A Letter from Senator Dolph Concerning a Bridge at Albany.

THE CITY'S FIRE LIMITS.

The Council Votes to Refuse to Law Forbidding the Construction of Wooden Buildings.

At the regular meeting of the city council last night all officers and members were present. The committee on the act and order asked for further time to report on the application of P. J. Baltimore to change the location of the water ditch on Lyon street, which was granted.

The committee on fire and water reported on the application of Cook & Long & Co. for permission to erect a wooden building in the fire limits, which was adopted.

The communication from Chief Engineer C. H. Stewart as already published in the HERALD, was read and referred to the committee on fire and water, to act in conjunction with the chief engineer.

The chief engineer asked for new head-gates at the head of the ditches on Ferry and Broadbald streets; granted.

Petition of Chas. Pfeiffer and others to have the Calapooia street sewer extended to Eighth street was read and referred to the committee on streets and public property.

The following communication from Hon. J. N. Dolph, relating to a memorial to congress for a bridge at Albany was read:

MR. DOLPH'S LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 24, 1890. Hon. N. J. Henton, recorder, Albany, Oregon.—Dear Sir—I am just in receipt of the memorial of the mayor and council of the city of Albany to the senate and house of representatives of the United States, praying congress to grant the privilege of erecting a free wagon road and foot bridge across the Willamette river at some point opposite the city. Also the draft of a bill.

I shall take pleasure in presenting the memorial to the senate and house of representatives, and in having them referred to the committee on the subject of a free wagon road and foot bridge across the Willamette river at some point opposite the city. Also the draft of a bill.

I shall take pleasure in presenting the memorial to the senate and house of representatives, and in having them referred to the committee on the subject of a free wagon road and foot bridge across the Willamette river at some point opposite the city. Also the draft of a bill.

I suppose you know that, as the law now stands, the state may authorize the construction of bridges across navigable waters or freely within its borders, and you have your choice to come to congress, or to secure an act authorizing the construction of a bridge from the legislature when it meets.

Yours truly, J. N. Dolph.

The committee on ways and means asked for further time to report on the petition of a bridge across the Willamette river at some point opposite the city.

The committee on streets and public property was granted further time on the business referred to from the last meeting.

The Killing was Justifiable.

The Corvallis Times says: R. L. Feagles had a preliminary examination last Saturday before Justice Carlie, for the killing of Morg Lillard. Mr. Feagles had not been under arrest for a crime, but he demanded an investigation before a magistrate that justice and the community might be made familiar with the facts. A great many witnesses testified and his honor very wisely concluded that the killing was justifiable and in self-defense. The community, to a man, concur in the opinion. The killing might have been a misfortunate affair, but Morg Lillard alone is responsible for his death.

To be Examined.

About twenty students of Blackstone will be examined by the supreme court at Pendleton this week and all those who are successful in answering the different questions propounded by this high body will be admitted to the practice of law.

ALBANY COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

The Graduating Exercises of the Twenty-Third Year of the College.

The commencement exercises of the Albany College at the opera house yesterday were of a most interesting and attractive nature.

Rev. Dr. Campbell made the opening prayer. Miss Lora Vance rendered a beautiful selection of instrumental music.

Mr. Carlton Sox, of the junior class, pronounced in a most pleasing manner a well studied and carefully prepared oration upon the subject of "Ideality," showing that his subject was one of the most important and controlling influences of human endeavor.

Miss Anna Hook followed with a beautiful instrumental selection. Mrs. Rose Funchall, also of the junior class gave an intellectual rendition of the subject of "Pictures," showing that in spite of the princely fortunes that are spent for scenes portrayed upon canvass, and the very many famous galleries that are made the Mecca of pilgrimages of tourists, the most valuable and cherished of pictures are those that human beings carry in their memories. Her well rendered essay abounded in beautiful thought and glowing sentiment.

The floral tributes to Miss Trumbull were numerous and handsome. Mrs. Chamberlain sang Madeline in her usual effective and attractive manner.

Mr. Lewis E. Lee, the graduate of the year, gave the senior year oration, his subject being "The Post Office." His rendition of this subject was a full appreciation of the many and varied functions of the post office department, and its practical and sentimental applications; its multitudinous changing scenes and incidents; its influence over the lives and conditions of the people; its being made the vehicle for words of love or hate, of wisdom or folly of happiness and woe of business and of pleasure, being the common vehicle for all and an indispensable agent that reaches out and joins all parts of the human family. A friend and a servant to all and of inestimable value from the postoffice work he drifted to the kindred subject of the dissemination of knowledge and thought by the means of books, and gave a mention of the leading writers and their works, including a truthful tribute to Shakespeare and giving the true and wonderful influence for good that good books exert. The oration was well delivered and at its close Mr. Lee was the recipient of abundant and beautiful floral tributes.

An instrumental duet by Miss Edna Allen and Prof. Lorillard was an example of a splendidly rendered musical gem, and gave credit to both teacher and pupil.

Prof. F. N. Condit presented the beautiful diploma to Mr. Lee, and announced the vacation in the school until September, and the changes that will occur by the withdrawal of Mrs. Pollock, who on account of health has found it necessary to seek a less arduous position in the East.

The exercises throughout were excellent and reflected great credit upon the talent of the pupils as well as the superior training of the school.

The year has been a very successful one and the next year will be entered with every facility to make it a continued success.

The Sleepless Eye of Justice.

Many stories are told at the expense of the well-known German ex-magistrate with the glass eye. One day while trying a case with a jurve he fell asleep, but as the glass eye was open the lawyers and those interested in the case knew it not, nor that their testimony was being taken. They only discovered that the jurve had fallen asleep when one of the lawyers arose and asked for the decision of the Court, and not receiving an answer demanded of the constable what was the matter. The constable then hastily awoke the sleepy jurve and formally started to the assemblage that the eye which had been open was glass. The case had to be tried again from the start, as the magistrate hadn't heard a word of the testimony.

NORTHWEST NOTES.

Crooked and O-horn rivers have gone down almost to low water mark. The snow is almost all out of the mountains, hence low water.

The Chinese peasant is getting up into the edge of the mountains. In a few years they will be scattered all through the Oregon Alps.

Jackson county has the only lady census enumerater in Oregon in the person of Mrs. Alice Gwiley, appointed for Woodville, Rock Point and Gold Hill precincts.

The child of Mrs. Hugh Glencross, of Astoria, born on Sunday, May 25th and which weighed barely eighteen ounces when twenty-four hours old, is still alive and is growing though it is very weak.

It will be known in a few weeks that the population of Oregon is taking the vote cast and the number of school children reported. It is estimated that the population will be about 350,000. In the state of Washington the population will be nearly as large as in Oregon.

KUSHED BETWEEN TWO CARS.

A Serious Accident at the Southern Pacific Depot Last Night.

C. W. Hagen, an employe in the Southern Pacific freight office at this city, was assisting in the coupling of freight cars last evening, when he was caught between two cars and received injuries which may prove fatal. He was unaccounted to the work of brakeman, and in coupling the cars on a curve was caught between the corners of the cars on the inside of the curve. Both collar bones were broken and he was otherwise seriously injured. Dr. G. W. Maston, the company's physician at this city, was called and set the broken bones. His injuries were severe, but hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The injured man is a relative of baggage master Barker.

Return of McKanlass.

Following is what the Spokane Chronicle has to say of the McKanlass minstrels who will give a performance in this city Friday evening next: McKanlass operating minstrels opened last night to a good house. We must acknowledge that the show is first class in every respect, and the jokes and songs are all new and fresh.

McKanlass is a great comedian, a good singer and a graceful dancer, and his wife and band play, sing and dance. Master Willie is a little wonder, and with his little sister they make the greatest little team that ever appeared in Spokane. They are the most finished children performers we have ever seen; and Miss Griffin, the vocalist, sang some very sweet and pleasing songs, receiving several very hearty encores. The soloists were very funny indeed, keeping the house in a roar from the time of his entrance until his exit. The company all through is good, the best of those that ever visited our city. The choruses, orchestra, and band are away up.

New Words.

From Murray's Magazine. In the last month a notable attempt has been made to add to the resources of the English language. Lord Bury, as chairman of the Electric Traction Company, wrote to "The Times" to ask for a short word—if possible of one syllable—to express the idea of being conveyed by electric power. As might have been expected, letter after letter poured in, full of strange and wonderful suggestions.

The following are only a few of the capricious verbs which scientific and scientific-sounding words were offered for consideration: to "ohm," to "volt," to "mote," to "electric," to "ohmoh," to "squirm," to "shock," to "franklin," to "scint," to "vark," to "trick-trick," to "faradate," to "weber." There is clearly no lack of choice; perhaps America will best use, as it did with the verb to "twit."
