GUARD THE TONGUE
To the most of people the three words at the head of this writing will have no weight, for they will think that its application belongs to a neighbor and not to them.

But a careful investigation perhaps would develop the fact that the application of the three words is more general than many would surmise.

It is not the malice aforesaid that always given the venomous sting and cruel injury to the language that is uttered. More often it is the thoughtless idle words, dropped without care and with no harmful intent that causes the injury that is irreparable.

Words should be carefully weighed before they are uttered, and even matters that may be in a degree facts, should be put into words with care, and with a direc-reference to the prospect of injury to the character or wounds to the feelings of the persons spoken of.

With this view of the case—and every just and sympathetic person will concede in this view—with what strong investive should we condemn the practice so often indulged in, of repeating idle words of rumor that have not a single foundation in fact, nor the resemblance of truthfulness in them, but which nevertheless, when repeated—as they too often are—by reputable people, pierce like a two edged sword the very inmost feelings of the hearts of innocent people.

It looks as if the two houses of Congress would be able to arrive at an agreement on the subject of silver. The probable compromise, as outlined in our dispatches, will result in a law requiring the purchase of $4,500,000 of silver monthly, which will have emitted against it legal tender certificates. If the bullion redemption feature which appeared in the original House bill is stricken out the bimetalists will have achieved a great, although not a complete, victory.

THE MATTER OF SHUTTING OUT THE TRAFFICKERS, who prey upon the tourists who visit the wonderful falls of Niagara, has been a constant effort of the state of New York for years. The environs of the falls were made a public park or reservation, and the trafficking hack drivers prohibited, but still they manage to ply their trade and fleece the visitors without stint.

SELLER'S FINE FOR BEING ENGAGED in the prize fight with Killrain, amounted to just about two per cent of the profits of the affair to him. He can probably stand that kind of business if the law can, but doesn't it look a good deal like a farce to levy so small a per cent after making so much fuss about it? Probably some smart detective could have levied and collected as much for the government without any fuss at all.

THE EDITOR OF THE ANDOVER Review looks at the eight-hour question from a point of view differing from that usually taken.
Discarding the economic consideration, he considers it in sociological light. The fewer hours may possibly mean less wages, but they bring advantages of more than compensating value. To the workmen, this writer maintains, the new time is opportunity. It means a chance for mental culture, for social advance, for greater influence in all directions. The objection that the time gained may be spent in dissipation is dismissed as unworthy serious dis-
