The Albany & Astoria R. R.

Chief Engineer W. B. Barr, of the Albany and Astoria survey, is now in Albany conferring with the officers of the company. The Astoria-Columbia recently purchased the interview with P. Cowan, in which he said that if the survey of Engineer Barr proved that the route was as good as if the grades over the divide from the Nobleman valley from the Necanicum were as light as he had reported from after making his reconnaissance last fall, the work of grading from Astoria toward Tillamook would begin within thirty days after such report was made. As stated in that interview, Mr. Barr was to leave the party as soon as the pieces of the route had been carefully surveyed, and make his report of the results of the survey. This is the object of his present visit to Albany. He told friends at Astoria that the survey had demonstrated that his previous report was more than verified as to distance and gradients and he was highly pleased with it. Now if the report will go ahead with the grading, there will soon be a railroad under construction between here and Astoria. The Albany officials do not claim to be operating with their own money. They say that they are backed by heavy capitalists who will come forward at the proper time. Since it has been repeatedly promised that the construction of the Albany and Astoria line will begin at the Astoria end, and the officers have been informed that Astoria will gladly give a good subsidy, we may look for a proposition from that company as soon as Engineer Barr's report has been thoroughly digested.—Astoria-Columbia.

A Very Bad Showing.

La Cour et Mail: For some time past it has been impossible for ladies to go through First street, especially in the evening without being insulted by the blackguardly iron drunkards, who are now the time as some that no respectable citizen can walk along the streets without subjecting himself to the vilest abuse. The constitutional rights of American citizens to circulate peacefully have been denied and members of the council openly champion the cause of all this. Several families are already arranging to leave the town as a protest against the gross immorality of the place, and others will follow. No respectable man would bring his family to La Cour et at the present time.

Oregon Wants It.

Before the National Teachers' association at St. Paul, Minn., state Superintendent McElroy, of Oregon, extended an invitation to the national association to hold the meeting in 1894 at Portland, superintendent Gault, of Tacoma, superintendent Cooper, of Astoria, and others co-operating in this effort. This was to hold the association at Portland has been received with favor and approbation by the thousands of teachers and delegates recently assembled in St. Paul, and no doubt the effort will be successful. The magnificent display of crayon and drawing work from the Portland schools attracted great attention. It has been practically determined to hold the next session at Saratoga, N. Y.

The A. O. U. W. Organ.

The grand lodge of United Workmen, when in session last week at Astoria, abandoned Mr. Burkhardt's A. O. U. W. Reporter, and took up with Dr. Kessler's new publication, The Gospel, as the official organ of the order in the jurisdiction. The business will be worth to the grand about $900 per annum.—Oregonian.

The Over-worked Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States now has 150 cases on the docket. The court disposes of 40 a year. But 600 cases are argued the last year. Four years hence, when the present calendar is disposed of, there will be 2,000 cases awaiting decision. It has been sometimes intimated that the judges do not work so hard as they might, but this is entirely untrue by the fact that they decide 40 cases a year, when, considering the difficult and serious character of most of the cases, it is a large year's work. Some information recently given by Mr. Justice Peckham as to the number of deciding cases in this court is interesting. He says: "The whole court investigates each case, and the justices vote upon it to reach a decision." The whole court works as a team, and as Mr. Justice Miller puts it, "the whole court is engaged in the work." He said that the court had resorted to one reform after another to expedite business, but still was falling steadily behind. He has allowed no arguments to be heard out from eight to four, all briefs and opinions are required to be in print, so as to facilitate results. Mr. Justice Peckham said: "There is no body of public servants which put in as many hours of work as do the justices." We understand that instead of first assigning the cause to a particular judge to write the opinion, and then consulting and voting upon the opinion, every judge first examines the case, then all consult and vote, and then one is assigned to write the opinion expressing the decision. We understand also that the old practice of leaving all the opinions aloud to the whole bench has been discontinued. If the judges were relieved from the duty of going on circuit, a lower court of appeal established, the arrears would soon be worked off.

Expiration of the Close Season.

Monday the close season for quail, pheasant and grouse came to an end and the poor birds will have to be on the go. This is not saying that they have been all used to enjoy the solitude of their woodland retreats up to a time, for a number of hunters have been out already, and what is more, they secured good bags in violation of the law. Their pleasure in this business must have been so strong that the penalties for a violation of the game law had no terrors. There are always some hunters who can never wait for the expiration of the close season, and sadly cling to the woods like a dog to the night to shoot birds before they are half grown. Even now quail and pheasants are not full grown, and while they are fat and fine eating it would better were they given a week or two longer protection.
