PROOFOF THE PUDDING ETC.

THE silver question still continues to be a leading topic of discussion, and the theorists are as busy as ever in their prognostications. The Boston Herald says: "The address of Mr. Edward At kinson at the meeting of the Amerie in Bankers' Association at Saratoga deserves to be read both by sitver inflationists and those who stand in dread of silver inflation. because of the strong light that it throws upon the factors that determine values, and the illustration it affords of the insignificant part that absolute currency plays in the great processes of exchange. It is Mr. Atkinson's opinion-supported, we may add, by the wellr asoned out arguments of a number of economic writers who have recently treated this subject-that the range of prices is determined very much more by credit than by the volume of actual currency that if the interjection of a large amount of silver into our currency had the effect of seriously diswould be, not a rise, but a fall in prices. As the clearances in the banking associations of the United States will this year rise to more -enting almost entirely exchanges of credit, without the direct intervention of currency of any kind, it thing depends upon $1,600,000,00 or $1,800,000,000 in absolute circu lation. Mr. Atkinson is on the currency question, as on some other subjects, strongly optimists in his beliefs, and if we are to trus him the demands of silver with a a very few years will be far in exvalue of the metal is inevitable. From this point of view the actio of the United States Treasury De partment merely interfer a wit and may temporarily arrest natural upward movement in price As silver, in spite of the fact that it is in a number of countries a are carried on where easy pay ments are made, its use, and were by use, must increase with in-

> THERE'S of the men under arecfor their supposed connection with the train-wrecking near Albany a fortnight ago are said to have conconfessed. As described in a Tray despa ch, the alleged confessors assert that the men paid no attention to the peril of passengers when they builtheir fiendish plot but were intent on injuring and embarrassing the radroad company. Such confessions, if they have been made, should be the means of consigning to swift and condign punishment the authors of a diabolical crime.
