The official count for the governor of the state of Oregon will not be made until the state legislature canvasses the vote the second Monday in January, 1891: There is no doubt, however, about the result on the gubernatorial contest. The returns as far as they can be obtained now give Pennoyer 4,720 majority.

Grasshoppers in Eastern Oregon.

The Pendleton East Oregonian reports that grasshoppers and crickets are overrunning the Umatilla reservation. The garden of Mr. Plucker, who leased the ranch of the chief of the Indian police, has been totally destroyed and his grain has been destroyed to the stalk, every blade being stripped by the pests. The crickets are of the gray variety and are of immense proportions, while the grasshoppers make up in numbers what they lack in size. Jacob Reith reports that the grasshoppers are cleaning out his garden at his ranch seven miles down the river.

An Incipient Blaze.

At 2 o'clock yesterday a fire alarm was sounded, and the fire companies quickly responded. The fire was located at the residence of Alfred Wheeler on Ellsworth and Sixth streets, and was caused by a chimney burning out, which set the roof on fire. It was extinguished without damage. In running to the fire one of the hose carts of Engine Co. No. 2 was overturned and badly broken.

A Handsome Brick Building.

A HERALD reporter was shown the plans and elevations of the large brick building being built by Mr. P. J. Baltimore on the corner of First and Lyon streets. It is a handsome three story structure 66x100 feet, and will cost when completed $20,000. All the rooms are already engaged. It will have a modern front, and will be one of the finest buildings in the city.

THE AURNSPAUGH TRAGEDY.

The Injured Wife Was Attired in Her Wedding Night Robes for the Dead.

A gentleman who was a neighbor of the Aurnspaugh family, and who was first on the scene after the murder and suicide in the Grant Aurnspach family has furnished the HERALD some additional particulars of the shooting.

He said that the injured wife had planned the deed, and had attired herself in her wedding night robes for the occasion. She had slept with her husband during the night and shot him as he lay asleep in the early morning. She was an excellent shot, and was accustomed to shoot with a rifle. Her aim was sure and showed a steady hand, as with only two cartridges in the pistol she shot her husband through the heart and then blew her own brains out. She was more sinned against than sinning, and the feeling in the neighborhood was all on her side.

Following is the substance of the letter already referred to in the HERALD, which was written to her sister, Mrs. Anna Dank at Fossil, Gilliam county, Oregon, and which was simply signed "Jennie."

"Lottie is the most queer acting girl that I ever saw without any exception. What was the cause of her leaving home in the first place, and what was the cause of her leaving Gilliam county, how long has she been in Portland; what kind of a woman was that Mrs. Jennie Montgomery. Please dear sister, enlighten me if you can, concerning her behavior and her way of doing through life. I am in considerable trouble over her. * * * I have pleaded with Lottie for mercy sake, for my sake and for my two dear little children's sake; but I cannot do anything with her. I wish you would tell dear brother George all about this and have him come over, probably he can have some influence over her, the poor miserable wretch. I am having more trouble than I can bear, I am afraid. * * * This afternoon I will have to write more, and it is dreadful. Oh, such a terrible sight I saw before my eyes this morning, my poor dear husband sitting in a chair with that miserable Lottie on his lap with her arms around his neck, her face layed against his and his arm around her. I was sick in bed from worrying over the way he was doing and I slipped out barefooted from my bedroom to the kitchen, and opened the door right in their faces. Oh, if I could only die so I could know no more nor grieve no more about this. I commenced this letter some time ago but did not come to the conclusion to send it; but the matter gets worse and worse. Lottie, the wretch, is going to be the cause of my poor husband and my separation. He told me to-day he would not live with me any longer. Oh, if you could just see how she tried to get him away from me and finally done it. She may deny all this; but, oh, if she does she will be telling a lie. Good-bye, dear sister. Show this to George or any one you wish."

The erring sister, who was the cause of the unfortunate wife's action, is in the city, having arrived yesterday, on her way to New York. She is registered at the St. Charles hotel.

Excursion to the Front.

The Corvallis Congregational Sunday school yesterday gave an excursion over the Oregon Pacific railroad, from Corvallis to Brietonbush. Many of the prominent citizens of Corvallis were among the participants, and three coaches were loaded to their fullest capacity. Quite a number from this city joined the excursion here. They report having had a pleasant and enjoyable time. Excursions to the mountains over the eastern extension of the Oregon Pacific are likely to be popular this season. The intention of the Sunday school excursion was to stop at the Green Basin siding, but many of the party desiring to go on further, Superintendent Stevenson, who was on board, kindly ordered the train on, and the picnic dinner was eaten upon the banks of the Brietonbush, whose clear cold water gave a relish to the contents of the baskets that were amply provided. Several of the agricultural college professors were with the excursion.

Jetties at Yaquina.

Captain Symons, United States engineer, has returned from a visit to Yaquina. He says the jetties have stood the winter very well. The sand is forming in behind them and they have been of great benefit to the bar. The heavy freshets of last winter have brought down a great deal of earth which has made some bars in the river. Work will be started up on the jetties as soon as the appropriation is available. The plant is now being placed in readiness, plans perfected and all arrangements necessary to that are being made.

Of Interest to Horse Owners.

Horses boarded by the day or week at L. Sender's stables. All driving or other horses will be well cared for, being under the immediate charge of Mr. Fred Moist. Charges will be very reasonable. Farmers' horses will also be furnished with the best of accommodations. Owners of good horses will always find sale for the same at this stable at good prices. Stables located on Sixth and Ellsworth streets, one block south of school building.

Spring Jackets at Cost.

I have a small line of spring jackets in colors I wish to close out and have reduced the price to cost. They are the latest style and a bargain. I also have a line of spring stockinet jackets for $5.50 each, which is the nicest jacket for the price in the market. Samuel E. Young.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

Some Things Which Contribute to Make a City Prosperous.

An exchange indulges in some good observations as to the methods that make a city prosperous or retards them. It concludes that the one thing thing that makes a city prosperous is the stability of its business men. Where each attempts to forward the interest of the other he adds to his income as well. In towns where each strives to knock the other down there will be very few prosperous men. So it is in every community. Where neighbor is at war with neighbor there will be poor straw stacks at both places, but where all are at peace and good will reigns there is happiness and prosperity. Meanness never pays. But we find a great many persons who go to other towns to buy their goods and pay more for them than they could buy the same of their home merchants. Some buy on credit of one merchant and when they get a little money will spend with another merchant who don't trust them. Some will tell every stranger that comes to town that the business men are rascals and robbers. Some will construe every effort of enterprise as a scheme and a boodle game. In fact there is nothing calculated to increase the interest of a town or country but has its opposition. Merchants have been known to carry customers when they would otherwise have suffered, that allow such debts to go unpaid and then spend the money with others and curse their creditors. It has been for such persons to carry two or three hundred in their pocket for a year and then go to the bank and ask them to loan them twenty-five dollars for a few days to finish out a payment, and allow the banker to carry it for six months and then grumble at ten per cent. Such things should not be if we desire to see a flourishing town and induce people to locate here. We must be a unit and work and labor for each other's good.

If a stranger inquires of you concerning the condition of any future prospects of your town, speak a good word for every department that deserves it. If a merchant favors you when you are in need remember him when you have the money. Those of you who have money to spend with your home merchants, if they don't have what you want, have them send for it for you. They can get it cheaper than you can. If farmers have produce to sell they should bring it to the home market Let business men work together and do each other all the good they can. If you have spare money, put it in the bank until you want it, and if you want a favor go to the banker for it. In union there is strengh, but a house divided against itself cannot stand.
