A Bold Attempt to Wreck the Oregon Express.

NEWS EAST OF THE ROCKIES,

A Startling Story of a Woman Who Claimed to Have Killed Judge Steiner in Defense of Her Honor

SACRAMENTO, August 30.—A [illegible] attempt was made last night to wreck the Oregon express train known as No. 16. It was due to arrive here from the north at 3:4[illegible] [illegible]. At Copeland station just to the north of Vina in Tehama county, the train was moving along at a good rate when a switch leading off to a siding was encountered. The switch was set properly, and the train would have passed the point safely had not an obstruction been placed on the track in the shape of an iron frame, a part of an appliance known as a "frog." The engine struck this and immediately left the track, going over on its side. The rails turned under the baggage car which was also ditched. Happily no one was injured beyond some surface bruises and shaking up. The train was carrying a full load of passengers, most of whom were asleep at the time. There is little doubt but the obstruction was placed on the track with the design to wreck the train. A wrecking train was sent out from here this morning and dispatched to the scene of the derailment. A temporary track was laid around the wreck. Several attempts of a similar diabolical nature have been made to wreck the Oregon express heretofore, but happily without success.

WALLA WALLA NEWS.

A Woman's Spine Broken—A Hotel Keeper Skips Out.

WALLA WALLA, August 30.—Mrs. Leonard Sexton, living six miles south of this city, was fatally hurt last night while driving home from a neighbors. Her horse reared and pitched and she was thrown out, striking on her head and back, fracturing the skull and dislocation the spine. She was picked up insensible and is still unconscious with no hope of recovery.

J. H. Bentley, proprietor of the Stine House, the principal hotel has skipped out, leaving debts to the amount of $6000. Bentley has been here a year and lived a loose life. It is thought that Bentley took $5000 with him. He has gone to his former home in Kansas.

A TWO SIDED STORY.

The Sensational Murder of a Judge by a Woman.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., August 30.—The brief announcement of the murder of Max Steiner, district judge of Hidalgo county circuit [illegible], was contained in messages on August 19. He was shot by the wife of Ex-Judge H. T. McCabe, a bitter political enemy at Remosa Mexico, and no reasonable motive could be ascribed till yesterday, when the following affecting appeal was received:

Remosa, Mexico, August 20.—To the American people: For two months I have been in my bed disabled from a gun-shot wound in the foot. During all this time my wife, Maud Inez, who is but 18 years old, almost from day to day has been followed up and insulted by one Max Steiner. He has even followed her with armed men, has questioned her virtue and wrote letters to the sheriff of Karnes county, in which he expressed the belief that I was not married to her. She was brought to bed and confined prematurely and our babe was lost, all through the unheard of terrible slurs and slanders cast upon her by this same Steiner, and defending that most dear to woman, her virtue, she shot him through the heart. The shooting occurred in Remosa, Tamaulipas, Mexico, on the 17th inst. She is my wife, and is now in jail at this place. We are indeed in need of much financial aid. Gentlemen of America, can you help my wife, now in her sad plight. Do it by voluntary contributions, in the name of woman's sanctification and virtue. Send any amount that may be raised to either Albert Dean, of Hidalgo, Texas; R H. Bentfro, of Brownsville; or Don Juan Dominguz, of this place, who compose a committee to receive whatever is given to defend my wife. Yours truly,

T. MCCABE.

ANOTHER VERSION.

The shooting occurred at Remosa, where an excursion party from Matamoras were attending a fair. After the evening performance at the theatre Judge Steiner, accompanied by his wife and daughter, entered the booth for refreshments. The ladies had taken seats at the table and Judge Steiner was about to sit down, when Mrs. McCabe rushed up to them, her long, black hair streaming in the air. She seized the judge by the arm, held a pistol to his breast and fired. The man fell dead at her feet. Mrs. Steiner sprang up and was felled to the ground by a blow with the pistol. The murderess, who is described as a beautiful woman, also knocked the chief of police down with her revolver and held a policeman at bay with the same weapon until she was disarmed and pinioned by a squad of soldiers.

Mrs. McCabe's husband, who held the position of county judge, of Karnes county, Texas, for which he was ineligible, was recently unseated, his successor being Judge Steiner. McCabe and a number of friends endeavored to forcibly capture the court house, but failing fled to Mexico, where he has since resided. Mrs. McCabe had sworn vengeance against Steiner.

OREGON CROPS.

Excellent Reports Continue from All over the State.

PORTLAND August 30—The Oregon weather bureau telegraphed the following to the chief signal officer at Washington, D. C., relative to crops during the last week: Harvesting and threshing is nearly over; prune crop very large, drying is now in progress; hop picking will begin next week. Excellent reports from wheat, oats and barley yields continue and crops this year will eclipse former years as to quality and in many sections as to quantity.

THE OLD WOUND STILL OPEN.

Confederate Veterans Will Not Join With the Blue and Gray.

NEW YORK, August 30.—A special from Richmond, Va., says: At a meeting of Lee camp, Confederate veterans, Quartermaster Brown suggested that the camp appoint a commission to see if it was advisable for them to attend the Blue and Gray celebration in Knoxville. General John R. Cook called attention to the fact that the G. A. R. in national convention in Boston had passed a resolution urging the passage by congress of a law prohibiting the display of any flag other that the stars and stripes, and he intimated that the ex-Confederate veterans would feel very much out of place celebrating with men, who had such venom in their hearts toward those who had opposed them in war. He said Lee camp should by all means oppose such proposition until an invitation was extended and then the matter could be more fully discussed. Major Archer declared that he was as good an American as any man in the country when he was in Confederate service. He still loved the stars and stripes, but before he would cease to love the Confederate flag or to venerate Lee and Jackson, he would be willing to take up his gun again. The quartermaster's motion was almost unanimously defeated.

Salvator's Narrow Escape.

LONG BRANCH, August 30—Shortly after noon yesterday a fire destroyed the stables at the old Monmouth Park race track. The old grand stand, old club house and superintendent's office were also burned. Twelve mules and one horse were also lost in the [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] Loss about [illegible]000.

Gen. Gibbon Goes to 'Frisco.

VANCOUVER, August 30.—Gen Gibbon [illegible] by one of his aides, [illegible] left here [illegible] for San Francisco [illegible] the division [illegible] the department staff will remain here and [illegible] probably of another brigadier being assigned to the department of the Columbia.

A Fatal Quarrel.

EUREKA, Cal., August 30.—Nelson W. Greenman and Frank Sissell, the latter an Austrian, had a quarrel this morning, during which Greenman was struck with a piece of iron. Sometime afterwards Greenman got his revolver and renewed the fight, firing three shots at Sissell. All took effect. Sissell died in a few minutes and Greenman was arrested.

The Cruiser Charleston.

SEATTLE, August 30. — The cruiser Charleston left this afternoon for Port Townsend. There her men will engage in drills and target practice till further orders are received.

In an Awkward Predicament.

From the Boston Journal.

Last week two of Dedham's most popular young men hired a horse and carriage and drove up the Charles River to a well-known place on the banks much resorted to for bathing purposes. Undressing they carefully deposited their clothing in the carriage and together made a dash for the cooling waves. Each instructed the other to hitch the horse, and as a result neither did so. Once in the water the splashing frightened the animal, and away he dashed down the highway leading to Dedham Village. This runaway left the bathers in a peculiar predicament, and one of much embarrassment. They, however, soon recovered from the shock and started after their vanishidg team and garments. The sprinting contest lasted from Jenny's Dane, "Spider Village," up to a point near Cart Bridge, where they overhauled their steed, stopped him, and grabbing their suits jumped into them.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

An Effort in the Senate to Place Wool on the Free List

FELL FROM A BALLOON.

Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson Completes the Work of His Office and Duties.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—In the house to-day the bill amending the alien-contract law passed without opposition, as did also the bill prohibiting the employment of contract labor on public works and the bill to prohibit the purchase of supplies which are the product of convict labor by the United States.

Representative Dalzell to-day submitted to the house, in behalf of the minority of the house committee on Pacific railroads, a report in opposition to the bill for funding the debt of the Central and Union Pacific roads. The minority are unanimous in the opinion that the railway companies are not justified in asking for any arrangement upon business principles except upon the basis that that shall pay the uttermost farthing of their debts. They are clearly of the opinion as a plain business proposition that the bill reported by the majority gives an unjust advantage to the debtors and fails to do justice to the government.

IN THE SENATE.

In the senate Morgan presented the resolutions of a colored mass meeting in Birmingham, Ala., against the passage of the Federal election bill.

Several unimportant bills of local character were passed and the tariff bill then taken up, the pending questing being Carlisle's motion to strike out the wool paragraphs, so as to place wool on the free list.

After considerable debate a vote was taken and Carlisle's motion was rejected; yeas 17; nays 27—a strict party vote.

OUR POSTOFFICES.

Clarkson Finishes His Work as Assistant Postmaster General.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Clarkson, first-assistant postmaster general, has practically concluded his service in the postoffice department to-day. The president much desired his further continuance in his place, but Clarkson was unable to remain longer. He will assume the presidency of the Judson Pneumatic Railroad, which applies new principles to locomotive and motive power in cities. In nearly eighteen months in office he has established 5,660 new postoffices. In presidential offices 2,217 appointments have been made during [illegible] leaving only 400 [illegible] changed [illegible]

A Young Man Accidentally Gets Caught in the Ropes of a Balloon.

WOODFORD, Ohio, August 30.—This was the last day of the fair here and more than 10,000 people assembled to see the final races and balloon ascension by Professor Carter, a well-known aeronaut. The balloon was a simple hot air affair and was kept in its position over a furnace by ropes held by bystanders. When it had been inflated and all ready, Carter gave the word to let go. The balloon shot upward and thousands of spectators were horrified to see dangling at the end of the line, Milton Redin, the most prominent young man of the company and an officer of the fair association. Hundreds of persons shouted for him to drop, but Redin was either entangled or had lost his head, and he clung frantically to the rope, attempting to climb up the slender line into the basket. A number of women in the dense crowd fainted and all the spectators grew sick with horror as the balloon sailed upward and began moving southward. Carter could be seen making desperate efforts to draw up the rope on which he swung to and fro. For ten minutes their efforts continued and then at a heighth of over 1000 feet, the balloon took a sudden lurch. Redin's hold was loosened and his body shot downward. It was found half a mile away. The clothing was torn off, all his bones broken and the body crushed out of all human semblance. Redin's brothers and sisters were in the throng and saw his terrible fall.

The Bicycle Races.

BUFFALO, August 30.—The event of the bicycle races to day was the great century run, one hundred miles, from Erie to this city. The starters were McDaniels of Wilmington, Nasmith of Toronto, [illegible]hrist of Tonawanda, Crook of Buffalo and Van Wagoner of Newport. They left Erie at 8:25½ o'clock this morning and although the roads were rather heavy the race resulted in the smashing of the record. Van Wagoner was never headed. He finished the run at 8:05 this evening with McDaniels a good second, Crook third and Nasmith fourth. The winner's time was 7 hours and [illegible] minutes. The former record was eight hours and two minutes.

FROM SALEM.

Our Usual Budget From the State Capital

SALEM, Or., August 30.—[illegible] Johns, of Salem, W. [illegible] and W. H. [illegible] [illegible] will be changed to an iron and glass front, and used as a part of the bank.

Salem defeated the McMinville club here to day. The score stood 21 to 8. On Wednesday next the Portland league nine comes up to play the Salem club.

Wheat is quoted at 67 cents. Hops are contracting at 35 and 40 cents.

Judge Dobbin's Successor.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Thos P. Hawley was to day adpointed United States district judge for Nevada, to succeed the late Judge Sabin.

BETROTHED TO HIS SISTER.

Two Young People, Ignorant of Their Relationship, Fall in Love

Grim and incredulous production of the brains of writers of fiction pale almost into insignificauce in comparison to a story that has come to the surface in Irvington, two miles west of Newark, New Jersey.

A woman's dread secret is revealed by herself under pressure of dire necessity to her only son. The story in a nutshell is that a brother and sister fall deeply in love with each other and become engaged in delightful ignorance of their ties of kindred.

The agonized mother at last tells the boy of her history. The young man rushes from the house and attempts to send a bullet through his brain.

The older residents of Essex county well remember Thomas J. Collins, a wealthy real estate owner of Irvington, which 20 years ago was known as Compton. The old homestead near the banks of the Elizabeth river, a tributary of the Rahway. The romance brought to light in such a tragic manner at Irvington last night begun three years prior to Collins' death. Collins there found the acquaintance and married Mrs. Emily Goodwin, a young and pretty Brooklyn widow, who had sustained herself and niece after the death of her husband by reading [illegible] in a newspaper office and contributed to the [illegible]. They took up [illegible] at Irvington and [illegible]

[illegible] two years [illegible] his return he could claim his bride. The young people were consulted and agreed that it would be just as well for Henry to see the world and study some before settling down. During her son's absense the mother sought by introducing Nellie into society to have her forget Henry and form a deeper attachment for some one else. The young lady was true to the absent lover, however. Saturday the young man arrived in New York and two hours later presented himself at the homestead. As soon as Perry had settled himself he was sent for by his mother. He found her on her knees in her bedroom weeping bitterly. She confessed to having deceived Thomas Collins years ago. Her niece was none other than her daughter, Nellie and Henry were, therefore, brother and sister. He arose and, hurrying from the house, fled to a remote section of the grounds. In a short time the report of a pistol was heard. Realizing the truth, Mrs. Collins rushed through the fields, followed by Nellie Richardson, who wondered what it all meant. Henry was found bleeding and unconscious on the ground. He was removed to his home and his wound examined. It was found that the bullet had plowed a furrow through the scalp, but had barely fractured the skull. The young man bled freely, but will shortly recover.
