IN THE SENATE.
Immediately after the reading of the journal, the oath of office was administered by the Vice-president to Carlisle as senator from Kentucky for Beck's unexpired term.
A silver bill proposed by Banker St. John, of New York, was introduced by Senator Plumb today. It directs the secretary of the treasury to buy silver bullion to the aggregate amount of 4,500,000 ounces of fine silver at the market price, and to issue United States notes in payment, these notes to be legal tender for all purposes.
Call's resolution, asking for information as to landings of armed force at Cedar Keys, Florida, was modified and agreed to. The senate resumed consideration of the naval appropriation bill.
The pending question was Cockerell's amendment to strike out the provision for three heavily armed battle ships at a cost of four million dollars each. There was a long debate on this, in which Cockerell commented upon the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy for the construction of a large number of vessels.
“There is no occasion,” said he, “for the coast defenses or an increase of our naval establishments. The American flag is perfectly safe in every part.”
Voorhes said the American people were no more in favor of increasing the navy and having a great sea-going navy than they were in favor of having a great standing army. He said he had faith in the ability of the American people to get ready when an emergency arose.
Butler spoke vigorously in opposition to the amendment, and regretted that it was not in his power to vote against it.
“Why are you not that magnificent trump that Hercules, to whom I gave my first lot of bread,” “I am the same.”
“What has worked such dreadful change in so short a time?”
“Your first lot of bread, ma'am.”—New York Sun.

The dog evidently did not understand the reason for this deprivation and could not get to the grain, so he went to the barn where their owner went into the stable he found the dog in the very act of supplying the cow with meal from the barrel which was kept by taking all the meal in his mouth and leaving it in a box in front of the cow, who eagerly devoured the much missed food.
