ALBANY WOOLEN MILLS.

What They are Doing And How They are Doing It.

To the Editor of the Herald: Your correspondent had the pleasure of conversing with J. W. Moyer, president of the Albany Woolen Mill Co. who is now established on First street, Portland, Or., at whole sale and retail, of the goods manufactured here in Albany, which speaks so much for the reputation of the mill that we are constrained to give it to the public. There has been such a demand, and the demand has increased that they are compelled to place a salesman on the road. They are now receiving orders for Albany manufactured goods from St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, and already having received the second orders from some of these houses since their salesman arrived in the city. Mr. Moyer related their plans and prospected success he became very enthusiastic for the future welfare of the Albany mills and the city of Albany.

A Grand Scheme. The Salem Journal says that the Oregon Pacific Railroad company could increase its revenues and at the same time provide a convenient means of pleasure and recreation to many people of the valley, by putting on a special train from Albany east to the mountains every Saturday evening and back Monday morning. As now arranged, a person going by train to the upper Santiam country has to stay in Albany over night, and cannot go up the O. P. at all times of the day. Hundreds would avail themselves of a weekly chance such as above suggested are now deterred from so doing. There are large numbers of Salem people, and presumably of other towns, who cannot afford the time to go for a week or two to the mountains, who would like to go occasionally during the summer if they could do so in the manner suggested.

Last Night's Theatre. The Chicago Comedy Company last night produced "The Hidden Hand" to a rarer larger house than usual, and was greeted with immense applause. The parts were well sustained and the audience well pleased. This afternoon they give a matinee and to-night their closing performance. They have given satisfaction throughout the week and will be greeted with a large gathering for their closing piece.

Caplatzi retiring, and John J. Pepin remaining and conducting the business, collecting all bills due the late firm and assuming all liabilities.

Dated July 17, 1890. L. J. CAPLATZI, JOHN J. PEPIN.

To The Assailant. The Salem Journal says: Officers Minto and Duley last night arrested an old gentleman who might have been seen around the streets during the day, barely able to proceed with the aid of a cane. It was late and his peculiar actions caused the police to consider him under the influence of liquor, so they locked him up for the night, but his condition this morning had not changed, so they concluded he was out of his head and had him taken before County Judge Waldo for examination, which was conducted by Drs. Cusick and J. N. Smith, in presence of Dist. Atty. Bingham. All were convinced that he is demented and accordingly he was committed to the asylum and taken there by Deputy Wrightman. His name is Israel A. Gray, aged 55 years, residence Brownsville and has a relative, James Gray, at Albany. His mental ailment is said to be the result of irregular life and disipation in the past. He has a defective memory and can give no accurate account of himself. He is also paralyzed physically.

COAST NOTES.

The Klamath county Star says that what is looking well. In Lake county the weather has been cool and windy for the past week.

Bob Dowson killed a 250 pound Chinaman bear on Cherry creek, Klamath county, last week.

A sheep herder who has been working for Abbot & Long, was found dead in his cabin on the head of Susan river in Southern Oregon last week. It is thought he had been murdered, as his throat was cut.

Grant county news: A large bear entered the sheep camp of Kenneth M. Rae lately and grabbed one of the sleeping herders by the shoulder and unceremoniously yanked him out of his blankets. The aroused man yelled so terrifically that the bear beat a hasty retreat. The man's shoulder was bitten quite severely.

Three prisoners escaped from the Grant county jail last week. Two were confined for the Orthodox crime of horse stealing, and one for the bit of irregularity of trying to kill a neighbor's family. The prisoners made a key out of a knife. They took a couple of pistols belonging to the deputy sheriff.

Church Notice. Preaching services to-morrow at the Presbyterian church at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Sabbath school at 12:15 p. m. Young people's prayer meeting in the lecture room at 7 o'clock. Subject of the morning sermon, "The Cause and Cure of Worry." The topic of the evening discourse, "The Right Use of Pleasures." All will be made welcome.

A Fine Plaything for the Children. A Dalles paper has the following: Edward Rogers and Milner McLean, who live on a ranch five miles from O., went out on a hunt a few days ago. They speared a large coon, fully seven feet long, sticking its head above a log. McLean fired and killed it. It had no sooner fallen, however, than another sprang up, which was killed also. The men then went to the place where the animals fell, and found four young coons and tried to catch them alive, but all got away but one. The other three were shot. The coon killed is now on the ranch and is quite playful, and a favorite with the children.

Dam Completed. The floods last spring took out the dam across the Santiam river, that turns the water into the Albany and Santiam canals, and a force of men have been at work replacing it and will have it completed to-day. The dam is about 150 feet long and required considerable work. Another one across a slough is still to be tended to.

What Advertising Costs. A single page in an issue of the Herald, taken for advertising purposes, cost $500, and in Harper's $400. A yearly advertisement in one column of the Chicago Tribune cost $26554 for the lowest and $130,000 for the highest priced columns. These figures would doubtless be of interesting to men who invest $2 or $3 and flatter themselves with the idea that they are extensive advertisers, and also to those who so frequently ask why country papers cannot be printed as cheap as city papers.

State Lecturer. It is said that among the changes made by the grand lodge of United Workmen was the creation of the office of state lecturer, whose duty it shall be to travel throughout the jurisdiction, hold meetings, deliver lectures, elucidate the aims and benefits of the order, organize new lodges, and attend to all such work. His salary is to be $1000 a year and 50 per cent. of the fees collected for establishing new lodges. The first lecturer has not been announced yet, but applications will be received by Judge Daley, Master Workmen, and executive council until August 15, when the appointment will be made.

Play Last Evening. Last evening a good sized audience was present to witness the presentation of the "Black Diamonds" as played by the Chicago Comedy Co. Jas. A. Devlin as "Banty Bob" the faithful fireman, kept the house in roars of laughter all the evening. Belle Inman in the character of "Diana Daychink" played her part admirably, as did also Miss Howard as "Pauline." Val. E. Love, as "Bernard" McTurk, the friend of the hard working, trodden down working-man, did a very clever piece of character acting. The balance of the support were up in their standard excellence. To-night will be presented the five act comedy-drama, entitled "The Hidden Hand."

FINE DRESSED CHICKENS AND GEESSE.—AT—MUELLER & GARRETT'S.

Found a Ring in a Fish.

George Bowman a young fisherman who went angling along the Umatilla Tuesday, landed a trout about in length. He carried it home in triumph, and while dressing his trout for breakfast, discovered a plain gold ring, with the initials "I. V." on the inside, imbedded in its anatomy. The ring had evidently been accidentally dropped into the river, and swallowed by the trout through the natural mistake that it was a new variety of the insect family. This is no fish lie; it is the earnest, sober truth.—E. O.

Four Little Jack Horners. The Baker City Review says that Dr. J. W. Strange, supervisor of census for the second district of Oregon, last Tuesday, announced the approximated population of the four leading cities of eastern Oregon as follows: The Dalles 5000, Pendleton 2800, Baker City and LaGrande, each 2,500. These figures are not up to what was expected by some and not what was expected by the supervisor himself, but work is generally conceded to have been well done by the various enumerators. To say that the people of Baker City were surprised by the figures representing her population, would be stating it mildly, but if a re-count was deemed advisable, the next question would be, "Where can we find a more careful or capable man than Mr. J. F. B. as our duly appointed enumerator?" The answer has resided in our city until this streets, alleys, additions and people are as an open book to him; a man that was never known to shirk a responsibility, he has been unremitting in his devotion to the duty imposed on him, and it does seem impossible that he could have overlooked 2000 names, to say nothing of the 2000 more which many believed would be the correct estimate of our population. We are not alone. Pendleton's upper lip show no traces of starch. LaGrande's men, leg in nervous twitching and The Dalles is yet to be heard from. One gleam of consolation alone is visible, we can truthfully say there is not half as much swearing over the result as we thought there would be, we haven't got the people to do it.
