ENGLISH VIEWS.

THE London press is somewhat divided in opinion as to the Behring sea correspondence. The telegram regrets the asperity of Blaine's tone, and says that England is strong enough to be calm and courageous, and sufficiently Blaine's petulance. The Times realize if it is given to him in the says: 'The correspondence leaves other world to take a look at block, rooms No. 1 and notary public. Office in the Straha the matter worse. Under the chings as he left them. It may be what is called a chivalrous act, but it placed the woman whom he courted the state, and give special attention to all have become more exacting and was to wed in almost as bad a bus have advanced in irreconcilable position as though he had fled to WOLVERTON CHARLESE. The Times ought to know, if it does not, that the charge of the party pressure is wholly without foundation. The present policy of the United States with regard at this office. to Behring sea was initiated by a democrat administration, and President Harrison and Secretary Blaine have done no more than to Albany pursue the course mapped out by President Cleveland and Secretary shoulder, weighing 850 points, 9 years and The question is a national warded. The representatives of England seem mere babies in the hand of Mr. Blaine. It is obvious that Lord Salisbury at an earlier period of the discussion became sensible of his inferiority in dialectic skill to his opponent, lost his temper and deliberately insulted Blaine by declaring that he conducted the negotiations in the interests of his party, and not in the interests of his country. Whatever Blaine's HINE CIGARS-IMPORTED, ARY WEST object may be, however, it does not alter the fact that no claim. Russian or American, or no admission of John Quincy Adams, can convert the vast open sea into a mare clausum."

Inasmuch as no claim has ever been made that Behring sea was s closed ses, in the strict sense of the term, the London press is wast- MONEY TO LOAN-HOME CAPITAL ON yood real estate security. For particular ing its thunder. The most that the United States has asserted is its right to forbid the taking of fish and seals in the waters of Alaska, and it has only enforced its proclamation in the eastern half of Behring sea, as Russia has done for years and is still doing on the western half. The question is an open one, but pending its settle ment the United States purposes maintaining the position, and that is the whole gist of Blaine's letters to Lord Salisbury.

Mrs. Frank Leslie and her refusal to marry a European so-called nobleman, have been given considerable prominence of late. The claim is made that she promised to marry and then went back on her promise. If she did it was probably the wisest course she ever pursued, for the Marquis De Louville, who has been striving to marry her will ye or ail ye, is said to be almost non-composmentis, as well as being a nobleman. Mrs. Leslie better by far pick up for a husband some rustling American, even if he does not have a superfluous handle to his name.

THE peculiarities of the public appreciation of value in literary endeavor, is pretty well illustrated in the demand for two little treatises issued by the New York 4: Tribune. It will be remembered that the Tribune published an article written by Mr. Carnegie, the great iron manufacturer, in which the writer made the assertion that very few college graduates to the tribune published an article written by Mr. Carnegie, in which the writer made the assertion that very few college graduates to the tribune of the trib successful business men.

Morning Daily Levald The college professors replied with a collated mass of evidence to prove to the contrary, and the Tribune published both articles in pamphlet form offering them M. H.
