THAT IRRIGATION QUESTION

The matter of storage reservoirs to gather the superabundant moisture during the rainy season, and distribute it over the region of arid lands for irrigation purposes during the dry season is one that has engaged the attention of the public to a large degree, and the action of congress in the matter has been accepted with approval, for it was looked upon as being sure to lead to the desired result.

When congress made the appropriations to commence the work, the people generally approved. Even when Major Powell's suggestion to remove the arid lands from the settlement made, there was no real objection raised, as it was supposed that such an action would be needful for the entire success of the work. When, however, it is apparent that the market was only a subterfuge, and blood. the real object in so doing was to get them in shape so that speculators could gobble them up as their becoming valuable, it puts an entirely different aspect upon the subject.

In commenting upon this matter and the opposition to the exempton clause by Senator Stewart Alb the democratic Alta says: "Senator Stewart inaugurated the irri-gation policy. He gave to it that gation policy. He gave to it that he has always devoted to his Senatoral duties. He and other Western Senators secured an ap- L setter. Answers to name of Ponto, Repropriation for an examination and survey of the watersheds and This appropriation was made in the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, which passed October 2, 1888.

While that bill was in the hands of a conference committee a provision was inserted withdrawing from market and reserving all reservoir sites and all larits that could be irrigated by the construction of reservoirs. Senat r Dolph of Oregon says that it is believed was drafted by Major Powell and inserted at his instance. Senator Dolph says that neither the land commissioner nor the secretary of the interior was consulted about this extraordinary legislation in an appropriation bill, nor did the public land committees of the house and senate know of it. For town purposes tand Company's office. Dolph, himself a member of the Senate Land Committee and chairman of the sub-committee on changes in the land laws, did not know of this change and its scope until within three months.

As construed by the Attorney-General and secretary of the in-terior, and no doubt correctly, the remedy for you. For sale by Foshay & this legislation will withdraw from entry all land in the arid region. The lands which are arable without irrigation cannot be segregated from the arid lands without the survey contemplated by the law, therefore all the land laws are suspended. The region covered by this covert legislation, as marked out by Major Powell himself, is bounded on the north by the Dominion of Canada, on the south by Mexico, on the east by a line drawn through the middle of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Texas, on the west by the Cascade mountains, through Washington and Oregon, the Sierra Nevadas in Upper Calitornia to the latitude of Santa Cruz, and thence south to the Pacific Ocean. It will be seen then, that Major Powell, by a few lines in an appropriation bill, as to which he consulted no member of the cabinet, no one in the General Land Office, and probably no member of the land committees, suspended the operation of all the area equal to two fifths of the kinds, and cannot be sold in competi and laws of the country over an domain of the United States!"

Probably the remarks are in the main correct. There is certainly no adequate reason for retainly no adequate reason for re-

Morning Daily Licrald moving from homestead and preemption any part of the lands, excepting such portions as are actu ally needed for the reservoirs themselves, and later attempted legislation plainly indicates that speculation is the foundation of the exemption. The public lands should be reserved for actual settlers and not be in any manner subject to speculative absorption.

AMERICANS complained of many of the questions asked by the census enumerators this year, but in Germany the people submit to far more rigid scrutiny of their domestic affairs without a murmur. 12:30 r. w.
