Batson sang "Six Feet of Earth" ninety successive nights in the large hall of Masonic Temple. Her wonderfully pathetic rendering of this and other songs moved thousands to tears, moving hearts that arguments failed to reach.

The secret of her matchless power of electrifying an audience lies not solely in her studied art, but in the captivating melody and sweetness and singularly extensive range of her faultless voice, coupled with her simple, unostentations and childlike naturalness.—Bishop S. T. Jones.

No other singer has ever drawn such audiences in New Orleans so many [seventeen] sucessive nights. The marvelous sweetness, power and range of her voice, her perfect articulation, and her ability to express in song every passion of the soul, enables her, without apparent effort to electrify by her dramatic power, to convulse with laughter by her inimitable humor, or to move to tears by the irresistible pathos of her voice.—New Orleans Standard.

Broad street, in front of the Academy of Music Philadelphia, was a surging sea of humanity on Thursday evening but it was within the walls of the building that one became fully impressed with the magnitude of the assemblage. Over 4,000 people were present. Miss Flora Batson scored another popular triumph. Her voice seemed to possess an irresistible power over the audience, and the enthusiasm which her performance evoked was tremendous.—Phil. Letter in N. Y. Age.

A mezzo-soprano of wonderful range. —San Francisco Examiner.

Her vocal register has a wonderful sweep, from the lowest contralto notes to soprano heights—Los Angeles Cal. Evening Express

A magnificient voice, highly cultivated, and capable of compassing more octaves than any voice we ever heard—Southern California Christian Advocate.

She scored a complete success as a vocalist of high ability and fully justified the favorable criticism of the eastern press.—San Francisco Examiner

A better pleased audience never filed out of the theatre than that which listened to her last evening.—Los Angeles Tribune.

Her voice is highly cultivated, rich and under perfect control while the compass is wonderful, extending from a mezzo-soprano to a baritone.—Santa Monica Out Look (Cal).

The marvelous sweetness, purity and compass of her voice, covering in its range nearly three octaves, is the wonder and admiration of musical critics.—San Diego (Cal)

She sings without affection, and has an absolute command of her voice from the highest to the lowest register. Her execution is firm, her notes correct and her enunciation perfect. She was a surprise to every one present, and established a reputation that will guarantee her full houses at her future concerts on the Pacific coast.—San Francisco Call.

It may be truly said that Miss Batson came, she sang and conquered. So enraptured was the audience that when the curtain was rung down for a "good-night," the people remained still for a moment as if spell-bound. —Santa Ana Blade (Cal.)

Fully 3,600 people were crowded into Steinway Hall (New York) last night to listen to the peerless mezzo soprano, Miss Flora Batson who captivated the vast audience with her peculiarly sweet and sympathetic voice. She wore a magnificent crown studded with pearls and rubies, presented to her as "Queen of Song" by the citizens of Philadelphia and last evening Miss Florence Williams, of the New York Age, on behalf of a committee of 100 presented Miss Batson with a superb diamond-set bead necklace in token of their appreciation of her as the most successful colored Prima Donna. When Miss Batson bowed her thanks the 3,000 people burst forth with a storm of enthusiastic applause.—New York Sun.

Those who crowded the First M. E. Church last night to hear Miss Flora Batson, the "Colored Jenny Lind," had a new experience. For the first time they saw on the platform the embodiment of the new civilization in the people of that race—a lady of refinement and cultivation. As a crowned queen of song—and she wore her jeweled diadem with a self-poise and humility that a princess might have envied—Miss Batson convinced the critics with her first selection, the "Huntsman's Horn," as the sonorous amplitude of her rare voice resounded like a silver bugle cheering the hounds to pursuit of game, that she possessed an organ magnificent in respect to sound, and in the use of which there is little the European masters will find to correct. In response to the encore which brought her back, she gave the baritone song, "With All Her Faults, I Love Her Still," showing the extraordinary range of her voice, and producing a melody like the low tones of a pipe organ under a master's touch.—San Diego (Cal.) Sun.
