TACOMA, Wash., July 28.—Two of Tacoma's industries are a mass of ruins. At 2:30 o'clock this morning flames were discovered issuing from C. M. Johnson's mill and door mill, at Twenty-fifth and East D streets. The entire fire department responded to the alarm. The flames ate with rapidity the inflammable material which was stored there and soon spread to the mill of Snyder & Stevens, south. The firemen played on the flames with no avail and the slight structure was soon in ruins. Several times Mount Tacoma mill, owned by Deir & Co., it was thought would become a victim, and the firemen were directed principally to saving this property. Sparks from Johnson's mill severed all lines leading to the house of the Snyder & Stevens mill, but these were extinguished before much damage was done.

Johnson's mill employed 100 hands, who will be thrown out of employment. Johnson places his loss at $40,000 on stock and $35,000 on plant, which is partially covered by insurance.

It has not had in any of the departments the official facilities that have been doing in California every year or two were looked over, and I returned with recommendations for increased allowances for nearly all of them, and some of these have already been granted. The department is anxious to try and keep up with that country, in its population growth and increase in population and business development. The states of the Pacific slope are simply wonderful."
