"No. What made them mad?"

NO INSTRUCTIONS.

To Protect British Vessels From American Cutters.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 17.—H. M. S. Warspite, flagship of the north Pacific squadron, with rear admiral Hotham aboard, arrived here this afternoon. He said emphatically that he had as yet received no instructions to send any of the fleet to the north to protect British vessels from seizure by American cutters, or to retake any that might be seized in the Behring sea.

He could hardly see how the United States could establish a tenable claim to close the Behring sea, and thought that the Canadian interests must win in the diplomatic fight now progressing.

On taking command of the squadron it was only natural for him to want to see as many of the ships as possible at the summer headquarters of Esquimalt. This was the only reason for the present appearance of so many ships in port.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

The House in the Land Forfeiture Bill.

OUR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Estimates for Next Year and Appropriations Already Expended—Nominations For Officers.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Immediately after the reading of the journal the house went into the committee of the whole on the land grant forfeiture bill. After a number of amendments being offered to the bill and lost the bill was then passed.

It, with the senate bill with the Hoar substitute therefor, forfeits all lands granted to aid in the construction of a railroad opposite to and co-terminus with any portion of any such railroad not now completed.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The report of Capt. Symonds in charge of the river and harbor works in Oregon and Washington was received at the war department today, and was in substance as follows: Coquille river, Oregon. This improvement was begun in 1880. The plan provided for the construction of two parallel stone jetties 800 feet apart at the mouth of the river in order to secure 8 foot depth channel and to make it safer. The work progressed very satisfactorily. The estimate cost was $164,200 of which $72,000 has been appropriated, and all but $10,602 expended.

On Umpqua river, Or., the work of removing the bars below Scottsburg has been carefully carried on and now a 50 foot wide channel by 20 deep has been secured. Twenty-four thousand and five hundred dollars has been appropriated and nearly all of it has been expended. It is estimated that $9000 will complete the improvements recommended next year.

The entrance to Yaquina bay, Or., on the plan of improvements, provided for a dyke on the south side of the entrance, so as to cause the south channel to shoal and flow directly north with a view to opening and maintaining a channel with 17 feet at high water. Since '81 when the plan was started, $385,000 has been appropriated and all but about $3,000 has been expended. The results obtained have been very satisfactory.

It is estimated that it will take $300,000 to complete the plans projected and that $125,000 of that amount can be profitably expended during next year.

TILLAMOOK BAY AND BAR.

No general plan of improvement has been adopted for this work and the $5,200 appropriated has been expended in surveys and in removing obstructions. It is estimated that $6000 can be used in completing this work and that that amount should be appropriated.

It is now estimated that it will cost $84,000 to complete the work and that $50,000 can be profitable expended during the next year.

The upper Columbia and Snake river, Oregon and Washington. This plan of improvement calls for removal of obstructions, and bowlders and scraping the bar rock in order to secure in low water the depth of 5½ feet in the Columbia river and 4 feet in the Snake river as far as Lewiston.

To date $236,000 has been appropriated, of which all but $281 has been expended. Good progress has been made and an appropriation of $5,000 is asked for next year for Skagit, Stilaquamish, Nooleseck, Snohomish and Snoqualmie rivers in Washington. This plan of improvement calls for the removing of obstructions.

Of $75,000 appropriated all but $2304 has been used. An appropriation of $30,000 is asked for next ygar.

The entrance to Coos bay Oregon. This plan of improvement provides for the removing of obstructions and by erecting a wood and stone jetty to keep accretions from entering.

The work was begun in 1879, when it was believed that it could be finished for $100,000. To-day the appropriations amount to $213,751, of which all but $3412 has been used and satisfactory results received. It is now proposed to not further extend this jetty, but that two jetties be made, one from Coos Head and one from the southern end of the north spit, out toward the bar, ending at a distance of 1500 feet. The estimated cost of the plan is $2,466,412.

It is recommended that $750,000 be appropriated for the next fiscal year to be used on the new plan. In regard to arresting and controlling the movement of the sand by wind, it is estimated that this can be done at a cost of $500 per acre by sowing with seed, and that if this is done 3000 acres would have to be reclaimed to prevent the sand from drifting into the harbor.
