ON SALE. The DAILY HERALD will be on sale each morning at H. J. Jones' book store, where it can be procured at 5 cents per copy.

NOTICES ABOUT TOWN.

Jay W. Blain went to Newport yesterday. Quench your thirst at the new soda fountain.

Frank O. Dorris left Sunday for Helena, Montana. Judge L. F. Finn and family went to Yaquna yesterday.

W. A. Cox and family leave to night for San Francisco. A full line of goods for sale at Cumming's drug store.

Miners: go to F. M. French's for your magnifying glasses. The new Methodist church at Tangent is nearly completed.

Rev. G. W. Gibony and wife, of Lebanon, are visiting in this city. The ravine on First street, near the iron works, has been filled up and the bridge taken out.

Dr. Worthington, of Portland, is visiting his classmate Dr. J. J. McLean near this city, and the two will shortly take a trip to the east.

An altercation between young McCormack and a man named West at Sheild on Sunday evening was of considerable severity for only a fist encounter. West was the aggressive party.

Bishop Hendrix and Dr. Morris of the M. E. Church, south of the Albany on today's Tuesday train and will preach at the St. Paul M. E. Church South to-night at 7:30 p. m. Everybody invited.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which cause burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

The motor for the new electric motor line from Independence to Monmouth arrived in Portland on Saturday, and was forwarded to Independence. Everything was in readiness for operation as soon as it reached its destination.

T. L. Wallace and William Cowan will have the room in Strahan's block, now occupied as a saloon, remodeled and refitted, and open up a clothing, furnishing, and boot and shoe house. They will make a solid and popular business firm.

Hon. John Minto, of Salem, was cutting a limb off a tree a few days ago, standing on a log between four and five feet from the ground, when he lost his balance and fell backward, striking his side on a stick, getting a painful hurt, from which he has been suffering since.

Take the Union Pacific railway for the East, thirty-five hours quicker than any other transcontinental line. Elegant new dining cars, Pullman palace sleepers, free family sleeping cars run through to Denver, Omaha, Council Bluffs, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago. C. G. Rawlings, city ticket agent, foot of Broadalbin street.

The La Grande Gazette publishes this item, which is of especial interest to surgeons: "Some two months ago John Mummev had his hand sawed off below the wrist, which hung only by a shred of flesh. The attending physicians desired to cut it off, but Mummev insisted that it be replaced and dressed as good as possible. Now the severed member has grown together and can be moved slowly."

At Pendleton a man named Dearborn has been intoxicated for the past several days while his wife is lying, apparently, at the point of death. It is stated that he attempted to commit suicide Thursday night by cutting his throat with a razor, and was barely prevented by his wife, who sprang from bed and reached his side in time to stay his hand. The case has attracted the attention of several ladies, who talk of prosecuting saloon-keepers who have given Dearborn liquor.

The Ochoco Review mentions the following past and present Linn county people: George Jones and family left yesterday morning for Harriaburg. They will be gone about three weeks. Oliver Hyde and Harvey Sommerville, of Harriaburg, were in town last Tuesday on their way to John Day. Mr. Hyde intends closing out his stock business on the John Day this summer, having gone into business in Harriaburg. Jasper Guilliford and family arrived here from Halsey last Tuesday, and are visiting relatives and old friends in this locality.

Daniel Ross, who is engaged in logging on Gray's river, lost four head of fine work cattle while "smoking" logs down to the river. He had hitched his team to a big pine log on a steep side hill. It started all right, but went down so fast that the oxen could not keep out of the way of it, and four of them were so badly injured that they had to be killed. Such accidents are not unusual, and in many logging camps horses have been substituted, as they are quicker and surer on their feet, and better able to keep out of the way of the logs.

C. A. Wallace, of McMinnville, was awakened from his slumbers one night last week to find the room in which he and Mrs. Wallace slept heavy with the odor of chloroform. It had rendered him deathly sick, but he collected his senses and revolver as soon as possible and made an examination of the house, expecting to find a wild and woolly burglar. There was no evidence of any one having entered, even the mosquito bar over the window of the sleeping room being unbroken, indicating that the would-be robber had injected the drug by aid of a syringe.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Pete Montgomery Shot and Seriously, if Not Fatally, Wounded.

A very serious shooting affray occurred at the brick yard below this city Sunday afternoon about 1 o'clock, the particulars of which are very hard to ascertain, owing to conflicting stories.

Pete Montgomery, a young man well known in this city, and William Underwood, who came to Albany recently from California, both of whom were employed in W. C. Cassell's brick yard, came to this city in a hack Sunday forenoon and remained until about 11 o'clock. When they started back they were accompanied by a lady, and Underwood, who was intoxicated, commenced throwing sticks and rocks at the horses, causing them to turn and frightening the lady. Montgomery remonstrated with him, when he became angry and used language more forcible than polite. About this time Henry Boggs, who is also an employee of the brick yard, came up on horseback and induced Underwood to get on the horse and he, Boggs, rode in the hack the remainder of the way.

On arriving at the brick yard they had some words, and Montgomery told Underwood to go away and leave him alone. Underwood did not want anything to do with him, referring to Underwood an epithet often used. Montgomery then went in a tent and laid down, and Underwood, whose wrath by this time had reached a high scale, tore the tent down on Montgomery, who scrambled out and the quarrel was renewed.

Later Montgomery went into another tent and again laid down, and Underwood remained outside. He had in the meantime procured a revolver some place and flourished it around and fired several shots in the air, and no one dared try to disarm him. He went in the tent and immediately thereafter a shot was heard and Underwood emerged from the tent. The men who were near rushed in and found Montgomery with a bullet hole in his left breast near the shoulder, striking a bone and ranging in toward the lungs, where it has lodged the bullet has lodged, although it has not yet been found.

Montgomery says that when Underwood came in and says, "you fired, just as he," Montgomery was rising up. Underwood took to the woods, and although officers hunted for him he has not as yet been found. Underwood is described as being 28 years of age, hair light, and very thin; bald on back part of head; sandy moustache; five feet ten inches high, and weighs about 155 pounds. He wore grey checked clothes and a new pair of shoes, number 6 1/2.

Last evening Montgomery was resting as easy as could be expected, and will probably recover.

Important Appointment.

State Superintendent E. B. McElroy has received the appointment by the executive committee and president of the National Teachers' association, as one of the six commissioners of the United States in the educational department of the World's Fair in 1892 at Chicago. This is a great honor to Mr. McElroy and to Oregon, as he is intended to represent the whole Pacific slope west of the Rocky mountains, and it illustrates what can be accomplished by earnest and faithful work.

Superintendent McElroy has succeeded in bringing the educational work of this state into prominence before the whole country, until we are no longer an unknown geographical quantity. The five other commissioners are divided as follows: One for New England, one for the Middle States, two for the Mississippi valley and one for the South and Southwest. Owing to the multiplicity of duties before him in the state, Mr. McElroy is undecided whether to accept the honor, knowing the great labor involved and its importance. This nation, with its grand and magnificent natural free school system, will naturally take the front rank among the nations of the earth in an educational exhibit, and Oregon must not behind her sister states in this line, nor should any part of the Pacific Northwest, hence the labor necessary from the man who undertakes to see that this vast territory is properly represented.

Mr. J. J. Henderson, who is the largest wheat grower in Yamhill county, his acreage being between five and six hundred, has completed threshing the crop. The result is an average yield of 38 bushels per acre, machine measure. For so great an acreage this is an excellent yield, and at the present ruling prices for wheat it will easily be seen that Mr. Henderson has made money raising wheat. A fact that will be of interest to other farmers in connection with his operation, is the result from a portion of the field on which he had experimented by sowing only a half a bushel of seed per acre. The exact yield is not given, but we understand it was over forty bushels. It is one of Mr. Henderson's favorite hobbies that a great deal of good wheat is sowed in—owing to the dearth of the crop.—McMinnville Reporter.

The Albany & Astoria Railroad.

If, as it is reported, John L. Blair and his associates are behind the Albany & Astoria railroad, the survey of which is just being finished, the assurance of Mr. Barr, the engineer in charge of the survey, that the work of grading will be commenced this year, may be verified shortly by actual operations. Mr. Blair and his associates are large bondholders and stockholders of the Oregon Pacific.—Salem Statesman.

FOR THE WILLAMETTE VALLEY.

Our Interests and Portland's Interests Lie In Working For It.

The Portland Oregonian evidently for some reason unknown to us, and has been for several years last past, very sparing of stating anything in its columns relative to the great natural advantages of Linn county and the growing city of Albany. A particular point, in instance, is the Oregonian's write up concerning the trip of the Omaha party to this city last Saturday. In response to earnest telegrams from Mr. T. F. Osborn, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade of this city prepared a splendid exhibit of fruits, cereals and minerals—products of Linn county—for the purpose of showing the Omaha gentlemen the great agricultural and mineral resources of our county, and to further show our hearty co-operation with Portland in making her guests, for the day, the better enjoy themselves, presented them with a substantial token in the way of free, luscious peaches and grapes, watermelons, and pineapples, etc. In fact our Board of Trade as representing Albany, showed every courtesy to the party, and to the distinguished visitors during their very short sojourn here, indeed, offering to drive them over our beautiful city, if they would remain. The party, including the Portland delegates, were highly pleased with the attractive display and cordial, friendly greeting given them here by Albany's friends. But the main reason for the Oregonian in giving an account of the affair to use the following expression concerning the day's doings as follows:—

we quote from the Oregonian of August 17th: "Owing to the San Francisco express having been delayed, the train got behind time, and so a very brief stop was made at Salem, and fast time was made from there to where dinner was furnished. The party was then invited to inspect a fine display of grain, fruits, melons, etc., placed on tables on the platform, and after the display had been minutely examined it was passed into the car to the great delight of the visitors." Now what some members of our Board of Trade think is this, the mention in the Oregonian of the display of our citizens here for the benefit of the visitors is entirely satisfactory, but that evident studied omission of the name of our enterprising city—Albany—from the columns of the Oregonian is something so very small on the part of a great newspaper, heretofore supposed to be, as it should be, wholly impartial, that it is only accountable on the ground that the Oregonian is endeavoring to keep Albany and her great advantages in the background, or is more especially interested in booming the "Sound country" whose alleged superiority merits she seems ever willing to extol.

What the Board of Trade here desire is for Oregon's great daily to say more for the Willamette Valley and its flourishing cities, and the fine farming lands and gold and silver mines of Linn county, and by so doing build up cities and counties within the confines of our own state.

The Willamette Valley with its grains and fruits, and its bordering mountains rich in gold and silver need only the enterprise and capital of the Eastern states to make the valley greater than the Sound, or any other spot on the Pacific Coast, as we have every thing here right at our doors, to make the happiest of homes, the greatest of cities, and the most valuable of gold and silver mines.

Will the Oregonian join us as it should do in influencing its wholesale merchants, real estate men, and citizens generally, to favor the tide of immigration up the Willamette Valley instead of to the Sound country, and aid in building up a country here that Portland's great business enterprises can always look to for patronage, and that the Oregonian in further refusing to voluntarily recognize the just merits of this great valley, add to that antagonism which it says exists in many cities of the state towards Portland. There is no antagonism here against Portland, but there is a feeling that the Oregonian could aid greatly towards making the valley what it should be, the garden spot of the world, and in the opinion of many it is standing in its own light in not fully and on every occasion showing our great natural superiority in climate and agricultural resources over every other section of the Pacific Coast.

Meeting of Stockholders.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Gold Mountain and Dry Gulch Consolidated Gold and Silver Mining Company was held at the company's office in Salem Saturday, when the following directors were elected: R. B. Cannon, Salem; F. E. Allen, Albany; Amos Strong, Salem; J. M. Frazer, Portland, and Don Smith, Gatesville. The directors met and elected the following officers: R. B. Cannon, president; F. E. Allen, vice-president; Claude Gatch, treasurer; Seth R. Hammer, secretary. The company proposes to make a strong and determined effort to get water onto their placer claims, which they think are undoubtedly enormously rich. Experts believe the output of the mines will be, when properly worked, from ten to fifteen millions.

THE CORDAY-WASS CO.

In "Divorce" at the Albany Opera House Last Night.

Following is the cast of characters: Florence Grantley, Miss Essie Tittell; Blanch Sterling, Miss Eva French; Sally Ann Waddles, Miss Minnie Tittell; Miss Harriaburg, Miss Margaret Marshall; Harry Grantley, Mr. R. E. French; M. T. Muggs, Mr. George Berry; James Gordon, Mr. R. Bronson; Jessop, a lawyer, Mr. David Elmer; Dr. Hazel, Mr. Ed. Felt; Uncle Burdette, Mr. Phil Ray.

The Corday-Wass Dramatic Co. direct from their home base, the Board of Trade of this city, opened last night in "Divorce" to a large and appreciative audience. The company is composed of players of unusual excellence and the piece was presented in a metropolitan manner that would do justice to San Francisco or Chicago. It is very seldom that Albany is favored with a company near its equal.

Managers Corday and Wass are to be congratulated on their success and business enterprise. Mr. Fred Hewitt, formerly with the Haverly-Cleveland Mastodon mine, accompanies the organization representing Messrs. Corday and Wass' amusement enterprises. To-morrow evening will be given the sensational drama, "The Danites."

DIED.

On the 17th instant, in this city, Mr. E. B. Purdon, aged 71 years, 9 months and 17 days.

Mr. Purdon was born in Kentucky on the 30th of October, 1818. He was married on the 31st of October, 1841, in Keosauqua, Van Buren county, Iowa, to Miss Susan Hannan. In the spring of 1851 Mr. Purdon went overland to California and engaged in mining, but returned in 1851. In the spring of 1853 they moved from Iowa to Westport, Missouri. In 1854, at the early settlement of Kansas, they moved there and were among the early settlers. There, during 1856 and 1857, they experienced great hardships during those trying times of border ruffianism. An assault was made upon his life, which proved nearly fatal, and occasioned him much suffering during his whole life. The mob plundered his merchandise, their home was lost then and they left without a change of clothing. In May, 1859, they left for Oregon, arriving on the 14th of September about six miles south of this city. In 1860 they moved to this city, where he engaged in a tinshop and store in company with M. W. Mack. In their present residence they resided continuously 30 years. Five sons and three daughters were born unto them, one daughter and a son having died in Iowa, one in Oregon, leaving four sons to mourn their loss, with his deeply affected companion. In 1855 he espoused the cause of Christ. In February, 1871, together with his companion, he united with the Evangelical church, where he served actively and faithfully in almost unbroken succession to his end. He was prominent in his views and firm in his Christian integrity. A true reverse, sufferings and trials he was to the last resigned to the will of God and joyful in hope and died in triumph. His end was peace. The funeral services were conducted at the residence by Rev. J. Bowersox, assisted by Dr. S. G. Irvine. The family received the aid of many friends and neighbors for their kindly assistance in caring for husband and father during his late illness and after his demise, their most hearty thanks.

On Saturday, at his home near Waterloo, Elijah Saltmarsh passed away, being about 80 years of age. He was one of the early pioneers and a much respected citizen. The funeral was attended on Sunday and the remains interred in the cemetery near Waterloo.

At Chemawa.

Dr. D. Dorchester, of the Indian school department at Washington, D. C., accompanied by his wife, and the assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, R. V. Belt, of the same city, arrived in Salem yesterday from the south, and were met at the depot by G. M. Irwin, superintendent of the school at Chemawa, and conveyed to that place by carriage. The doctor and wife are on a tour of investigation of some of the schools on this coast, and Mr. Belt will accompany them. They were joined at Albany by O. C. McFarland, who was the teacher at Klamath reservation for four years—Statesman.

A Miraculous Escape.

Friday evening when the special train bearing the officials of the Southern Pacific railroad was about three miles south of this city it ran into and completely wrecked a hand car belonging to Section Seven Robinson. In addition to the section boss, the passengers on the hand car were Mrs. Peter Ryan, Mr. Spaght and two Chinamen. They all escaped unharmed, except Mrs. Ryan, and she was thought at the time to be hurt only slightly, and walked to Tangent, a distance of three miles. She has since been growing worse, and is probably injured internally.

Messrs. R. W. Whitney and L. Solomon, representing the San Francisco Examiner, have been in the city several days in the interests of that paper.

Take the Northern Pacific Railroad to all points East, shortest time of any road East. No change of cars, best accommodation and the most pleasant route to and from the coast, and over this road to any and all points east at the lowest rates by Burkhardt & Keene who are the authorized agents of this company at Albany. Call on them for tickets and full particulars.
