We are requested to announce that every one interested in having, or not having, a recount of the census for the entire state, will please attend a public meeting of the citizens of this city to be held at the council chambers in Old Fellow's temple on next Monday evening, the 15th inst. at 7:30 o'clock sharp, to consider whether it is best for Albany to join in demanding a recount for the entire state.

A Disastrous Fire.

The Jefferson Review says: Last Saturday about our clock to the afternoon a dense volume of smoke was seen to spring suddenly up in the south part of town. F. J. Richardson's house, about a half a mile from town, was on fire. Almost the entire population of the city was soon at the scene of the fire; but was too late to render any material help toward saving the house or any of its contents. Mr. Richardson was the only man on the premises, except a sick son, when the fire broke out. He immediately dispatched his daughter for help, who gave the alarm in town. The fire originated from sparks which were blown from E. N. Thomas's pasture where that gentleman was burning a saw brush. All that was saved from the fire was a sewing machine, bureau, three leather beds, five quilts, some books, two trunks that belonged to Frank Richardson. The winter supply of clothing and provisions had been bought for the entire family, which makes the blow fall very hard. Most all that was saved belonged to Frank, but it was nothing compared to what he lost. His loss is over $1000 in cash, tools and jewelry, which coming as it does, after a long and severe sickness, makes his loss seem all the worse. The actual loss to the people can not be estimated from a cash value. It was the accumulation of a life time— presents, books, pictures, and all these little gifts and knick-knacks which are so dear to the owner, but of little value in cash— was all swept away and can never be replaced. The estimated cash value is placed at $3,000. Mr. Richardson's loss is about $2,500 and Frank's about $1000.

A Big Pier, Finished.

The Salem Statesman says: The work of constructing the big central pier of the bridge now being constructed across the Willamette at Salem came to a close yesterday morning, and is soon as the shell could be made the men were shoveling concrete into the framework for the second pier, which is on the Polk county side. This pier will be 58 feet in height, 19 1/2 feet in width and 42 feet in length at the base. The structure will gradually lessen in size as it rises, just as does the larger pier. The pier that has just been completed is 72 feet high and is a firm standard. The work of building the bridge will be pushed to a completion as rapidly as possible, and portions of the labor. A part of the force will in a few days begin placing in position the iron for the long span, and Marion and Polk counties will have a bridge almost before the people are looking for it.

Railroad Extension.

Railroads on paper continue to rapidly expand. If they would materialize it would be a fine thing. The Eugene Guard says: We have heard railroad talk this week to the effect the Oregonian Railway would build another branch across the Willamette at Springfield, and from Eugene would build on to the Siuslaw, then to Coos Bay. It was also said that the west side road would not come to a junction but would make a connection with the Oregonian road at some point west of Eugene. These are rumors, and the scheme looks feasible on paper. A road from Eugene to Coos Bay would pass through a good section of country, and would be comparatively a cheap road to build.

It Should Stay.

The Statesman says there is no danger of the Willamette river being removed from its channel by the people of the Capital City. It shows a fine association of the value of the institution. A hundred thousand dollars is needed for new buildings. This should be easily raised right here in the next two or three years, or so. If every person interested in Salem's prosperity and future will lend his hearty assistance, it will not be a hard matter to secure this money for new buildings.

A Shooting Party.

A fine shooting party of yesterday says that an exciting shooting party occurred at the residence of J. C. Gray, ex-county treasurer, shortly after 10 o'clock. The occasion was a father trying to get possession of his children by force. A new year's ago, Mrs. Louise Gray was married to E. E. Russell of Albany. The fruits of their marriage were two children, a boy and a girl. Mr. and Mrs. Russell were not living happily together, and about two months ago Mrs. Russell came to live with her parents, bringing the children with her. It is determined to have the children, followed her and has been here for six weeks. He is reported to have said that he would have them if he had to kill the whole Gray family. This afternoon he tried to get the children. A way held his horse in the alley while he went to the house and demanded the children. Mrs. Gray was present, and refused the demand. He attempted to take them by force, when Hugh Gray came to his mother's assistance, and the three engaged in a lively struggle. Russell struck Hugh, for which he received a cut with a penknife on the arm. He then drew a large revolver and aimed at Mrs. Gray. Hugh grabbed the pistol, and it was discharged in the hall. Russell was killed and will have a preliminary examination to-morrow.

Fine Work.

Yesterday the metal top for the Methodist Church steeple was taken from Hopkins Bros. shop to the painters to be painted. It is placed in position. It is an elegant piece of work and will be a fitting crown for the fine church that is being erected, and Albany exhibits a specimen of its growth and enterprise when work of this distinction is turned out from her shops.

Large Tank.

Smith & Senders yesterday fitted up a large tank for the residence of Mr. Wm. Davis, now in course of erection in the eastern part of the city. They have built quite a number of these tanks during the season, the largest of which went to the hotel in Mill City to be supplied by a hydraulic ram in the basement of the mill.

The object is certainly one that commends itself to every thinking person, and it is to be hoped that a full delegation will be elected and attend from every local board in the state.

The Sewer is All Right.

The rumor that the large sewer on Railroad street, constructed last year, had caved in, is entirely without foundation. It was examined yesterday and found in good condition, excepting a few feet at the ending of work that had been left without proper finishing. An excavator went the entire length of it and found it in good condition.

pleaded the citizens so much on their appearance here about a year ago, as coming again. They will be here on the 22nd of this month, and will be greeted by a full house, for they are good. On their appearance at Huron, Dakota, the Leader of that place said: "Those who attended the vocal and instrumental treat at the opera house last Saturday night profited by the Oakes Swiss Bell Ringers and Comely Company. They were a little out of the common order of traveling troupes. They frequently visited the house in attendance, who favorably expressed themselves in relation to the entire exercise. The solos were excellent. The English comedian, Harry Eadie, with his mirth provoking melody and his funny faces, interested the crowd amazingly. Frank Hollister, the artistic banjoist and character vocalist, was entertained to the very best. It was an agreeable and interesting affair. The company will do well to come again."
